Red's Friction May Hike Fund For U. S. Militia

High Command Will Request Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Military High Command is reported to have told Senators today that if friction with Russia contines it may have to ask Congress next year for a huge boost in funds to "modernize" the Army, Navy and Air Forces.

Top generals and admirals held a meeting with members of the Senate Armed Services Committee. They were said to have put the committee on notice that the military forces are scraping the bottom of the barrel on wartime equipment.

Preparedness Cited

The point was made, some Senators said, that the United States cannot afford to permit its military arm to wither as long as world conditions remain turbulent.

The cost of the new equipment, much of which would go to the ground forces, was not disclosed. But in this connection, Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, chief of the Army-Navy-Air Force Joint Staff, was quoted as saying the ground forces had not had any new tools, including such items as tanks, since the war ended.

Some of those present said the over-all program of military preparedness outlined by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Omar Bradley, his successor as Army Chief of Staff, might require half again more than the $11,000,000,000 military fund President Truman asked Congress to vote for the year beginning July 1.

There was even some talk, it was said, of the possibility that the Armed Services budget might reach $20,000,000,000 in the event Congress approves universal military training.

Eisenhower told the Senators that the training program is needed for the new kind of war this country may have to fight some day. However, there was said to have been no intimation from him or others that they expect war in the next few years.

Agree On Attack

But he and others present at a meeting presided over by Secretary of Defense Forrestal were said to have agreed that, if war comes, the United States probably will be attacked first with atomic bombs and other aerial weapons.

Trained men will be needed, the general was quoted as saying, to reorganize the devastated cities and carry on.

Eisenhower and Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of the Air Force, were reported agreed that 1,000,000 men would be required to occupy and guard far-flung bases from which aerial counter attacks could be launched.

Beyond that, they said trained ground forces will be required to capture and hold enemy territory and to deliver the killing thrust to an opponent.

U. S. Shipping For Holy Land To Be Searched

Freighters Will Put In At Haifa

JERUSALEM, Jan. 27 (INS) — The Palestine Government has ordered all American freighters bound fo rTel Aviv to put in at Haifa for inspection of their cargos beforehand in a move to prevent smuggling of Zionist arms into the Holy Land.

The government action was revealed by the American Consulate and follows the recent discovery of a large quantity of explosives aboard a Palestine-bound freighter at a Jersey City, N. J. pier.

Tel Aviv port authorities, taking the first action on the new ban, last night ordered the 600-ton American freighter, Export, to leave its anchorage off Tel Aviv and proceed to Haifa for inspection.

Violence continued in scattered parts of the Holy Land today, bringing the unofficial casualty toll since outbreak of the current partition disorders Nov. 29 to 1,163 dead and 937 wounded.

This includes 695 Arabs, 409 Jews, 24 British soldiers, 14 policemen and 21 civilians killed.

The official casualty toll lists 415 Arabs and 380 Jews killed, and a total of 1,832 wounded.

The old city of Jersaleum had its quietest day since the United Nations voted to partition the Holy Land and one report cropped up that an Arab-Jewish truce had been declared in the area.

Another report said a truce also was declared in Haifa.

The Arab district of the city held an election to pick a committee to represent Arabs in the Jerusalem area. An Arab officer who had served with the British Eighth Army was selected to direct the Arab "defense" of the Holy City.

Rabbi Aba Hillel Silver, American Zionist leader, was urgently summoned to return to the United States to participate in partition talks between the Jewish agency and the U. S. State Department.

Agency circles said the reason for the summons may have been a cooling off of the State Department's attitude on partition, due perhaps to the mounting violence in Palestine.

Other Jewish sources reported, meanwhile, that Haganah, the Jewish Defense Army, has resumed unity negotiations with the more militant Irgun Zvai Leumi on the basis of a plan to establish a special brigade within the framework of the larger Haganah organization.

It was said that the negotiations were a prelude to launching of an imminent large-scale military operation against an estimated 3,000 foreign-led Arab volunteers who infiltrated Palestine from Syria and Trans-Jordan.

The prediction was made that an agreement between Haganah and Irgun Zvai Leumi would be reached this weekend.

$6.3 Billion Slash Voted By GOP Group

Democrats Split On Truman Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — (AP) — Republicans snowed under President Truman's tax proposal today and rammed their own $6,300,000,000 tax-slashing measure through the House Ways and Means Committee on a 15 to 9 party line vote.

Democrats themselves split on the President's proposal, which was rejected 19 to 5. But they threw up a solid wall of opposition to the GOP measure.

Committee Republicans ignored a promised Presidential veto in sending their bill to the House floor.

One prominent GOP member told reporters privately, however, the Senate must reduce the size of the tax cut in order to pick up enough Democratic votes in both Houses to overcome a veto.

Debates Begin Thursday

House debate will begin Thursday with a showdown vote set for next Monday. The bill then will go to the Senate for whatever revisions that body wants to make.

Many Democrats show willingness to vote for some tax cut but consider the GOP Bill too much. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said it would put the government $2,100,000,000 in the red next year.

The GOP Bill as drawn by Ways and Means Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) grants tax reductions ranging from 100 per cent in the lowest income area to 10 per cent in the upper brackets.

It would strike over 7,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls, altogether and grant substantial cuts to the rest of the 52,000,000 taxpayers.

Only five of the nine Democrats present in committee, voting behind closed doors, supported Mr. Truman's tax proposal, offered by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.) as a substitute for the Knutson Bill.

The President asked a $40 a person "cost of living" tax reduction with a new $3,200,000,000 excess profits levy on corporations to make up the revenue loss.

Mr. Truman's proposal would remove 10,300,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls.

Would Raise Exemptions

The Republican Bill, approved by the committee today, would raise individual exemptions from $500 to $600. This means an estimated 6,000,000 low income persons wouldn't have to pay any more income taxes. Cost to the treasury: about $2,000,000,000.

It also would permit husbands and wives to divide the family income equally for tax reporting purposes, thus putting the couple in a lower tax bracket. A dozen states now permit such income splitting by local law. Nationwide application would cost the treasury between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000.

In addition, the bill gives over $2,600,000,000 in percentage cuts, as follows:

Economic Advisor Named On Grain Speculator List

738 Government Employes Checked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(INS)—Walter S. Salant, an international expert who helped prepare a report on the Marshall Plan and interim European Aid Needs for President Truman, was named today as a commodity speculator.

Salant was one of 738 government speculators named in a list issued by Agriculture Secretary Anderson. His brother, William, Assistant Chief of the Financial and Economic Affairs for the U. S. Military Government in Germany, was also shown to have dealt in commodities.

Ambassador Is Named

The list, first of a new series, also named an ambassador, the new assistant director of the Federal Budget, a Senator, two senate secretaries and four employes of the Commodity Credit Corp., the agency which makes vast federal purchases of foodstuffs.

The envoy was James M. Bruce, U. S. Ambassador to Argentina, and the Senator was Elmer Thomas (D) Okla., former chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee whose records are under study by the Senate Subcommittee on speculation. This was the first listing of the Senator's name.

Listed also was Frank Page, Jr., who was sworn in today as Assistant Director of the Federal Budget at a $10,000 salary. Pace was formerly executive assistant to ex-Postmaster General Robert Hannegan who retired recently as chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

The Senate secretaries were Miss Beth Gage, on the staff of Thomas, and Harry C. Westphal, aide to Sen. Bushfield (R) S. D.

Salant, who helped to prepare a report on the Marshall Plan and interim aid needs for President Truman, is on the staff of the Chief Executive's Council of Economic Advisers.

He said the report on which he worked and which went to the President from the council, covered the general international picture.

Change Termed Snyder Victory

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (INS)—The selection of Thomas B. McCabe for the chairmanship of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to replace Marriner S. Eccles is another major move by President Truman in changing the gallery of portraits of personalities of the New Deal.

Wall Street, which has chafed under the high margins imposed by Eccles, was elated with the announcement of a change in leadership.

Unquestionably the Street would have been better satisfied if Eccles had withdrawn completely from the board.

Victory For Treasurer

Incidentally, the removal of Eccles also is regarded as a victory for Secretary of the Treasury Snyder. Differences between the treasury and the Federal Reserve System have occurred frequently. The most recent breach was in the Treasury coolness to Eccles' proposed formula for different reserves against liabilities created by treasury borrowing.

The Federal Advisory Committee, consisting of appointees of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, also rejected Eccles' scheme.

As chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, McCabe has been active in heightening the prestige of that regional bank within the system. McCabe, with his zest for public service, was active in the Lend-Lease Administration, and later as special executive in charge of surpluses in Europe.

Those who have had contacts with McCabe regard him as more sympathetic to conventional business and banking methods than Eccles.

Although Eccles was early among the New Dealers in switching from an inflationary to a counter-inflationary course, he has been an unabashed advocate of what he calls the theory of a "compensated economy."

Under this concept, originated by the late Lord John Maynard Keynes, the Federal Government is supposed to increase its rate of spending whenever private business sags. One trouble with such economic planning is that it begs the basic question of diagnosing the causes of contraction of private industry.

Harm Venture Capital

In the thinking of Wall Street, Eccles' theories, applied in practice, have contributed, with the confiscatory tax system in the middle and upper income brackets, to drying up the reservoirs of venture capital.

The high margins introduced by Eccles constituted merely a single expression of his attitude.

Whether with Eccles still on the board, McCabe, with only one vote, can convert enough of his new colleagues to an opposite course remains to be seen. Even the attempt will test his quality of leadership to the utmost.

That President Truman demoted Eccles at this time is regarded as an indication that the Chief Executive regarded him as a political liability in an election year. In addition to his differences with the Treasury, Eccles has been needled continually by journalistic critics.

AFL Recommends Price Controls

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—The AFL high command today recommended limited price controls and rationing and a Congressional inquiry into profiteering as part of the war on inflation.

New wage demands will be made in the spring, however, AFL President William Green reiterated, because the chances are slim for rolling back prices sufficiently to head off union cries for higher pay.

"The enemies of Democracy are confidently expecting the collapse of America's economy and the consequent frustration of our efforts to preserve world peace and freedom," the executive council of 15 top AFL leaders said in a formal statement.

"In this hope, they are counting upon inflation as their most powerful ally," the council said, without naming the "enemies" they had in mind. "They believe our free enterprise system will destroy itself through greed and unbridled profiteering."

French Premier's Free Gold Bill Runs Into Snag

Parliament Votes Measure Out 17-15

PARIS, Jan. 27— (AP) —Premier Robert Schuman's money program ran into Parliamentary opposition today.

The bill to establish a free gold market in Paris appeared doomed, in its present form at least. Socialists joined Communists and DeGaullists in fighting the program, and the National Assembly's Finance Commission rejected the Gold Trade Bill, 17 to 15. There were five abstentions in the committee.

The life of the two-months-old Schuman Cabinet was not yet endangered by the opposition of the Socialists, who are represented strongly in the cabinet.

Contains Three Parts

Schuman's program had three parts:

1. Devaluation of the franc. This was put into effect by government decree on Sunday and cannot be changed by parliament.

2. Creation of a free money market in France, which also was established by decree and therefore untouched by Parliamentary opposition.

3. The Free Gold Bill which must be approved by Parliament.

The decision of the Finance Committee meant the measure would be sent to the Assembly with an unfavorable report for final action.

There were several unclarified points raised by the decision of the Socialists at a caucus of deputies to oppose the measure in its present form.

Socialist Ministers in the cabinet approved the Gold Bill before it was sent to the Assembly. It was unknown whether Schuman would permit their remaining in the cabinet now that the deputies had reversed the party's position.

In introducing the measure to parliament yesterday, Schuman told the deputies it would permit them to express their views on the entire three-point program. It was not clear whether he would recognize a defeat on the gold measure as a vote against the rest of the program.

Withhold Final Stand

In declaring they would vote against the Gold Bill in its present form the Socialists did not say how they would act if Schuman staked the government's life on the measure and attached a vote of confidence to it.

Socialist deputies explained their opposition to the measure by saying they did not consider its provisions for a 25 per cent tax on hoarders who turned in their gold stocks was high enough. They also said they believed the government should reopen negotiations with Britain and the International Monetary Fund in Washington for agreement on devaluation of the franc and creation of a free money market.

Bill To Control Grain For Liquor Rejected 12-9

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A bill to continue curbs on the use of grain in whisky-making died in the House Banking Committee today on a 12-9 vote.

Government control powers end next Saturday. The measure extending them through February was hurried through the Senate by voice vote last Friday.

Intended to save grain, the authority was used by the agriculture department to hold most distillers to 2,500,000 bushels this month. A department spokesman told the committee this may have saved about 5,000,000 bushels for the month.

It was reported unofficially that two Democrats joined the Republican majority to kill the bill.

Rep. Spence (D-NY), senior Democrat on the committee, told reporters that he opposed the bill, and that he doubted whether it saved any grain.

Molotov To Clear Outside Contacts

MOSCOW, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Soviet Union today established the Foreign Affairs Ministry headed by V. M. Molotov as the supreme clearing house for all contacts with the outside world.

This was announced in a decree issued by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament).

It provides that virtually all relations between foreigners and Soviet institutions must be handled through the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade.

This applies to foreigners both inside and outside the Soviet Union. The only exceptions for foreigners inside Russia apply to those institions taking care of every day needs such as the posts and telegraph, railways, restaurants, stores and housing.

Any communications to a Soviet official or institution from a foreign source must be referred to Mr. Molotov's ministry. Any written communication in reply will be issued by his ministry.

The new law, replacing a 1926 statute, subjects violators to punishment under the criminal code.

The purpose of the new law, said the decree, is to introduce a uniform system in relations between Soviet institutions and their officials with those of foreign states.

Exceptions may take place only with specific legal authority under an international treaty or with special permission of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The decree authorizes the Ministry of Foreign trade to conduct relations with foreign embassies, Trade missions and commercial attaches, but requires consultations with the Foreign Affairs Ministry on questions of principle that may arise.

The decree provides further that relations between the Ministry of Armed Forces with Foreign Naval, Air or Military attaches must be worked out by the council of ministers.

If a direct personal inquiry is made by a foreign official to an institution in Russia the person must be referred to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs or trade. The Soviet organization to which the inquiry is made must inform the Ministry of Foreign Affairs that such inquiry has been made.

Iraq's Premier Quits As Mobs Protest Treaty

70 Die, 300 Are Wounded In Riots

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Jan. 27 (AP)—The cabinet of Premier Salih Bey Al Jabur resigned tonight after 24 hours of rioting in which 70 persons were reported killed and more than 300 wounded.

The resignation signified collapse of Salih Bey's fight for ratification of the British-Iraqi treaty of friendship and mutual military aid he signed in London 12 days ago.

Regent Abdul Illah announced the resignation in a broadcast to the nation, and appealed for restoration of order. Police exchanged fire with anti-treaty demonstrators. One report said a private plane machine-gunned demonstrators crossing a bridge during the height of the rioting.

Treaty Protested

News that the treaty had been signed Jan. 15 touched off riots in which 11 persons were killed. These finally were quieted by the regent who promised that no treaty would be ratified which did not guarantee Iraq's "natural aspirations."

The unrest bubbling under the surface erupted again last night after Salih Bey returned from England and announced he would remain in office and fight for treaty ratification.

The treaty would give Britain the right to send troops into Iraq in event of war or imminence of war. British rights to occupy two air fields in Iraq would be surrendered, but British planes could use the fields. The treaty called also for continued training and equipping of the Iraq army by the British.

Pact Is Denounced

Demonstrators who had previously denounced the pact as "written in ink and repudiated in blood" surged into the streets of the capital last night.

Armed with sticks and stones and a few firearms, they battled with police.

The rioting spread to other cities in Iraq. A number of government buildings were set fire and one British building was wrecked.

Four ministers and 34 deputies resigned before the rest of the cabinet quit. Among them was Abdul Aziz Qassa, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

Police prevented the demonstrators from reaching the home of Salih Bey. They were foiled also from smashing their way into the Council of Ministers.

U. Of Md. Professor's Death Termed "Suicide"

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 27—(AP)—Dr. William Gilbert Eckles, 48, professor of Educational Administration at the University of Maryland, was found dead today, a gunshot wound in the mouth.

Dr. James I. Boyd, Prince Georges County Medical Examiner, termed the death a suicide. He said Dr. Eckles left a note complaining of ill health.

The body was found in a basement den at the professor's home by his widow.

Gas Shortage Hits Auto Industry

DETROIT, Jan. 27—(INS)—Detroit's giant automotive industry was faced tonight with a forced six-day shutdown that will idle more than 200,000 production workers because of a natural gas shortage aggravated by continued cold weather.

Approximately 60 factories were notified this afternoon by the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company that service would be suspended tomorrow afternoon until February 3. The plants concerned had just resumed operations this morning after a similar one-day ban.

Michigan Consolidated President Henry Fink said the industrial users were being deprived of gas supplies to insure adequate heating for householders in the face of weather forecasts indicating zero temperatures for the rest of the week.

The manufacturers affected include all of the major auto makers in the metropolitan area. The Ford Motor Company will be the only large auto plant to continue operations. The Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn is supplied by its own natural gas.

New Quakes Scare Panay Islanders

MANILA, Jan. 27 (INS)—Hundreds of panic-stricken inhabitants of Iloilo on Panay Island continued to move into the hills today as three more quakes hit the city.

Iloilo and its vicinity have been rocked for three successive days, during which 52 distinct shocks were felt.

The latest trio of shocks were described as "after-shocks" following Sunday's big quake which took a toll of at least 21 lives in five of the Republic's islands.

The Philippine Weather Bureau, in an effort to allay panic and check the stampede of Iloilo residents, told authorities that the after-shocks were likely to diminish in intensity.

Panay Island was the hardest hit of the five islands.

Estimates based on incomplete reports reaching Manila put property damage at well over $1,000,000.

In addition to the 21 deaths, scores of people were injured by tumbling masonry and falling walls.

MacArthur's Return Seen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.) said tonight he expects General Douglas MacArthur to return to the United States about April 15. He would not go into detail on the basis of his expectations except to tell a reporter it is possible some Congressional Committee may invite the General home to report on the situation in Japan.

Alabama Governor Seeks Presidential Nomination

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 27 (INS)—Alabama Governor James E. Folsom entered the Democratic race for President today in a direct and self-announced "challenge" of President Truman's party leadership. Folsom charged the Chief Executive is "hogtied" by special interests.

The six-foot, eight-inch Southern Chief Executive said he is ready "to go to Washington and use the old corn shuck mop on the Democratic party" to rid it of "Wall Street lawyers, professional soldiers and State Department fancy pants."

Folsom chose a scheduled "dinner table speech" over a statewide radio hookup today to announce his intention. He told his listeners that he was asking them for a mandate in the form of a delegation vote at the Philadelphia convention.

Folsom declared:

"If you send me to Philadelphia as your favorite son for President I will challenge the present leader of our party. I will have your mandate to fight."

Folsom listed six "preliminary planks in his Presidential platform." Foremost among them was his pledge to "throw the monopolists, the Wall Street lawyers and the grain speculators back to the Republicans where they belong."

The Alabama Governor also pledged himself to demand that the United States Government recall its representatives at the Vatican. He stated:

"As a good Democrat I think my government ought to send an ambassador to all the churches, or to none of them."

Folsom also came out for a low tariff, and sweepingly promised "to fight to cover the whole United States with TVA's." He added:

"That's not my full program, but it gives you an idea of the kind of a program we real Democrats can fight for."

Timber Cutters Will Resume Work Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—Wilbur Coffman, International Representative of the United Construction Workers, a United Mine Workers affiliate, said tonight that 8,000 of the 11,000 timber cutters and sawmill operators on strike in three states since January 3 will return to their jobs tomorrow.

Coffman said his action was taken after a meeting of the board of directors of the Tri-State Lumbermen's Association at Framington, Pa., at which it was decided to begin deliveries at once to all companies which had agreed to a 20 per cent rise in the price of timber products.

Massachusetts Mental Hospitals Are Termed "Houses Of Horror"

BOSTON, Jan. 27 (INS)—Charges that some Massachusetts State mental institutions are houses of horror in which inmates have been beaten and robbed and even killed by mistreatment were made today in a report to the State Legislature.

The charges were made by Investigator Lockwood Myrick, North Attleboro in a pamphlet in which he also charged that in at least one instance a man was mistakenly placed in a mental hospital and then kept there by officials in an attempt to "cover up" the case.

Myrick called the alleged confinement of a sane man a modern "Dreyfus scandal" and said his attempts to bring the case to official attention were ignored by Gov. Robert F. Bradford, the Governor's secretary, Lieut. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge, and others.

The North Attleboro investigator presented his charges to the Legislative Committee on Public Welfare. The committee had before it bills sponsored by Myrick and by Rep. Leslie B. Cutler, Needham, calling for legislative investigation of the state's mental hospitals and institutions, some of which were characterized by Myrick as "snake pits."

DAYTON, O., Jan. 28. (INS)—Orville Wright, 76, co-inventor of the airplane, suffered a stroke this afternoon and was rushed to Dayton's Miami Valley Hospital in reportedly "serious" condition.

Truman Moves To Prevent Strike Of 3 National Railway Unions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (INS)—President Truman moved today to head off a threatened strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and two other railway unions.

The President, acting under the National Railway Labor Law, issued an executive order setting up an emergency board to investigate the dispute between the three unions and the carriers.

Involved with the engineers are the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union, representing a total of 125,000 workers.

Government officials explained that 19 other brotherhoods, including the railroad trainmen, headed by A. F. Whitney, agreed last fall to a blanket increase of 15.5 cents an hour, while the three unions involved in the current dispute held out for 30 cents.

They pointed out that the fact that the engineers and enginemen are involved makes the disagreement "critical" inasmuch as a strike would tie up the power end of the nation's railways.

Mr. Truman's action automatically postpones any possible strike action for 60 days. The walkouts had been set for February 1.

Weather Forecast

High Command Will Request Increase

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The Military High Command is reported to have told Senators today that if friction with Russia contines it may have to ask Congress next year for a huge boost in funds to "modernize" the Army, Navy and Air Forces.

Top generals and admirals held a meeting with members of the Senate Armed Services Committee. They were said to have put the committee on notice that the military forces are scraping the bottom of the barrel on wartime equipment.

Preparedness Cited

The point was made, some Senators said, that the United States cannot afford to permit its military arm to wither as long as world conditions remain turbulent.

The cost of the new equipment, much of which would go to the ground forces, was not disclosed. But in this connection, Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, chief of the Army-Navy-Air Force Joint Staff, was quoted as saying the ground forces had not had any new tools, including such items as tanks, since the war ended.

Some of those present said the over-all program of military preparedness outlined by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Omar Bradley, his successor as Army Chief of Staff, might require half again more than the $11,000,000,000 military fund President Truman asked Congress to vote for the year beginning July 1.

There was even some talk, it was said, of the possibility that the Armed Services budget might reach $20,000,000,000 in the event Congress approves universal military training.

Eisenhower told the Senators that the training program is needed for the new kind of war this country may have to fight some day. However, there was said to have been no intimation from him or others that they expect war in the next few years.

Agree On Attack

But he and others present at a meeting presided over by Secretary of Defense Forrestal were said to have agreed that, if war comes, the United States probably will be attacked first with atomic bombs and other aerial weapons.

MANILA, Jan. 27 (INS)—Hundreds of panic-stricken inhabitants of Iloilo on Panay Island continued to move into the hills today as three more quakes hit the city.

Iloilo and its vicinity have been rocked for three successive days, during which 52 distinct shocks were felt.

The latest trio of shocks were described as "after-shocks" following Sunday's big quake which took a toll of at least 21 lives in five of the Republic's islands.

The Philippine Weather Bureau, in an effort to allay panic and check the stampede of Iloilo residents, told authorities that the after-shocks were likely to diminish in intensity.

Panay Island was the hardest hit of the five islands.

Estimates based on incomplete reports reaching Manila put property damage at well over $1,000,000.

In addition to the 21 deaths, scores of people were injured by tumbling masonry and falling walls.

U. S. Shipping For Holy Land To Be Searched

Freighters Will Put In At Haifa

JERUSALEM, Jan. 27 (INS) — The Palestine Government has ordered all American freighters bound fo rTel Aviv to put in at Haifa for inspection of their cargos beforehand in a move to prevent smuggling of Zionist arms into the Holy Land.

The government action was revealed by the American Consulate and follows the recent discovery of a large quantity of explosives aboard a Palestine-bound freighter at a Jersey City, N. J. pier.

Tel Aviv port authorities, taking the first action on the new ban, last night ordered the 600-ton American freighter, Export, to leave its anchorage off Tel Aviv and proceed to Haifa for inspection.

Violence continued in scattered parts of the Holy Land today, bringing the unofficial casualty toll since outbreak of the current partition disorders Nov. 29 to 1,163 dead and 937 wounded.

This includes 695 Arabs, 409 Jews, 24 British soldiers, 14 policemen and 21 civilians killed.

The official casualty toll lists 415 Arabs and 380 Jews killed, and a total of 1,832 wounded.

The old city of Jersaleum had its quietest day since the United Nations voted to partition the Holy Land and one report cropped up that an Arab-Jewish truce had been declared in the area.

Another report said a truce also was declared in Haifa.

The Arab district of the city held an election to pick a committee to represent Arabs in the Jerusalem area. An Arab officer who had served with the British Eighth Army was selected to direct the Arab "defense" of the Holy City.

Rabbi Aba Hillel Silver, American Zionist leader, was urgently summoned to return to the United States to participate in partition talks between the Jewish agency and the U. S. State Department.

Agency circles said the reason for the summons may have been a cooling off of the State Department's attitude on partition, due perhaps to the mounting violence in Palestine.

Other Jewish sources reported, meanwhile, that Haganah, the Jewish Defense Army, has resumed unity negotiations with the more militant Irgun Zvai Leumi on the basis of a plan to establish a special brigade within the framework of the larger Haganah organization.

It was said that the negotiations were a prelude to launching of an imminent large-scale military operation against an estimated 3,000 foreign-led Arab volunteers who infiltrated Palestine from Syria and Trans-Jordan.

The prediction was made that an agreement between Haganah and Irgun Zvai Leumi would be reached this weekend.

AFL Recommends Price Controls

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 27 (AP)—The AFL high command today recommended limited price controls and rationing and a Congressional inquiry into profiteering as part of the war on inflation.

New wage demands will be made in the spring, however, AFL President William Green reiterated, because the chances are slim for rolling back prices sufficiently to head off union cries for higher pay.

"The enemies of Democracy are confidently expecting the collapse of America's economy and the consequent frustration of our efforts to preserve world peace and freedom," the executive council of 15 top AFL leaders said in a formal statement.

"In this hope, they are counting upon inflation as their most powerful ally," the council said, without naming the "enemies" they had in mind. "They believe our free enterprise system will destroy itself through greed and unbridled profiteering."

French Premier's Free Gold Bill Runs Into Snag

Parliament Votes Measure Out 17-15

PARIS, Jan. 27— (AP) —Premier Robert Schuman's money program ran into Parliamentary opposition today.

The bill to establish a free gold market in Paris appeared doomed, in its present form at least. Socialists joined Communists and DeGaullists in fighting the program, and the National Assembly's Finance Commission rejected the Gold Trade Bill, 17 to 15. There were five abstentions in the committee.

The life of the two-months-old Schuman Cabinet was not yet endangered by the opposition of the Socialists, who are represented strongly in the cabinet.

Contains Three Parts

Schuman's program had three parts:

1. Devaluation of the franc. This was put into effect by government decree on Sunday and cannot be changed by parliament.

2. Creation of a free money market in France, which also was established by decree and therefore untouched by Parliamentary opposition.

3. The Free Gold Bill which must be approved by Parliament.

The decision of the Finance Committee meant the measure would be sent to the Assembly with an unfavorable report for final action.

There were several unclarified points raised by the decision of the Socialists at a caucus of deputies to oppose the measure in its present form.

Socialist Ministers in the cabinet approved the Gold Bill before it was sent to the Assembly. It was unknown whether Schuman would permit their remaining in the cabinet now that the deputies had reversed the party's position.

In introducing the measure to parliament yesterday, Schuman told the deputies it would permit them to express their views on the entire three-point program. It was not clear whether he would recognize a defeat on the gold measure as a vote against the rest of the program.

Withhold Final Stand

In declaring they would vote against the Gold Bill in its present form the Socialists did not say how they would act if Schuman staked the government's life on the measure and attached a vote of confidence to it.

Socialist deputies explained their opposition to the measure by saying they did not consider its provisions for a 25 per cent tax on hoarders who turned in their gold stocks was high enough. They also said they believed the government should reopen negotiations with Britain and the International Monetary Fund in Washington for agreement on devaluation of the franc and creation of a free money market.

Bill To Control Grain For Liquor Rejected 12-9

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A bill to continue curbs on the use of grain in whisky-making died in the House Banking Committee today on a 12-9 vote.

Government control powers end next Saturday. The measure extending them through February was hurried through the Senate by voice vote last Friday.

Intended to save grain, the authority was used by the agriculture department to hold most distillers to 2,500,000 bushels this month. A department spokesman told the committee this may have saved about 5,000,000 bushels for the month.

It was reported unofficially that two Democrats joined the Republican majority to kill the bill.

Rep. Spence (D-NY), senior Democrat on the committee, told reporters that he opposed the bill, and that he doubted whether it saved any grain.

Molotov To Clear Outside Contacts

MOSCOW, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Soviet Union today established the Foreign Affairs Ministry headed by V. M. Molotov as the supreme clearing house for all contacts with the outside world.

This was announced in a decree issued by the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament).

It provides that virtually all relations between foreigners and Soviet institutions must be handled through the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade.

This applies to foreigners both inside and outside the Soviet Union. The only exceptions for foreigners inside Russia apply to those institions taking care of every day needs such as the posts and telegraph, railways, restaurants, stores and housing.

Any communications to a Soviet official or institution from a foreign source must be referred to Mr. Molotov's ministry. Any written communication in reply will be issued by his ministry.

The new law, replacing a 1926 statute, subjects violators to punishment under the criminal code.

The purpose of the new law, said the decree, is to introduce a uniform system in relations between Soviet institutions and their officials with those of foreign states.

Exceptions may take place only with specific legal authority under an international treaty or with special permission of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

The decree authorizes the Ministry of Foreign trade to conduct relations with foreign embassies, Trade missions and commercial attaches, but requires consultations with the Foreign Affairs Ministry on questions of principle that may arise.

The decree provides further that relations between the Ministry of Armed Forces with Foreign Naval, Air or Military attaches must be worked out by the council of ministers.

If a direct personal inquiry is made by a foreign official to an institution in Russia the person must be referred to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs or trade. The Soviet organization to which the inquiry is made must inform the Ministry of Foreign Affairs that such inquiry has been made.

Iraq's Premier Quits As Mobs Protest Treaty

70 Die, 300 Are Wounded In Riots

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Jan. 27 (AP)—The cabinet of Premier Salih Bey Al Jabur resigned tonight after 24 hours of rioting in which 70 persons were reported killed and more than 300 wounded.

The resignation signified collapse of Salih Bey's fight for ratification of the British-Iraqi treaty of friendship and mutual military aid he signed in London 12 days ago.

Regent Abdul Illah announced the resignation in a broadcast to the nation, and appealed for restoration of order. Police exchanged fire with anti-treaty demonstrators. One report said a private plane machine-gunned demonstrators crossing a bridge during the height of the rioting.

Treaty Protested

News that the treaty had been signed Jan. 15 touched off riots in which 11 persons were killed. These finally were quieted by the regent who promised that no treaty would be ratified which did not guarantee Iraq's "natural aspirations."

The unrest bubbling under the surface erupted again last night after Salih Bey returned from England and announced he would remain in office and fight for treaty ratification.

The treaty would give Britain the right to send troops into Iraq in event of war or imminence of war. British rights to occupy two air fields in Iraq would be surrendered, but British planes could use the fields. The treaty called also for continued training and equipping of the Iraq army by the British.

Pact Is Denounced

Demonstrators who had previously denounced the pact as "written in ink and repudiated in blood" surged into the streets of the capital last night.

Armed with sticks and stones and a few firearms, they battled with police.

The rioting spread to other cities in Iraq. A number of government buildings were set fire and one British building was wrecked.

Four ministers and 34 deputies resigned before the rest of the cabinet quit. Among them was Abdul Aziz Qassa, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

Police prevented the demonstrators from reaching the home of Salih Bey. They were foiled also from smashing their way into the Council of Ministers.

$6.3 Billion Slash Voted By GOP Group

Democrats Split On Truman Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — (AP) — Republicans snowed under President Truman's tax proposal today and rammed their own $6,300,000,000 tax-slashing measure through the House Ways and Means Committee on a 15 to 9 party line vote.

Democrats themselves split on the President's proposal, which was rejected 19 to 5. But they threw up a solid wall of opposition to the GOP measure.

Committee Republicans ignored a promised Presidential veto in sending their bill to the House floor.

One prominent GOP member told reporters privately, however, the Senate must reduce the size of the tax cut in order to pick up enough Democratic votes in both Houses to overcome a veto.

Debates Begin Thursday

House debate will begin Thursday with a showdown vote set for next Monday. The bill then will go to the Senate for whatever revisions that body wants to make.

Many Democrats show willingness to vote for some tax cut but consider the GOP Bill too much. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder said it would put the government $2,-100,000,000 in the red next year.

The GOP Bill as drawn by Ways and Means Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) grants tax reductions ranging from 100 per cent in the lowest income area to 10 per cent in the upper brackets.

It would strike over 7,000,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls, altogether and grant substantial cuts to the rest of the 52,000,000 taxpayers.

Only five of the nine Democrats present in committee, voting behind closed doors, supported Mr. Truman's tax proposal, offered by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.) as a substitute for the Knutson Bill.

The President asked a $40 a person "cost of living" tax reduction with a new $3,200,000,000 excess profits levy on corporations to make up the revenue loss.

Mr. Truman's proposal would remove 10,300,000 low-income persons from the tax rolls.

Would Raise Exemptions

The Republican Bill, approved by the committee today, would raise individual exemptions from $500 to $600. This means an estimated 6,-000,000 low income persons wouldn't have to pay any more income taxes. Cost to the treasury: about $2,000,-000,000.

It also would permit husbands and wives to divide the family income equally for tax reporting purposes, thus putting the couple in a lower tax bracket. A dozen states now permit such income splitting by local law. Nationwide application would cost the treasury between $600,000,000 and $800,000,000.

In addition, the bill gives over $2,600,000,000 in percentage cuts, as follows:

Gas Shortage Hits Auto Industry

DETROIT, Jan. 27—(INS)—Detroit's giant automotive industry was faced tonight with a forced six-day shutdown that will idle more than 200,000 production workers because of a natural gas shortage aggravated by continued cold weather.

Approximately 60 factories were notified this afternoon by the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company that service would be suspended tomorrow afternoon until February 3. The plants concerned had just resumed operations this morning after a similar one-day ban.

Michigan Consolidated President Henry Fink said the industrial users were being deprived of gas supplies to insure adequate heating for householders in the face of weather forecasts indicating zero temperatures for the rest of the week.

The manufacturers affected include all of the major auto makers in the metropolitan area. The Ford Motor Company will be the only large auto plant to continue operations. The Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn is supplied by its own natural gas.

U. Of Md. Professor's Death Termed "Suicide"

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 27—(AP)—Dr. William Gilbert Eckles, 48, professor of Educational Administration at the University of Maryland, was found dead today, a gunshot wound in the mouth.

Dr. James I. Boyd, Prince Georges County Medical Examiner, termed the death a suicide. He said Dr. Eckles left a note complaining of ill health.

The body was found in a basement den at the professor's home by his widow.

Alabama Governor Seeks Presidential Nomination

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 27 (INS)—Alabama Governor James E. Folsom entered the Democratic race for President today in a direct and self-announced "challenge" of President Truman's party leadership. Folsom charged the Chief Executive is "hogtied" by special interests.

The six-foot, eight-inch Southern Chief Executive said he is ready "to go to Washington and use the old corn shuck mop on the Democratic party" to rid it of "Wall Street lawyers, professional soldiers and State Department fancy pants."

Folsom chose a scheduled "dinner table speech" over a statewide radio hookup today to announce his intention. He told his listeners that he was asking them for a mandate in the form of a delegation vote at the Philadelphia convention.

Folsom declared:

"If you send me to Philadelphia as your favorite son for President I will challenge the present leader of our party. I will have your mandate to fight."

Folsom listed six "preliminary planks in his Presidential platform." Foremost among them was his pledge to "throw the monopolists, the Wall Street lawyers and the grain speculators back to the Republicans where they belong."

The Alabama Governor also pledged himself to demand that the United States Government recall its representatives at the Vatican. He stated:

"As a good Democrat I think my government ought to send an ambassador to all the churches, or to none of them."

Folsom also came out for a low tariff, and sweepingly promised "to fight to cover the whole United States with TVA's." He added:

"That's not my full program, but it gives you an idea of the kind of a program we real Democrats can fight for."

Massachusetts Mental Hospitals Are Termed "Houses Of Horror"

BOSTON, Jan. 27 (INS)—Charges that some Massachusetts State mental institutions are houses of horror in which inmates have been beaten and robbed and even killed by mistreatment were made today in a report to the State Legislature.

The charges were made by Investigator Lockwood Myrick, North Attleboro in a pamphlet in which he also charged that in at least one instance a man was mistakenly placed in a mental hospital and then kept there by officials in an attempt to "cover up" the case.

Myrick called the alleged confinement of a sane man a modern "Dreyfus scandal" and said his attempts to bring the case to official attention were ignored by Gov. Robert F. Bradford, the Governor's secretary, Lieut. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge, and others.

The North Attleboro investigator presented his charges to the Legislative Committee on Public Welfare. The committee had before it bills sponsored by Myrick and by Rep. Leslie B. Cutler, Needham, calling for legislative investigation of the state's mental hospitals and institutions, some of which were characterized by Myrick as "snake pits."

Timber Cutters Will Resume Work Today

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—Wilbur Coffman, International Representative of the United Construction Workers, a United Mine Workers affiliate, said tonight that 8,000 of the 11,000 timber cutters and sawmill operators on strike in three states since January 3 will return to their jobs tomorrow.

Coffman said his action was taken after a meeting of the board of directors of the Tri-State Lumbermen's Association at Framington, Pa., at which it was decided to begin deliveries at once to all companies which had agreed to a 20 per cent rise in the price of timber products.

Truman Moves To Prevent Strike Of 3 National Railway Unions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (INS)—President Truman moved today to head off a threatened strike by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and two other railway unions.

The President, acting under the National Railway Labor Law, issued an executive order setting up an emergency board to investigate the dispute between the three unions and the carriers.

Involved with the engineers are the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union, representing a total of 125,-000 workers.

Government officials explained that 19 other brotherhoods, including the railroad trainmen, headed by A. F. Whitney, agreed last fall to a blanket increase of 15.5 cents an hour, while the three unions involved in the current dispute held out for 30 cents.

They pointed out that the fact that the engineers and enginemen are involved makes the disagreement "critical" inasmuch as a strike would tie up the power end of the nation's railways.

Mr. Truman's action automatically postpones any possible strike action for 60 days. The walkouts had been set for February 1.

Maryland Penitentiary Conditions "Ghastly," Col. Swensen Declares

Asks $250,000 To Make Repairs

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 27 (AP)—Col Edwin T. Swenson, warden, told the Board of Public Works today that conditions at the Maryland Penitentiary were "ghastly."

A program of repairs and changes to cost $250,000 was presented to the board to remedy a situation Swenson said was "not just very necessary but critical."

Harold E. Donnell, superintendent of prisons, and Reuben Oppenheimer, chairman of the Board of Correction, joined Colonel Swenson in a plea for special funds to meet emergency needs at the institution.

The plan includes a new entrance to the institution for better protection of the public, new bath facilities, heightening the present prison wall four feet as a security measure and building a segregation unit for incorrigible prisoners.

Governor Lane said the board faced the problem of where to get the money for the improvements and suggested that the group in consultation with State Engineer John B. Funk present a plan of priorities at the institution.

"We will ask the comptroller's office to see if we can't sweep up the money somewhere for the most necessary work," he said.

Swenson described present special confinement chambers as "medieval."

"It is a foregone conclusion that we are not going to get a new institution," he added. "Our dormitory set-up is without adequate toilet facilities x x x we don't have any place for mentally disturbed prisoners. We don't have a place to take care of a man when he gets there x x x. Approximately 500 of our men are unemployed."

Donnell said that with the recent increase in prison inmates "who need much closer watching" the problem at the penitentiary had become more acute.

Oppenheimer, who opened the group's presentation, said there were many more changes desirable at the institution which were not being asked for now.

Another request for authority to change building plans for the Eastern Shore State Hospital barn brought into the open the question of animal husbandry in the treatment of patients at state institutions.

Ralph H. Grier, chairman of the hospital's board, and Dr. Robert B. May, superintendent, appeared before the board to ask for an addition to the proposed dairy barn.

Family Of Eight Tells Senators About Hard Time

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A soup factory worker and his wife told the Senate Banking Committee today what it's like to raise six children on an income of $2,500 a year.

"We are just existing," said Cyrus J. Waud 36, of Camden, N. J. "We walk into the store and prices are so high we can't reach the shelf."

"We never have orange juice," said Mrs. Waud. "Lois is not well. She is undernourished."

Lois, who is 11 and wears pigtails, stood quietly beside another of the Wauds' daughters.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) called her to him after the Waud budget had been thoroughly explored. He gave her a $5 bill and said he'd fix it up for the family to see the sights of Washington.

Then he said he was calling food company people to testify next week "to find out whether these high prices are justified."

Tobey didn't say what the committee may do about the question before it—whether to give President Truman the power he wants to bring back price control and rationing as a "last resort."

The Wauds and their daughters were brought here by Cyrus' union, the CIO Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers of America, to back up the President's stand.

They did. They told the senators they don't drink, don't smoke and don't go to the movies—but still they can't get by on Cyrus' pay.

"We'll only have about 65 cents worth of meat this week," the husband said. "I can't buy more than 12 quarts of milk a week. We ought to have 28."

Tobey asked how often Mrs. Waud bought a dress.

"Never," she replied.

"Once in a while Mrs. Waud's sister gives her a dress," Cyrus said. That reminded his wife:

"Tell them about your suit," she whispered.

"Oh, my suit—yes," Waud said. "I bought my last suit four years ago. It's wearing pretty good.

The chief of William Salant's division said that while he handled financial and economic matters for the occupation government in Germany, he had no part in preparing the report on Marshall Plan needs which went to Congress.

Admiral Stirling Dies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Retired Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., who stirred up many a public controversy during and after his 48 years in the Navy, died in his sleep today. He would have been 76 on April 30. His failing heart had forced the self-styled "stormy petrel" to discontinue his writing and public appearances over the past two years.

(B) Those with incomes between $1,000 and $1,396 get reductions ranging from 30 to 20 per cent. This affects 14,500,000 persons.

(C) Those with incomes between $1,396 and $4,000 get a 20 per cent reduction. This group numbers about 9,100,000.

(D) Those with incomes (after deductions and exemptions) above $4,000 get a 20 per cent reduction on the tax applicable to the first $4,000, plus 10 per cent on the tax applicable to the remainder of their income. This affects about 1,700,000.

Man, Common-Law Mate Convicted In Slaying

NEVADA CTY, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP)—Joseph L. Hardy, 24, a native of North Kittery, Me., was convicted today of first degree murder for the July 30, "kiss of death' slaying of J. W. McLain.

The Nevada County Jury of six men and six women recommended life imprisonment.

Lois Hunt Hardy, his 20-year-old common-law bride, recently was convicted of participation in the slaying of McLain, a Veterans' Administration employe of Burbank, Calif., and was sentenced to die in the state's gas chamber. She is awaiting the outcome of an automatice appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Hardy, who will be sentenced next Tuesday by Superior Judge James Snell, appeared relieved but in the grip of deep emotion when the verdict was read. He shook hands cordially with his court-appointed attorney, Frank Finnegan, who served without compensation.

McLain picked up the hitch-hiking couple on their way west. The state accused the Hardys of luring the 48-year-old man to a secluded mountain meadow near Truckee on a promise of receiving Lois' favors.

While McLain lay on a blanket in Lois' embrace, the state charged, she turned his head away while Hardy shot him to death with robbery as a motive.

Glass has been made to resist bullets, to filter the sun's rays, to conduct electricity and now to resist fogging in cold weather.

AAUW Group Plans February Program

Plans were made at a recent meeting of the social studies group of Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, to invite recreation representatives from county communities to attend the next regular AAUW meeting, scheduled February 18 at the Gephart School.

Mrs. R. T. Armstrong is chairman of the social studies group, which will be in charge of the February meeting. A feature of the program will be the showing of three sound films on recreation.

Meanwhile, Mrs. William S. Russell, Jr., chairman of the international relations committee, announced that the group will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at her home, 541 Patterson Avenue.

Miss Margaret Baker will discuss "The World Bank, Its Functions and Use." A paper on "International Dollar Value" will be read by Mrs. Albert L. Rogers.

Elect New Officers

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Paul K. Corcoran, Washington, was elected president of the Potomac States Bakers Association at the closing session of the group's 32nd annual convention here today.

He succeeds Louis G. Graeves, also of Washington.

Elected vice-presidents were Charles T. Godwin, Baltimore; Robert L. Storck, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Henry C. Steinle, Wilmington, Del.; Claude O. Skelton, Lynchburg, Va.; and James C. Stephanson, Washington.

Anton Hagel, Baltimore was named treasurer. P. August Grill and Emmet Gary, both of Baltimore, were re-elected counsel and secretary, respectively.

The bakers voted to hold their annual outings at Virginia Beach June 14-16.

Maryland Penitentiary Conditions "Ghastly," Col. Swensen Declares

Asks $250,000 To Make Repairs

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 27 (AP)—Col Edwin T. Swenson, warden, told the Board of Public Works today that conditions at the Maryland Penitentiary were "ghastly."

A program of repairs and changes to cost $250,000 was presented to the board to remedy a situation Swenson said was "not just very necessary but critical."

Harold E. Donnell, superintendent of prisons, and Reuben Oppenheimer, chairman of the Board of Correction, joined Colonel Swenson in a plea for special funds to meet emergency needs at the institution.

The plan includes a new entrance to the institution for better protection of the public, new bath facilities, heightening the present prison wall four feet as a security measure and building a segregation unit for incorrigible prisoners.

Governor Lane said the board faced the problem of where to get the money for the improvements and suggested that the group in consultation with State Engineer John B. Funk present a plan of priorities at the institution.

"We will ask the comptroller's office to see if we can't sweep up the money somewhere for the most necessary work," he said.

Swenson described present special confinement chambers as "medieval."

"It is a foregone conclusion that we are not going to get a new institution," he added. "Our dormitory set-up is without adequate toilet facilities x x x we don't have any place for mentally disturbed prisoners. We don't have a place to take care of a man when he gets there x x x. Approximately 500 of our men are unemployed."

Donnell said that with the recent increase in prison inmates "who need much closer watching" the problem at the penitentiary had become more acute.

Oppenheimer, who opened the group's presentation, said there were many more changes desirable at the institution which were not being asked for now.

Another request for authority to change building plans for the Eastern Shore State Hospital barn brought into the open the question of animal husbandry in the treatment of patients at state institutions.

Ralph H. Grier, chairman of the hospital's board, and Dr. Robert B. May, superintendent, appeared before the board to ask for an addition to the proposed dairy barn.

Family Of Eight Tells Senators About Hard Time

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—A soup factory worker and his wife told the Senate Banking Committee today what it's like to raise six children on an income of $2,500 a year.

"We are just existing," said Cyrus J. Waud 36, of Camden, N. J. "We walk into the store and prices are so high we can't reach the shelf."

"We never have orange juice," said Mrs. Waud. "Lois is not well. She is undernourished."

Lois, who is 11 and wears pigtails, stood quietly beside another of the Wauds' daughters.

Chairman Tobey (R-NH) called her to him after the Waud budget had been thoroughly explored. He gave her a $5 bill and said he'd fix it up for the family to see the sights of Washington.

Then he said he was calling food company people to testify next week "to find out whether these high prices are justified."

Tobey didn't say what the committee may do about the question before it—whether to give President Truman the power he wants to bring back price control and rationing as a "last resort."

The Wauds and their daughters were brought here by Cyrus' union, the CIO Food, Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers of America, to back up the President's stand.

They did. They told the senators they don't drink, don't smoke and don't go to the movies—but still they can't get by on Cyrus' pay.

"We'll only have about 65 cents worth of meat this week," the husband said. "I can't buy more than 12 quarts of milk a week. We ought to have 28."

Tobey asked how often Mrs. Waud bought a dress.

"Never," she replied.

"Once in a while Mrs. Waud's sister gives her a dress," Cyrus said. That reminded his wife:

"Tell them about your suit," she whispered.

"Oh, my suit—yes," Waud said. "I bought my last suit four years ago. It's wearing pretty good.

ing. He explained that a broker with power of attorney bought and sold for his family. His mother, Mrs. Josephine S. Salant, was shown to have dealt in commodities as did his brother, William.

The chief of William Salant's division said that while he handled financial and economic matters for the occupation government in Germany, he had no part in preparing the report on Marshall Plan needs which went to Congress.

AAUW Group Plans February Program

Plans were made at a recent meeting of the social studies group of Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, to invite recreation representatives from county communities to attend the next regular AAUW meeting, scheduled February 18 at the Gephart School.

Mrs. R. T. Armstrong is chairman of the social studies group, which will be in charge of the February meeting. A feature of the program will be the showing of three sound films on recreation.

Meanwhile, Mrs. William S. Russell, Jr., chairman of the international relations committee, announced that the group will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at her home, 541 Patterson Avenue.

Miss Margaret Baker will discuss "The World Bank, Its Functions and Use." A paper on "International Dollar Value" will be read by Mrs. Albert L. Rogers.

Elect New Officers

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Paul K. Corcoran, Washington, was elected president of the Potomac States Bakers Association at the closing session of the group's 32nd annual convention here today.

He succeeds Louis G. Graeves, also of Washington.

Elected vice-presidents were Charles T. Godwin, Baltimore; Robert L. Storck, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Henry C. Steinle, Wilmington, Del.; Claude O. Skelton, Lynchburg, Va.; and James C. Stephanson, Washington.

Anton Hagel, Baltimore was named treasurer. P. August Grill and Emmet Gary, both of Baltimore, were re-elected counsel and secretary, respectively.

The bakers voted to hold their annual outings at Virginia Beach June 14-16.

Admiral Stirling Dies

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27 (AP)—Retired Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., who stirred up many a public controversy during and after his 48 years in the Navy, died in his sleep today. He would have been 76 on April 30. His failing heart had forced the self-styled "stormy petrel" to discontinue his writing and public appearances over the past two years.

There are about 1,100 species of trees native to the United States. Europe, not counting Russia, has only 85.

(B) Those with incomes between $1,000 and $1,396 get reductions ranging from 30 to 20 per cent. This affects 14,500,000 persons.

(D) Those with incomes (after deductions and exemptions) above $4,000 get a 20 per cent reduction on the tax applicable to the first $4,000, plus 10 per cent on the tax applicable to the remainder of their income. This affects about 1,700,000.

Man, Common-Law Mate Convicted In Slaying

NEVADA CTY, Calif., Jan. 27 (AP)—Joseph L. Hardy, 24, a native of North Kittery, Me., was convicted today of first degree murder for the July 30, "kiss of death" slaying of J. W. McLain.

The Nevada County Jury of six men and six women recommended life imprisonment.

Lois Hunt Hardy, his 20-year-old common-law bride, recently was convicted of participation in the slaying of McLain, a Veterans' Administration employe of Burbank, Calif., and was sentenced to die in the state's gas chamber. She is awaiting the outcome of an automatice appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Hardy, who will be sentenced next Tuesday by Superior Judge James Snell, appeared relieved but in the grip of deep emotion when the verdict was read. He shook hands cordially with his court-appointed attorney, Frank Finnegan, who served without compensation.

McLain picked up the hitch-hiking couple on their way west. The state accused the Hardys of luring the 48-year-old man to a secluded mountain meadow near Truckee on a promise of receiving Lois' favors.

While McLain lay on a blanket in Lois' embrace, the state charged, she turned his head away while Hardy shot him to death with robbery as a motive.

Weight Of Voters Opinion Favors Return To Price Control, Rationing

Farmers Only Group To Oppose Legislation

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director,
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 27—With political implications of high living costs much in the minds of all Senators and Congressmen, the weight of voter opinion today favors a return to rationing and price control.

Throughout the country representative voters were interviewed by Institute reporters who asked:

"Do you think the government should or should not put rationing and price controls on some products?"

The national averages:

Approval	48%
Qualified		51%
Approval	3
Disapproval	41
No opinion	8

On Friday the Institute will report what products the public thinks should be placed under price controls.

Qualifications reported by field reporters are significant, and, in general, respect the major blocks to congressional action on prices. The biggest "if" in the minds of voters who qualify their approval is: "if we can have price control without rationing."

Other qualifications are: "If the black market can be eliminated; if the law can be impartially and honestly administered; and if controls are placed on all items, not just some."

This being a presidential election year when Washington's ears are attuned to votes, the opinion of farmers has an important bearing on the fate of price control legislation. And farmers, in contrast to the rest of the population, oppose both rationing and controls by a vote of almost two to one.

On the other hand, manual workers on whom candidates also must keep a wary eye, favor new control legislation almost as strongly as farmers oppose it.

Votes by occupational groups are shown in the following tables:

Occupation	Approve Rationing and Controls	Qualified Approval	Disapprove	No Opinion
Prof. & Bus.	47%	2%	47%	4%
White Collar	49	3	41	7
Farmers	31	1	56	12
Manual workers	53	3	34	10

The same divergence of viewpoints exists between people in the smaller communities in the country and the larger cities:

Size of Town	Approve	Qualified Approval	Disapprove	No Opinion
Farmers	31%	1%	56%	12%
Under 10,000	45	3	43	9
10,000 to 100,000	52	3	37	8
100,000 & over	55	3	35	7

As in past surveys of voter opinion on price controls the present poll reveals strong disagreement between Democrats and Republicans, as follows:

	Approval	Qual. Approval	Disapproval	No op.
Democrats	57%	2%	32%	9%
Republicans	37	3	54	6

Historically, the people of this country have been ready to submit to price controls long before their representatives voted the necessary legislation. Two months before Canada adopted a price-wage control program in 1941, and more than a year before the U. S. took similar steps, the majority of American voters were ready to see similar curbs put into effect in this country.

If Congress bows to Administration wishes and reimposes controls, the United States again will be following the lead of the Dominion government. In anwer to increasing complaints from consumers over surging food costs the Canadian government on January 16 reimposed ceilings on the prices of meat and butter.

A survey made by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion just before the government action showed that 76 per cent of Canadian voters wanted price controls back again and a majority wanted controls placed on all goods.

The American public lost faith in the wartime set of controls between the Spring and Fall of 1946. An Institute survey in May of that year showed seven out of ten voters favoring retention of controls. By early October a slight majority voted to do away with them. President Truman abolished price control on meat October 14 when he asked O.P.A. to speed decontrol generally.

FRIDAY—The second in a series of Gallup Poll articles on price controls will discuss what items in particular American voters want put under price ceilings.

Strange Honeymoon Of Soviet Russia And Germany

One of Fielding's novels, "Jonathan Wild," reports a card game between two shifty prisoners. Though neither had a cent to wager, one stacks the cards, the other picks his pockets. With all due respect to Germany and Russia, the incident is called to mind by the honeymoon between them which lasted from August 3, 1939, when they signed a 10-year "non-aggression" pact, through the German invasion of Poland on Sept. 1, the Russian invasion of Poland on Sept. 17 and its partition Sept. 28, to the German invasion of Russia on June 22, 1941.

Unlike Fielding's characters, neither totalitarian power, of course, was penniless, but each was playing a game for something it did not possess—the Baltic and Balkan States, etc.—and from the start each distrusted the other. What happened is at last set forth in authoritative documents, long secret German Foreign Office records, captured by our armies and now issued in a book of 362 pages by the State Department.

These show that in the summer of 1940 Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov expressed "warmest congratulations" to Germany over her "splendid success" in smashing the western allies. Later that year, when Russia became alarmed by the new three-power pact among Germany, Italy and Japan, the question arose of admitting Russia to what would then be a four-power Axis. Molotov demanded better terms than those in the non-aggression pact, among them a Russian land-and-sea base within range of the Dardanelles, and flat assurance that "the area south of Batum and Baku in the general direction of the Persian Gulf is recognized as the center of operations of the Soviet Union."

That cut across Germany's own territorial aims, and she did not even deign to reply. Soon afterward, December 18, 1941, her secret files show that Hitler ordered his armies "to crush Soviet Russia in a quick campaign even before the conclusion of the war against England." Six months later that impossible task was attempted, blowing up in the following year with the Russian encirclement of the Germans at Stalingrad. Why did Hitler attempt this thing? Probably because he thought Russia would attack him. Like Fielding's heroes, the two totalitarian powers had reason not to trust each other.

"The enemy of your enemy automatically becomes your friend." That was how Russia became an ally of America and Britain. With the war over, Russia resumed the policy of imperialist expansion which she followed, in partnership with Germany, during the first 21 months of the war.

In view of the Arab-Jew duel in Palestine, somebody ought to revive the "Bedouin Love Song" which takes a different angle.

Dissent In CIO Ranks Over Wallace Candidacy

The CIO Executive Board has adopted a resolution opposing a third party in 1948 as "politically unwise." But it couldn't have made President Truman very happy—because 11 of the board's 44 members voted against it. As he must know, this is one of those cases where the minority counts more than the majority.

This resolution puts the CIO officially on record against the candidacy of Henry Wallace. But it doesn't mean that the CIO is united behind President Truman. President Philip Murray has admitted that by saying there is nothing the organization can do "if member unions represented by dissenters in the meeting should decide to support Wallace contrary to the majority . . ."

As a matter of fact, that "if" was purely rhetorical. The dissenters obviously intend to put their unions in the Wallace camp—as far as they can manage it. Harry Bridges, head of the International Longshoremen's Union on the West Coast, has made himself clear on that point already. The others will follow.

Whether this kind of support embarrasses Wallace or not is an open question since Wallace has said he would have to look up what the late President Roosevelt said on that subject before he could commit himself. But it might mean just enough votes, in such states as New York and California, to wreck the Truman campaign.

So the CIO Executive Board's resolution, even if it amounts to an indorsement for the Democrats, will not lead President Truman to think he has a long-term lease on the White House—with or without balcony.

Inflation is an ill wind that does everybody—but good!

Germans Are Hungry

Strikes in the British and American occupation zones in Germany have been causing temporary paralysis in city after city. They have resulted in serious losses of needed production. They have provided an opportunity for Communists to incite some groups to wave banners calling for "Liberty" or "Unity." They are not to be taken lightly.

Yet their significance should not be overemphasized, either. General Clay, the American military commander in Germany, probably has appraised them accurately. Now in Washington to answer congressional questions, he has said that while he does not like the situation he is not worried about it. That is, he is confident the occupation powers will be able to handle it.

His attitude is founded on a number of factors bearing on this problem. For one thing, these strikes are actually demonstrations—a 24-hour work stoppage to protest against short rations is not a strike in the real meaning of that word. For another, they appear to be non-political. And they are aimed at the German authorities rather than the military governments.

So it seems that if the German authorities improve their performance in collecting and distributing food produced in Germany, the trouble will begin to die down. It may disappear if more food is sent to Germany, as General Clay suggests. Food is the answer, at any rate, regardless of where it comes from.

It goes against the grain to send food to Germany but German workers are hungry. They will produce more if they are better fed—and German production is necessary to the recovery of Europe.

Good taste at the table often means more than savory food.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Skin Grafting, An Ancient Practice

SKIN grafting, contrary to general belief, is one of the oldest surgical procedures. Records are available to show that the battle scarred warriors of East India and Egypt 5,000 years ago were just as desirous of receiving surgical repair of facial wounds as our modern veterans. By the time Columbus discovered America, certain physicians had attained considerable skill. Koch, in describing the background of plastic surgery, quotes the Italian, Alexander Benedictus, who wrote in 1947 as follows:

"In our time, skillful persons have taught us how to rectify deformities of the nose. Portions of the flesh, cut from the arm of a patient, formed into the shape of nostrils and, added to the trunk of the nose are commonly seen. They dissect the upper skin of the arm with a razor, and then, paring off the remaining edges of the nostrils or, if necessary, cutting them away, they bind the arm to the head, in order that wound may adhere to wound. After this, the wounds having conglutinated, they take away from the arm with the knife as much as is wanted, for the restoration of the nose; for the kindred vessels of the nose nourish the flesh which is newly acquired. In this manner, with admirable art, new noses are formed, with open nostrils; and. with a bold ingenuity, nature is subjected to our will."

Centuries ago skin grafting was confined mainly to ears, lips, and nose whereas our modern surgeon can cover almost any denuded part of the body. It is not difficult, however, to appreciate why ancient surgeons developed this art if we consider necessity the mother of invention. In that age it was a common practice to punish criminals by cutting off their noses. Furthermore, with swords and knives as weapons, a soldier was lucky to emerge from a battle without having an ear or lip lopped off.

Skin grafting is most useful in covering areas where an ordinary scar would not only prove unsightly but interfere with the movement or function of that part. Contracted tissues on the fingers, for example, might make them so stiff, that the hand would be useless. Such mishaps are not infrequent after burns or if the surface is destroyed through infection, excess radiation, or from a crushing injury. Covering the involved region as soon as possible with new skin hastens recovery and minimizes deformity.

There are various ways in which skin grafting is done but regardless of the technic, the material will not "take" unless it develops a new blood supply. Once applied, its fate depends upon whether the capillaries can grow into the transplanted area before the new cells starve and die from lack of nourishment. A thin layer of epidermis is more likely to survive because it contains less cells to feed. On the other hand, a thicker piece is preferred as it is more durable and can better withstand future irritation and trauma. Surgeons use many ingenious methods in applying these patches, and conditions must be ideal before transplantation is possible.

Yes, surgery is safe if the disease has been given a month or more of treatment.

Things That Add Up

It's the things that add up in a person which finally give to him his outstanding distinction. The pleasand manner, the courageous outlook, the kindly attitude, frankness and honesty of mind. These are a few of the things that add up and give to one an attractive personality.

When in college I noted that the most popular students were not the ones who came from wealthy homes, or who stood the highest in their classes, or those who were the finest in looks— but those who drew the most students about them as friends. Unselfishness was a characteristic. So was thoughtfulness—the little seldom notice things that seem so habitual to the rare few. The unadvertised sacrifice to make another happy.

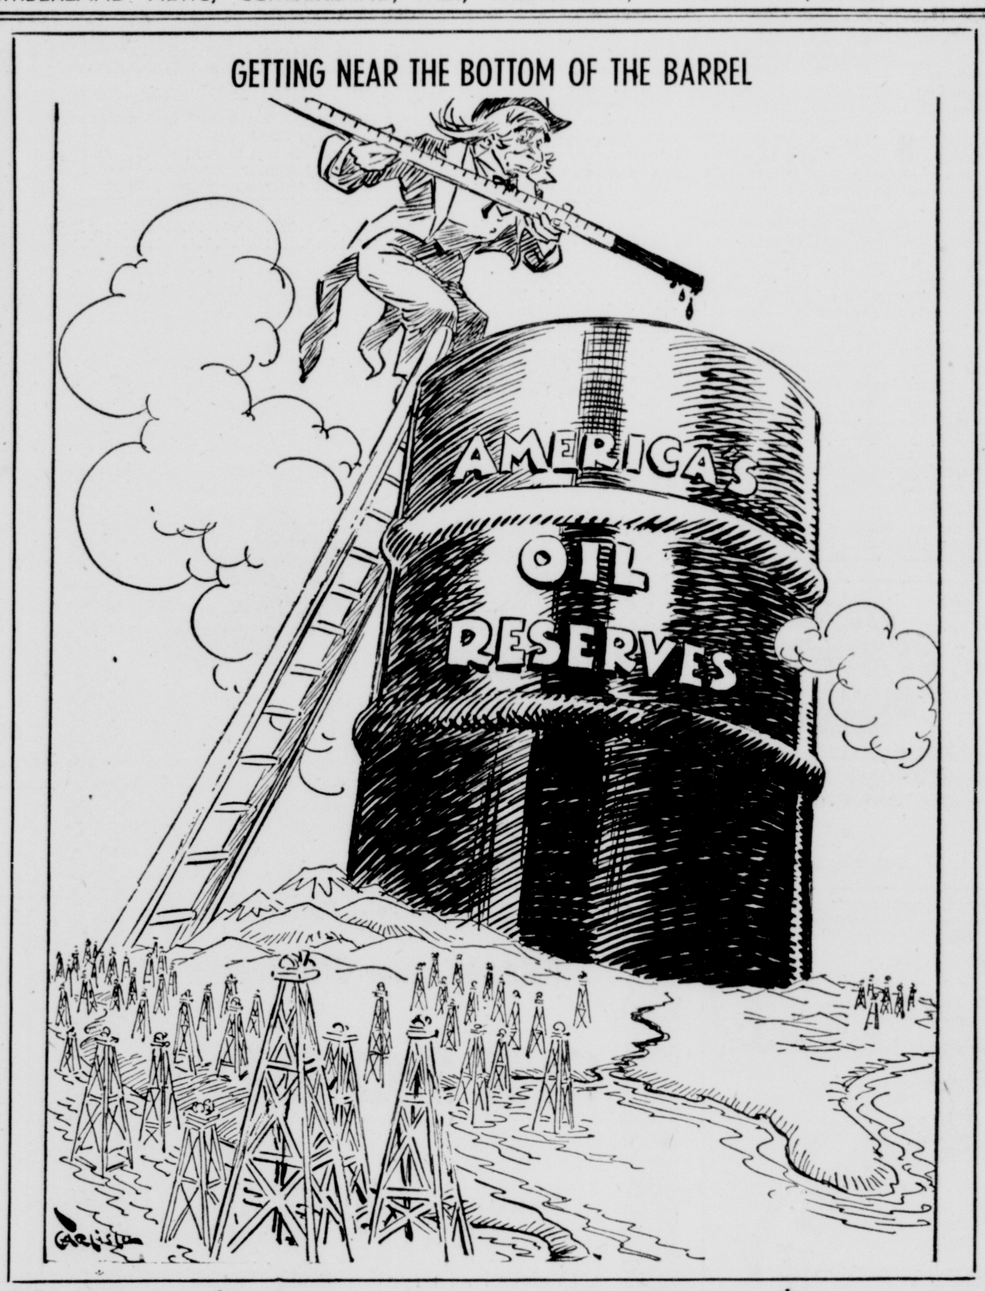

Then there are the smiling courtesies, the morning greetings, and the glad Goodnights. The habitual Thank yous—and the ever ready Please. Simple things—but how they do add up in the appraisal of others! How long since you failed to write that letter you intended to write? Letters add up and often bring happiness never suspected by the writer.

Cheerfulness is something that we all may own, yet look about you—in your office, out upon the street, in your home, among your associates, and as you travel about. How many of them look and act cheerful? What an asset to any organization—a cheerful worker! How begrudgingly many a one works out his day!

I recently read the story of an elevator operator in a business building where everyone loved him, and depended upon him for advice and counsel. He worked there for years and his fame was spread afar by word of mouth, by those who knew him so well. Later, with his savings, he opened up, and made famous, a restaurant which instantly became successful. You see things kept adding up for him, because he kept adding up good deeds for others.

It isn't the money that we earn and set aside in the bank or in some investment that counts up so greatly with us, but what we keep banking in other people, gaining their love and confidence, and habitually loaning out ourselves where we may serve to the highest good.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Deliberately Aimed His "Won't Run" Statement at MacArthur; Row Inside KKK Over Herman Talmadge; Republicans To Accuse Truman

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — When Gen. Douglas MacArthur failed of reappointment to a second term as Chief of Staff and sailed to organize the Philippine constabulary, he took with him to Manila one of the bright, up-and-coming men of the army—Lieut. Col. Dwight Eisenhower.

But after some time in the Philippines, things didn't go well and MacArthur fired Ike. Eisenhower went back to the U.S.A. to climb to fame and the top command of the American Army.

The fact that MacArthur fired Eisenhower has been denied by MacArthur, but it is true. Since then the two men have not been on particularly good terms. In fact they have not seen each other since.

When Eisenhower finally decided to bow out of the presidential race, therefore, friends close to him say that he got a little extra kick out of inserting the admonition that a military man should not nurture the ambition to be president of the United States. For those lines were aimed directly at his old friend and commander, the only military man who aspires to be president—Douglas MacArthur.

Battle Inside KKK

The split inside the Ku Klux Klan over the Klan campaign to elect Herman Talmadge as governor of Georgia is one of the most significant developments in Klan history. Grand Dragon Green is not at all happy about it—especially since it happened while he was absent from the last two Klan meetings. Here is the inside story.

At the first January meeting of Klavern No. 1, Atlanta, Dr. Richard Eubank, acting cyclops in Dr. Green's place, made a speech urging unanimous Klan support for Herman Talmadge. Eubank said it was the duty of every Klansman to get behind Talmade and make certain he is elected.

This brought a vigorous, unexpected protest from Klansman Wingate, employed by the Bell U-Drive-It Company, who said:

"I'll be damned if I'll support Talmadge."

He reminded fellow Klansmen that the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge, father of Herman, had broken up labor unions and set up labor concentration camps. He also recalled that the late Governor had proclaimed that $1 a day is good enough for any man in overalls.

"You yourself told us," Klansman Wingate reminded the exalted cyclops, "that Herman will do as his old man did. I'm not going to vote for him."

Wingate's statement gained considerable support from rank-and-file Klansmen. However the split went over until the next meeting, when Grand Titan Ransom tried to straighten things out. He made a speech pointing out that Klansmen should think of their wives and children and the color problem, and therefore all vote for Talmadge. This, however, failed to heal the breach.

"What do you think Brother Wingate was thinking about but his wife and children when he opposed Talmadge?" shouted one Klansman from the floor.

Judging from the murmurs of approval, the anti-Talmadge Klansmen were just as strong as the Talmadge supporters.

Grand Dragon Green has now returned to Atlanta and held a meeting early last week to try to heal the breach.

G.O.P. Fires At Generals

With the political exit of General Eisenhower, G.O.P. strategists have decided to us Harry Truman's yen for the military as one of their most effective campaign weapons.

To this end they've prepared an impressive list of generals and admirals now serving in civilian jobs, and this will be thrown at Truman when the campaigning gets hot.

This strategy was partly behind the Republican decision to block the appointment of Maj. Gen. Laurence Kuter as head of the civil aeronautics board. Ordinarily, South Dakota's Sen. Chan Guerney, a strong friend of the military and chairman of the Senate armed services committee, would have dashed in to boost this appointment. But in the private session held between the President and the Senate armed services committee, it was Gurney who, taking his cue from the G.O.P. leadership, refused to budge.

"I agree," concurred Truman. "And I want you to know that it is not my intention to appoint military men to civilian jobs if I can get civilians to fill them. I don't think, on the other hand, that we should lose the outstanding abilities of a man just because he is in the Army."

"But the discrimination in salary," suggested Oregon's Wayne Morse, referring to the fact that Kuter would get $15,000 against a civilian salary of $10,000, "is discouraging to civilians."

Maryland's suave Sen. Millard Tydings suggested a compromise, but the Republicans were in no mood.

"You were a Senator once," Gurney told the President. "You know what we are up against on the Hill.

"I understand that, Chan," replied the President, "but I've got to get someone."

Truman said he had searched high and low, but couldn't find a civilian who would take the job.

"Not even in Missouri?" blurted out Alabama's Lister Hill.

Note—At a closed committee afterward, Democrats Burnet Maybank of South Carolina and Harry Byrd of Virginia voted consistently with the Republicans. Other Democrats, on the final roll call simply voted "present"—which meant that they didn't want to vote against Truman; but also didn't want to vote for a general in a civilian job. They also knew, incidentally, that Truman had kicked out one civilian, James Landis, as chairman of CAB, despite the fact that Landis had done a thoroughly competent job.

Senator Goes Into Reverse

Vermont's sandy-haired Sen. Ralph Flanders has a sense of humor, even about himself. He is telling the story of how by mistake he opposed his own bill on coinage.

When the bill came up for debate on the Senate floor, Flanders leaped to his feet.

"There is not need for the bill!" he argued.

Bob Taft, the Senate shepherd, jumped up and tried to catch Flanders' eye. But Sen. Milt Young of North Dakota already was whispering hoarsely: "Ralph, that's your own bill."

According to Flanders' own story, "I jammed on the brakes, skidded to a stop and found myself headed in the opposite direction."

The bill passed. It was a coinage bill in effect to make future coinage bills unnecessary.

Justice Department Invited To Act Against Oil Industry

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—A direct invitation to the Department of Justice to file an anti-trust suit seeking the break-up of the 20 major companies in the oil industry has been issued by a group of professors of Yale university. Their book, published today, is entitled "a national policy for the oil industry" and presents the results of a study organized in 1946 at Yale University by members of the Department of Economics and Political Science and the School of Law.

A most interesting fact about the study, which assails one of the basic practices of the free-enterprise system of private capitalism, is that the funds for the publication of the book were provided by the Carnegie Foundation and the Ganson Goodyear Depew Memorial Fund of Yale university.

Here is an ironical example of how the philanthropic funds of men who earned their surplus in life through individual initiative are subsequently utilized, not in objective studies of a factual nature but in economic partisanship and class-conscious crusades.

The Yale treatise condemns size as such. It assails integrated companies. Its doctrines apply equally as well to every industry where identity of price emerges as a trade custom. The grocer who sells an article of food regularly at ten cents must go apparently either to eleven or drop to nine—he cannot, in large-scale operations at least, use the same price level as his competitor.

Yale Study Goes Further

The Yale study goes even further. It argues that it is no longer necessary under recent decisions of the Supreme Court on the Sherman anti-trust law to prove a conspiracy between competitors. They need not even communicate with one another. The inspiration for this line of reasoning is the tobacco case decided last year by the Supreme Court. The book, of which Professor Eugene V. Rostow is given as principle author, declares:

"Under the tobacco case, the economic fact of monopoly is very close to being legal proof of monopoly. The decisive elements are the power to assert a degree of control over price and output in the market as a whole and the power to discourage potential competition."

Size is the main crime. Efficiency and service to the public are not to be considered paramount because, the professors say, efficiency can be obtained by the break-up just the same. To the argument that larger companies can raise money more easily for expansion than smaller one and hence give better service to the public, the professors say a little thing like the defects in the capital market should not interfere with the reorganization of an industry. Presumably the government will provide the money. Many other objections are disposed of summarily as irrelevant or inconsequential as the book states its main conclusion:

"The key to an effectively competitive reform of the petroleum industry is therefore the separation of the major companies into separate units controlling their four chief functions: production, transportation, refining and distribution and the further horizontal division of some of the units which would survive a vertical dissolution of the great companies."

The study attacks the proration policies of state commissions and says the objective is not conservation but production control and calls for a federal statute to require "compulsory unitization of the oil fields" and, of course, control would be in the hands of a federal agency.

Much space is given in the book to the tobacco cases wherein identity of price was denounced, and the Yale study says:

"Against the background of these cases, an action against the major oil companies as a monopoly, as well as a combination in restraint of trade, should not face insuperable obstacles."

State Socialism In True Light

Here at last emerges the radical doctrine of state socialism in its true light — companies must not grow large and if they do the government must control them. Likewise success must be penalized. Where as many as 20 companies—admittedly a large number—do a major proportion of the volume of an industry, they must evidently be stunted in their growth and penalized by the break-up method. Their selling arm must be paralyzed and they must retrogress while the marginal, high-cost companies seek to catch up and the public gets worse instead of better service. Will Congress permit such an abuse of the Sherman anti-trust law and provide funds for such prosecutions?

Never has radicalism in America shown its colors more clearly as a counterpart of state socialism than in the study made by these Yale professors. As such, the book will be welcomed in the debate over whether America is to permit the sabotage of her private-enterprise system and adopt instead state socialism.

Marshall's Remarks Were Not Well Taken In England, Claim

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Speaking in London before the Pilgrim Society, Secretary of State Marshall said the difference between socialism in England and free enterprise in America is not serious.

Millions of Americans in both the old parties, who have not spent their lives in the Army, think the difference between the two systems is serious and important.

Mr. Marshall's remarks were not well taken in England. Both the British Socialists and the Conservatives hold that "great differences of principle as well as of practice" do exist between the two systems. The British Information Service makes this very plain.

Remark Strengthened Attlee

Mr. Marshall's remark was taken to undermine either Prime Minister Attlee or former Prime Minister Churchill. In short, that the "difference" was not worth fighting about. Of course, the actual effect was to strengthen Attlee and the Labor party, the party now in power.

While "democratic" socialists are now opposed to what is called "communism" under Stalin, the fact is that "democratic socialism" is the ante-chamber to either fascism, or communism.

Once started, the laws of political gravity pull socialism ever closer to the "police state." Hitler and Mussolini both began as socialists. The Russians also call their system socialism.

I am getting leery of generals in American politics. Modern war has a tendency to train generals to think along socialistic lines, overall planning, regimentation of everybody, and The Brass barking orders to civilians. This virus spreads to civilians.

Former Secretary of State and War Henry L. Stimson, in advocating the Marshall Plan, says we "have much to learn about the variety of forms which free enterprise may take" in Europe! Free enterprise, my eye!

Harriman "Gone Washington"

Listen to another business man, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who has apparently "gone Washington." He says that while we "firmly believe the American system is the best method of obtaining high productivity," he does not think we should ask foreigners to adopt it. Why not? If we firmly believe freedom is the best way, why not firmly advocate it? If we believe socialism is the wrong way, why should we finance it? Why use American dollars to bolster up an impossible way to obtain high production?

We once had a truly American Secretary of State—Henry Clay. This is what he said: "We have done more for the cause of liberty in the world than arms could affect. We have shown to other nations the way to greatness and happiness. . . . We should keep our lamp burning brightly on this Western shore, as a light to all nations, rather than to hazard its utter extinction amid the ruins of fallen republics in Europe."

The way to really help Europe, is to tell its politicians to restore incentives to men to work and produce. We should point out "the way to greatness."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lana Turner's Part

Miss Lana Turner
Hollywood, California

My Dear Miss Turner:

The other day, I saw you in "Cass Timberlane" and I have been thinking about you ever since. In that picture, "Cass Timberlane," you do some grand things. Yours is a warm part and the audience loves you and sympathizes with you and is genuinely happy that it all turns out well in the end, that you and your husband make up and will live together in marriage.

Then I pick up the newspapers and the gossip columns and read of your doings and purported doings and it is all such a sad disappointment.

And the reason for the disappointment is that you people in the movies look very real on the screen. It is somehow a living personality with whom one spent a few hours. I suppose that is why the public is so interested in your doings.

Never before has gossip been as important in newspapers or radio as today—when so much is written about the private lives of famous and even obscure personalities. The public seems to be inordinately interested in your private lives. To very young people, some of you movie stars are as real as members of their own family. That is a great responsibility.

I know a teen-ager who can name every husband of every movie star and all those who were reputed to be lovers of this one and that one. And her mind seems to be full of such doings. It is not a wholesome thing, that. It is, in fact, degrading that to such a young person the institution of marriage is a ladder of many rungs, each rung representing a husband. She can tell me who has had two, three, four or five husbands and how many husbands have had how many wives.

I once saw a motion picture in which a comparatively new actress played a beautifully ecstatic religious role. She was glorious. I was so deeply moved that I almost felt her beautiful hands touch me with a blessing.

Then it happened. A noisy divorce with shattering gossip. It was nothing but movies.

Why does not someone produce a movie to show that divorce is an excellent institution? Why, for instance, in "Cass Timberlane," don't you in the end go off with the cad who steals his best friend's wife? Actually, neither you nor your producer nor the corporation that employs you would dare produce such a picture. Who wants a cad to win? Who would support the notion that the grand institution of marriage should be sacrificed to whim and restlessness? You could not get any box-office for such a picture—not even those who live that way would come to see it.

Yet, you people who live in a play world can somehow divide your personalities. Every word you speak before the finale of "Cass Timberlane" is a great preachment. But to whom are you preaching? To the youngsters in your audience? To the millions of adults who have lived their long lives together in the sacrament of marriage? To whom are you preaching?

Hollywood can do much to elevate the manners and morals of the American people. It can prove not only that crime but sin does not pay. You did that, of course, in "Cass Timberlane." You do it wonderfully in that picture. And then the preacher comes to life at a party—the life of the party. And the illusion of goodness, of high-minded, right-living is gone. Something not romantic, not beautiful, not glorifying—something cheap has happened.

And then one wonders whether the old-fashioned preachers and teachers did not give our children a better guidance. Already a great many Americans are restricting their children with regard to movie-going. They do not want their children's heroes to be one-punch cafe rowdies; they do not want their daughters' heroines to be multi-married and divorced ladies. Shall we keep our children away from the movies altogether because so many movie stars cannot behave themselves?

Perhaps you have an answer to all this? You did answer in "Cass Timberlane."

Your sincerely,
George E. Sokolsky.

Strange Honeymoon Of Soviet Russia And Germany

One of Fielding's novels, "Jonathan Wild," reports a card game between two shifty prisoners. Though neither had a cent to wager, one stacks the cards, the other picks his pockets. With all due respect to Germany and Russia, the incident is called to mind by the honeymoon between them which lasted from August 3, 1939, when they signed a 10-year "non-aggression" pact, through the German invasion of Poland on Sept. 1, the Russian invasion of Poland on Sept. 17 and its partition Sept. 28, to the German invasion of Russia on June 22, 1941.

Unlike Fielding's characters, neither totalitarian power, of course, was penniless, but each was playing a game for something it did not possess—the Baltic and Balkan States, etc.—and from the start each distrusted the other. What happened is at last set forth in authoritative documents, long secret German Foreign Office records, captured by our armies and now issued in a book of 362 pages by the State Department.

These show that in the summer of 1940 Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov expressed "warmest congratulations" to Germany over her "splendid success" in smashing the western allies. Later that year, when Russia became alarmed by the new three-power pact among Germany, Italy and Japan, the question arose of admitting Russia to what would then be a four-power Axis. Molotov demanded better terms than those in the non-aggression pact, among them a Russian land-and-sea base within range of the Dardanelles, and flat assurance that "the area south of Batum and Baku in the general direction of the Persian Gulf is recognized as the center of operations of the Soviet Union."

That cut across Germany's own territorial aims, and she did not even deign to reply. Soon afterward, December 18, 1941, her secret files show that Hitler ordered his armies "to crush Soviet Russia in a quick campaign even before the conclusion of the war against England." Six months later that impossible task was attempted, blowing up in the following year with the Russian encirclement of the Germans at Stalingrad. Why did Hitler attempt this thing? Probably because he thought Russia would attack him. Like Fielding's heroes, the two totalitarian powers had reason not to trust each other.

"The enemy of your enemy automatically becomes your friend." That was how Russia became an ally of America and Britain. With the war over, Russia resumed the policy of imperialist expansion which she followed, in partnership with Germany, during the first 21 months of the war.

In view of the Arab-Jew duel in Palestine, somebody ought to revive the "Bedouin Love Song" which takes a different angle.

Dissent In CIO Ranks Over Wallace Candidacy

The CIO Executive Board has adopted a resolution opposing a third party in 1948 as "politically unwise." But it couldn't have made President Truman very happy—because 11 of the board's 44 members voted against it. As he must know, this is one of those cases where the minority counts more than the majority.

This resolution puts the CIO officially on record against the candidacy of Henry Wallace. But it doesn't mean that the CIO is united behind President Truman. President Philip Murray has admitted that by saying there is nothing the organization can do "if member unions represented by dissenters in the meeting should decide to support Wallace contrary to the majority . . ."

As a matter of fact, that "if" was purely rhetorical. The dissenters obviously intend to put their unions in the Wallace camp—as far as they can manage it. Harry Bridges, head of the International Longshoremen's Union on the West Coast, has made himself clear on that point already. The others will follow.

Whether this kind of support embarrasses Wallace or not is an open question since Wallace has said he would have to look up what the late President Roosevelt said on that subject before he could commit himself. But it might mean just enough votes, in such states as New York and California, to wreck the Truman campaign.

So the CIO Executive Board's resolution, even if it amounts to an indorsement for the Democrats, will not lead President Truman to think he has a long-term lease on the White House—with or without balcony.

Inflation is an ill wind that does everybody—but good!

Germans Are Hungry

Strikes in the British and American occupation zones in Germany have been causing temporary paralysis in city after city. They have resulted in serious losses of needed production. They have provided an opportunity for Communists to incite some groups to wave banners calling for "Liberty" or "Unity." They are not to be taken lightly.

Yet their significance should not be overemphasized, either. General Clay, the American military commander in Germany, probably has appraised them accurately. Now in Washington to answer congressional questions, he has said that while he does not like the situation he is not worried about it. That is, he is confident the occupation powers will be able to handle it.

His attitude is founded on a number of factors bearing on this problem. For one thing, these strikes are actually demonstrations—a 24-hour work stoppage to protest against short rations is not a strike in the real meaning of that word. For another, they appear to be non-political. And they are aimed at the German authorities rather than the military governments.

So it seems that if the German authorities improve their performance in collecting and distributing food produced in Germany, the trouble will begin to die down. It may disappear if more food is sent to Germany, as General Clay suggests. Food is the answer, at any rate, regardless of where it comes from.

It goes against the grain to send food to Germany but German workers are hungry. They will produce more if they are better fed—and German production is necessary to the recovery of Europe.

Good taste at the table often means more than savory food.

Skin Grafting, An Ancient Practice

SKIN grafting, contrary to general belief, is one of the oldest surgical procedures. By the time Columbus discovered America, certain physicians had attained considerable skill. They dissect the upper skin of the arm with a razor, and then, paring off the remaining edges of the nostrils or, if necessary, cutting them away, they bind the arm to the head, in order that wound may adhere to wound. After this, the wounds having conglutinated, they take away from the arm with the knife as much as is wanted, for the restoration of the nose; for the kindred vessels of the nose nourish the flesh which is newly acquired. In this manner, with admirable art, new noses are formed, with open nostrils; and, with a bold ingenuity, nature is subjected to our will."

Centuries ago skin grafting was confined mainly to ears, lips, and nose whereas our modern surgeon can cover almost any denuded part of the body. It is not difficult, however, to appreciate why ancient surgeons developed this art if we consider necessity the mother of invention. In that age it was a common practice to punish criminals by cutting off their noses. Furthermore, with swords and knives as weapons, a soldier was lucky to emerge from a battle without having an ear or lip lopped off.

Skin grafting is most useful in covering areas where an ordinary scar would not only prove unsightly but interfere with the movement or function of that part. Contracted tissues on the fingers, for example, might make them so stiff, that the hand would be useless. Such mishaps are not infrequent after burns or if the surface is destroyed through infection, excess radiation, or from a crushing injury. Covering the involved region as soon as possible with new skin hastens recovery and minimizes deformity.

There are various ways in which skin grafting is done but regardless of the technic, the material will not "take" unless it develops a new blood supply. Once applied, its fate depends upon whether the capillaries can grow into the transplanted area before the new cells starve and die from lack of nourishment. A thin layer of epidermis is more likely to survive because it contains less cells to feed. On the other hand, a thicker piece is preferred as it is more durable and can better withstand future irritation and trauma. Surgeons use many ingenious methods in applying these patches, and conditions must be ideal before transplantation is possible.

Things That Add Up

It's the things that add up in a person which finally give to him his outstanding distinction. The pleasand manner, the courageous outlook, the kindly attitude, frankness and honesty of mind. These are a few of the things that add up and give to one an attractive personality.

When in college I noted that the most popular students were not the ones who came from wealthy homes, or who stood the highest in their classes, or those who were the finest in looks— but those who drew the most students about them as friends. Unselfishness was a characteristic. So was thoughtfulness—the little seldom notice things that seem so habitual to the rare few. The unadvertised sacrifice to make another happy.

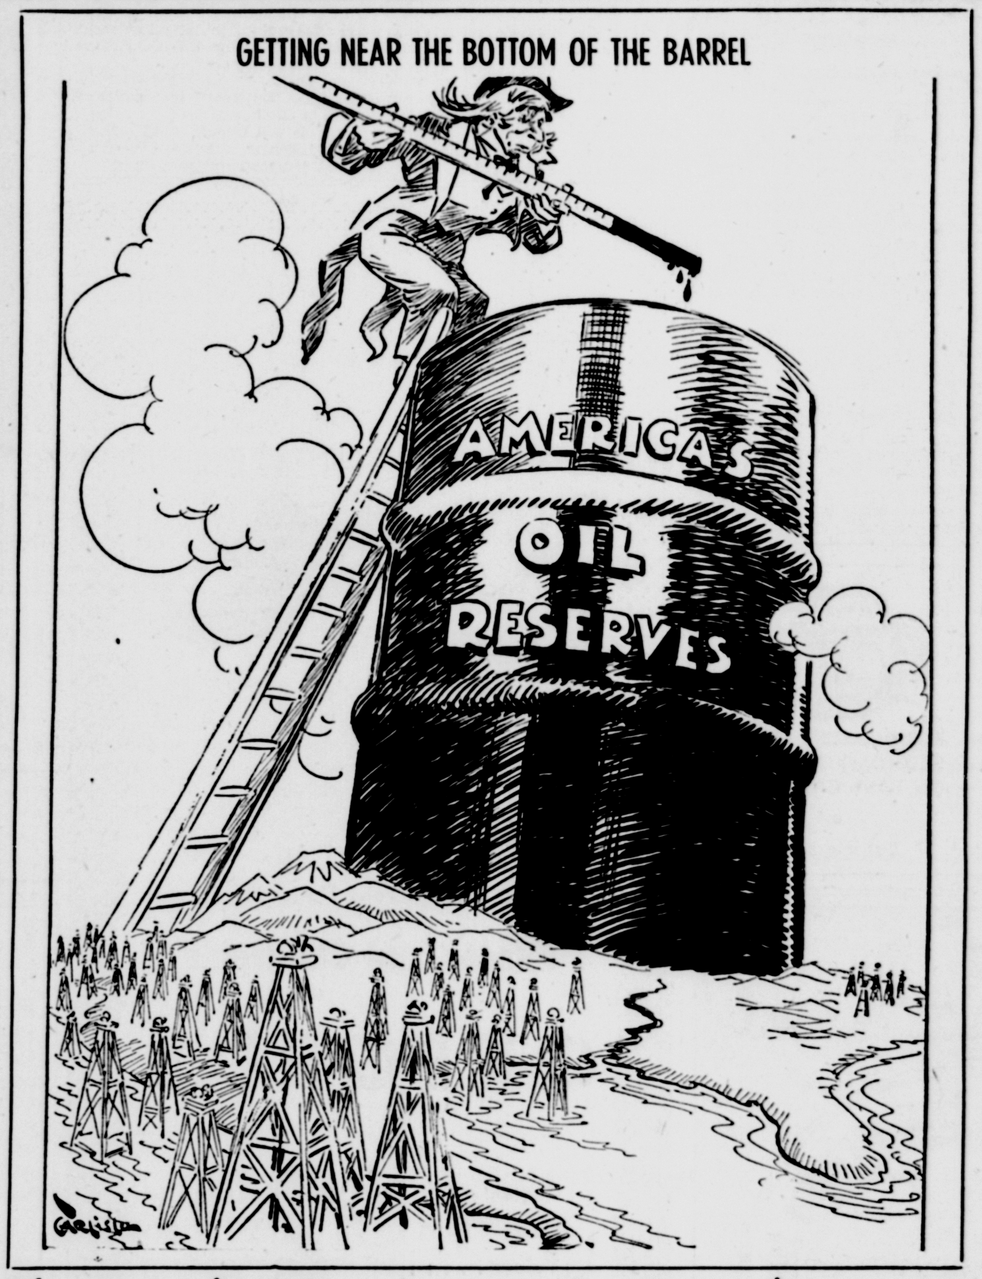

Then there are the smiling courtesies, the morning greetings, and the glad Goodnights. The habitual Thank yous—and the ever ready Please. Simple things—but how they do add up in the appraisal of others! How long since you failed to write that letter you intended to write? Letters add up and often bring happiness never suspected by the writer.

Cheerfulness is something that we all may own, yet look about you —in your office, out upon the street, in your home, among your associates, and as you travel about. How many of them look and act cheerful? What an asset to any organization—a cheerful worker! How begrudgingly many a one works out his day!

I recently read the story of an elevator operator in a business building where everyone loved him, and depended upon him for advice and counsel. He worked there for years and his fame was spread afar by word of mouth, by those who knew him so well. Later, with his savings, he opened up, and made famous, a restaurant which instantly became successful. You see things kept adding up for him, because he kept adding up good deeds for others.

It isn't the money that we earn and set aside in the bank or in some investment that counts up so greatly with us, but what we keep banking in other people, gaining their love and confidence, and habitually loaning out ourselves where we may serve to the highest good.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Eisenhower Deliberately Aimed His "Won't Run" Statement at MacArthur; Row Inside KKK Over Herman Talmadge; Republicans To Accuse Truman

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — When Gen. Douglas MacArthur failed of reappointment to a second term as Chief of Staff and sailed to organize the Philippine constabulary, he took with him to Manila one of the bright, up-and-coming men of the army—Lieut. Col. Dwight Eisenhower.

But after some time in the Philippines, things didn't go well and MacArthur fired Ike. Eisenhower went back to the U.S.A. to climb to fame and the top command of the American Army.

The fact that MacArthur fired Eisenhower has been denied by MacArthur, but it is true. Since then the two men have not been on particularly good terms. In fact they have not seen each other since.

When Eisenhower finally decided to bow out of the presidential race, therefore, friends close to him say that he got a little extra kick out of inserting the admonition that a military man should not nurture the ambition to be president of the United States. For those lines were aimed directly at his old friend and commander, the only military man who aspires to be president—Dougias MacArthur.

Battle Inside KKK

The split inside the Ku Klux Klan over the Klan campaign to elect Herman Talmadge as governor of Georgia is one of the most significant developments in Klan history. Grand Dragon Green is not at all happy about it—especially since it happened while he was absent from the last two Klan meetings. Here is the inside story.

At the first January meeting of Klavern No. 1, Atlanta, Dr. Richard Eubank, acting cyclops in Dr. Green's place, made a speech urging unanimous Klan support for Herman Talmadge. Eubank said it was the duty of every Klansman to get behind Talmade and make certain he is elected.

This brought a vigorous, unexpected protest from Klansman Wingate, employed by the Bell U-Drive-It Company, who said:

"I'll be damned if I'll support Talmadge."

He reminded fellow Klansmen that the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge, father of Herman, had broken up labor unions and set up labor concentration camps. He also recalled that the late Governor had proclaimed that $1 a day is good enough for any man in overalls.

"You yourself told us," Klansman Wingate reminded the exalted cyclops, "that Herman will do as his old man did. I'm not going to vote for him."

Wingate's statement gained considerable support from rank-and-file Klansmen. However the split went over until the next meeting, when Grand Titan Ransom tried to straighten things out. He made a speech pointing out that Klansmen should think of their wives and children and the color problem, and therefore all vote for Talmadge. This, however, failed to heal the breach.

"What do you think Brother Wingate was thinking about but his wife and children when he opposed Talmadge?" shouted one Klansman from the floor.

Judging from the murmurs of approval, the anti-Talmadge Klansmen were just as strong as the Talmadge supporters.

Grand Dragon Green has now returned to Atlanta and held a meeting early last week to try to heal the breach.

G.O.P. Fires At Generals

With the political exit of General Eisenhower, G.O.P. strategists have decided to us Harry Truman's yen for the military as one of their most effective campaign weapons.

To this end they've prepared an impressive list of generals and admirals now serving in civilian jobs, and this will be thrown at Truman when the campaigning gets hot.

This strategy was partly behind the Republican decision to block the appointment of Maj. Gen. Laurence Kuter as head of the civil aeronautics board. Ordinarily, South Dakota's Sen. Chan Guerney, a strong friend of the military and chairman of the Senate armed services committee, would have dashed in to boost this appointment. But in the private session held between the President and the Senate armed services committee, it was Gurney who, taking his cue from the G.O.P. leadership, refused to budge.

"I agree," concurred Truman. "And I want you to know that it is not my intention to appoint military men to civilian jobs if I can get civilians to fill them. I don't think, on the other hand, that we should lose the outstanding abilities of a man just because he is in the Army."

"But the discrimination in salary," suggested Oregon's Wayne Morse, referring to the fact that Kuter would get $15,000 against a civilian salary of $10,000, "is discouraging to civilians."

Maryland's suave Sen. Millard Tydings suggested a compromise, but the Republicans were in no mood.

"You were a Senator once," Gurney told the President. "You know what we are up against on the Hill.

"I understand that, Chan," replied the President, "but I've got to get someone."

Truman said he had searched high and low, but couldn't find a civilian who would take the job.

"Not even in Missouri?" blurted out Alabama's Lister Hill.

Note—At a closed committee afterward, Democrats Burnet Maybank of South Carolina and Harry Byrd of Virginia voted consistently with the Republicans. Other Democrats, on the final roll call simply voted "present"—which meant that they didn't want to vote against Truman; but also didn't want to vote for a general in a civilian job. They also knew, incidentally, that Truman had kicked out one civilian, James Landis, as chairman of CAB, despite the fact that Landis had done a thoroughly competent job.

Senator Goes Into Reverse

Vermont's sandy-haired Sen. Ralph Flanders has a sense of humor, even about himself. He is telling the story of how by mistake he opposed his own bill on coinage.

When the bill came up for debate on the Senate floor, Flanders leaped to his feet.

"There is not need for the bill!" he argued.

Bob Taft, the Senate shepherd, jumped up and tried to catch Flanders' eye. But Sen. Milt Young of North Dakota already was whispering hoarsely: "Ralph, that's your own bill."

According to Flanders' own story, "I jammed on the brakes, skidded to a stop and found myself headed in the opposite direction."

The bill passed. It was a coinage bill in effect to make future coinage bills unnecessary.

Justice Department Invited To Act Against Oil Industry

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—A direct invitation to the Department of Justice to file an anti-trust suit seeking the break-up of the 20 major companies in the oil industry has been issued by a group of professors of Yale university. Their book, published today, is entitled "a national policy for the oil industry" and presents the results of a study organized in 1946 at Yale University by members of the Department of Economics and Political Science and the School of Law.

A most interesting fact about the study, which assails one of the basic practices of the free-enterprise system of private capitalism, is that the funds for the publication of the book were provided by the Carnegie Foundation and the Ganson Goodyear Depew Memorial Fund of Yale university.

Here is an ironical example of how the philanthropic funds of men who earned their surplus in life through individual initiative are subsequently utilized, not in objective studies of a factual nature but in economic partisanship and class-conscious crusades.

The Yale treatise condemns size as such. It assails integrated companies. Its doctrines apply equally as well to every industry where identity of price emerges as a trade custom. The grocer who sells an article of food regularly at ten cents must go apparently either to eleven or drop to nine—he cannot, in large-scale operations at least, use the same price level as his competitor.

Yale Study Goes Further

The Yale study goes even further. It argues that it is no longer necessary under recent decisions of the Supreme Court on the Sherman anti-trust law to prove a conspiracy between competitors. They need not even communicate with one another. The inspiration for this line of reasoning is the tobacco case decided last year by the Supreme Court. The book, of which Professor Eugene V. Rostow is given as principle author, declares:

"Under the tobacco case, the economic fact of monopoly is very close to being legal proof of monopoly. The decisive elements are the power to assert a degree of control over price and output in the market as a whole and the power to discourage potential competition."

Size is the main crime. Efficiency and service to the public are not to be considered paramount because, the professors say, efficiency can be obtained by the break-up just the same. To the argument that larger companies can raise money more easily for expansion than smaller one and hence give better service to the public, the professors say a little thing like the defects in the capital market should not interfere with the reorganization of an industry. Presumably the government will provide the money. Many other objections are disposed of summarily as irrelevant or inconsequential as the book states its main conclusion:

"The key to an effectively competitive reform of the petroleum industry is therefore the separation of the major companies into separate units controlling their four chief functions: production, transportation, refining and distribution and the further horizontal division of some of the units which would survive a vertical dissolution of the great companies."

The study attacks the proration policies of state commissions and says the objective is not conservation but production control and calls for a federal statute to require "compulsory unitization of the oil fields" and, of course, control would be in the hands of a federal agency.

Much space is given in the book to the tobacco cases wherein identity of price was denounced, and the Yale study says:

"Against the background of these cases, an action against the major oil companies as a monopoly, as well as a combination in restraint of trade, should not face insuperable obstacles."

State Socialism In True Light

Here at last emerges the radical doctrine of state socialism in its true light — companies must not grow large and if they do the government must control them. Likewise success must be penalized. Where as many as 20 companies—admittedly a large number—do a major proportion of the volume of an industry, they must evidently be stunted in their growth and penalized by the break-up method. Their selling arm must be paralyzed and they must retrogress while the marginal, high-cost companies seek to catch up and the public gets worse instead of better service. Will Congress permit such an abuse of the Sherman anti-trust law and provide funds for such prosecutions?

Never has radicalism in America shown its colors more clearly as a counterpart of state socialism than in the study made by these Yale professors. As such, the book will be welcomed in the debate over whether America is to permit the sabotage of her private-enterprise system and adopt instead state socialism.

Marshall's Remarks Were Not Well Taken In England, Claim

By SAMUEL R. PETTENGILL

Speaking in London before the Pilgrim Society, Secretary of State Marshall said the difference between socialism in England and free enterprise in America is not serious.

Millions of Americans in both the old parties, who have not spent their lives in the Army, think the difference between the two systems is serious and important.

Mr. Marshall's remarks were not well taken in England. Both the British Socialists and the Conservatives hold that "great differences of principle as well as of practice" do exist between the two systems. The British Information Service makes this very plain.

Remark Strengthened Attlee

Mr. Marshall's remark was taken to undermine either Prime Minister Attlee or former Prime Minister Churchill. In short, that the "difference" was not worth fighting about. Of course, the actual effect was to strengthen Attlee and the Labor party, the party now in power.

While "democratic" socialists are now opposed to what is called "communism" under Stalin, the fact is that "democratic socialism" is the ante-chamber to either fascism, or communism.

Once started, the laws of political gravity pull socialism ever closer to the "police state." Hitler and Mussolini both began as socialists. The Russians also call their system socialism.

I am getting leery of generals in American politics. Modern war has a tendency to train generals to think along socialistic lines, overall planning, regimentation of everybody, and The Brass barking orders to civilians. This virus spreads to civilians.

Former Secretary of State and War Henry L. Stimson, in advocating the Marshall Plan, says we "have much to learn about the variety of forms which free enterprise may take" in Europe! Free enterprise, my eye!

Harriman "Gone Washington"

Listen to another business man, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who has apparently "gone Washington." He says that while we "firmly believe the American system is the best method of obtaining high productivity," he does not think we should ask foreigners to adopt it. Why not? If we firmly believe freedom is the best way, why not firmly advocate it? If we believe socialism is the wrong way, why should we finance it? Why use American dollars to bolster up an impossible way to obtain high production?

We once had a truly American Secretary of State—Henry Clay. This is what he said: "We have done more for the cause of liberty in the world than arms could affect. We have shown to other nations the way to greatness and happiness. . . . We should keep our lamp burning brightly on this Western shore, as a light to all nations, rather than to hazard its utter extinction amid the ruins of fallen republics in Europe."

The way to really help Europe, is to tell its politicians to restore incentives to men to work and produce. We should point out "the way to greatness."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lana Turner's Part

Miss Lana Turner
Hollywood, California

My Dear Miss Turner:

The other day, I saw you in "Cass Timberlane" and I have been thinking about you ever since. In that picture, "Cass Timberlane," you do some grand things. Yours is a warm part and the audience loves you and sympathizes with you and is genuinely happy that it all turns out well in the end, that you and your husband make up and will live together in marriage.

Then I pick up the newspapers and the gossip columns and read of your doings and purported doings and it is all such a sad disappointment.

And the reason for the disappointment is that you people in the movies look very real on the screen. It is somehow a living personality with whom one spent a few hours. I suppose that is why the public is so interested in your doings.

Never before has gossip been as important in newspapers or radio as today—when so much is written about the private lives of famous and even obscure personalities. The public seems to be inordinately interested in your private lives. To very young people, some of you movie stars are as real as members of their own family. That is a great responsibility.

I know a teen-ager who can name every husband of every movie star and all those who were reputed to be lovers of this one and that one. And her mind seems to be full of such doings. It is not a wholesome thing, that. It is, in fact, degrading that to such a young person the institution of marriage is a ladder of many rungs, each rung representing a husband. She can tell me who has had two, three, four or five husbands and how many husbands have had how many wives.

I once saw a motion picture in which a comparatively new actress played a beautifully ecstatic religious role. She was glorious. I was so deeply moved that I almost felt her beautiful hands touch me with a blessing.

Then it happened. A noisy divorce with shattering gossip. It was nothing but movies.

Why does not someone produce a movie to show that divorce is an excellent institution? Why, for instance, in "Cass Timberlane," don't you in the end go off with the cad who steals his best friend's wife? Actually, neither you nor your producer nor the corporation that employs you would dare produce such a picture. Who wants a cad to win? Who would support the notion that the grand institution of marriage should be sacrificed to whim and restlessness? You could not get any box-office for such a picture—not even those who live that way would come to see it.

Yet, you people who live in a play world can somehow divide your personalities. Every word you speak before the finale of "Cass Timberlane" is a great preachment. But to whom are you preaching? To the youngsters in your audience? To the millions of adults who have lived their long lives together in the sacrament of marriage? To whom are you preaching?

Hollywood can do much to elevate the manners and morals of the American people. It can prove not only that crime but sin does not pay. You did that, of course, in "Cass Timberlane." You do it wonderfully in that picture. And then the preacher comes to life at a party—the life of the party. And the illusion of goodness, of high-minded, right-living is gone. Something not romantic, not beautiful, not glorifying—something cheap has happened.

And then one wonders whether the old-fashioned preachers and teachers did not give our children a better guidance. Already a great many Americans are restricting their children with regard to movie-going. They do not want their children's heroes to be one-punch cafe rowdies; they do not want their daughters' heroines to be multi-married and divorced ladies. Shall we keep our children away from the movies altogether because so many movie stars cannot behave themselves?

Perhaps you have an answer to all this? You did answer in "Cass Timberlane."

Your sincerely,
George E. Sokolsky.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

When a presidential candidate views with alarm he is looking at the world through moss-covered keyholes. When he points with pride he stabs himself with his own forefinger.

All of which means the 1948 contest is well under way and history is in the making. And once again democracy goes for a shakedown cruise in a concrete mixer.

Europe cannot understand our way of doing things. Neither do we.

But the very year 1948 is a clue to the formula. Life, liberty and the pursuit of exemptions depend on the traditional ability to divide it by four.

Hon. Harry S. Truman
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

From where I sit, it doesn't look as if the voters are going to renew your lease on that Pennsylvania Avenue apartment. Everybody is griping about one thing or another, and when people gripe, as you found out at the last election, they vote for the other fellow on general principles.

Pres. Truman

Well, the reason I'm writing you, Mr. President, is because I'd like to see your trunks remain in the White House cellar. You shape up to me as a good Joe, and I think you mean well. It's my guess the country feels pretty much the same way about you. But let's face it—a lot of us have the jim-jams. We know our country is a little sick, even if we don't know what ails it. And when you're sick, you don't settle for just a good Joe at your bedside. You want a doctor with a black satchel who knows his stuff.

The purpose of this letter is to suggest you send for such a doctor, and have him move into the White House and be on tap to write a prescription whenever the body politic starts acting up.

And there's only one such doctor this country believes in. That's our old friend, Bernard M. Baruch. For thirty years now, he has been putting his finger on the national pulse and, in plain language, telling us why it was going too fast or too slow. Unfortunately, we haven't always taken the medicine he prescribed because the old doctor doesn't hesitate to suggest a bitter pill when he thinks it's necessary.

The news that Old Silvertop was occupying the bedroom next to yours would do a lot for this country's morale. And for your political chances. I don't think Mrs. Truman would object. Mr. Baruch is a very stylish citizen—southern manners and awfully good to look at. He doesn't drink, never spills ashes on the carpet and has a reputation for tipping liberally. As a matter of fact, I think he'd add a lot of class to your joint.

I'm sure you'll agree, Mr. President, that the old doctor would have come in very handy the last couple of months. You were scheduled to appear before Congress and deliver your annual "State of the Union" speech. Now, this is an important speech for any President. Undoubtedly you and the Joe McGeniuses around the White House burned a lot of midnight oil on this script. Well, what did your collective efforts add up to? A humpty-dumpty proposal to give everybody $40 if they voted for you at the next election. It was like telling a man with cancer that he ought to take an aspirin tablet every wet Tuesday.

A few days after your talk, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked Dr. Baruch what he thought about the Marshall Plan and one or two other headaches on the agenda. Our free-lance elder statesman presented a detailed and carefully worked-out blueprint for global recovery. In 3,000 of the hottest words put on paper in our time, he told us what to do about inflation, prices, wages and other sore spots in the world's anatomy.

The only paper which panned his prescription was The Wall Street Journal—which should give you an idea of how good a doctor Baruch is!

I asked my barber the other day what he thought about our park bench philosopher's program. "If the Democrats had the sense that God gave geese," he said, "they would adopt Mr. Baruch's plan as their party platform for '48."

•—•—•

But to get back to my notion of having the old doctor board at the White House. Had you been sharing your orange juice with him the last couple of months, chances are the Baruch Plan would now be known as the Truman Plan. And instead of that $40 jabberwocky, you would have presented Congress and the World with a program which would have made you look like one heck of a guy. And it's my hunch this country isn't going to settle for less than one heck of a guy next November.

Let me give you another instance of how valuable the old doctor would be around the Executive Mansion. Recently a lot of people jumped on you because you wanted to build a balcony on the White House. Well, if Mr. Baruch had been your star boarder, you would have had an easy out. "We need this balcony so that our old friend can sit in the sun and think for us." That one line would have been enough. It's even possible that some of the millions of people who believe in the doctor would have supplied the nails and wood and insisted on building the balcony themselves.

Am I suggesting you dispossess the bright little boys you've got around the White House helping you? Not at all. I've seen their pictures and they look like nice fellows. As a matter of fact, they might come in handy after Mr. Baruch moves in. The old doctor is very fond of chocolate sodas, and on a hot day, Clark Clifford and the other kids could be used to run out to the drugstore and get one for him.

Come to think of it, Mr. President, it might get you a lot of votes if you ran out to the drugstore once in a while yourself.

Sincerely,
BILLY ROSE

From where I sit, it doesn't look as if the voters are going to renew your lease on that Pennsylvania Avenue apartment. Everybody is griping about one thing or another, and when people gripe, as you found out at the last election, they vote for the other fellow on general principles.

Pres. Truman

Well, the reason I'm writing you, Mr. President, is because I'd like to see your trunks remain in the White House cellar. You shape up to me as a good Joe, and I think you mean well. It's my guess the country feels pretty much the same way about you. But let's face it—a lot of us have the jim-jams. We know our country is a little sick, even if we don't know what ails it. And when you're sick, you don't settle for just a good Joe at your bedside. You want a doctor with a black satchel who knows his stuff.

• — • — •

The purpose of this letter is to suggest you send for such a doctor, and have him move into the White House and be on tap to write a prescription whenever the body politic starts acting up.

And there's only one such doctor this country believes in. That's our old friend, Bernard M. Baruch. For thirty years now, he has been putting his finger on the national pulse and, in plain language, telling us why it was going too fast or too slow. Unfortunately, we haven't always taken the medicine he prescribed because the old doctor doesn't hesitate to suggest a bitter pill when he thinks it's necessary.

The news that Old Silvertop was occupying the bedroom next to yours would do a lot for this country's morale. And for your political chances. I don't think Mrs. Truman would object. Mr. Baruch is a very stylish citizen—southern manners and awfully good to look at. He doesn't drink, never spills ashes on the carpet and has a reputation for tipping liberally. As a matter of fact, I think he'd add a lot of class to your joint.

I'm sure you'll agree, Mr. President, that the old doctor would have come in very handy the last couple of months. You were scheduled to appear before Congress and deliver your annual "State of the Union" speech. Now, this is an important speech for any President. Undoubtedly you and the Joe McGeniuses around the White House burned a lot of midnight oil on this script. Well, what did your collective efforts add up to? A humpty-dumpty proposal to give everybody $40 if they voted for you at the next election. It was like telling a man with cancer that he ought to take an aspirin tablet every wet Tuesday.

A few days after your talk, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asked Dr. Baruch what he thought about the Marshall Plan and one or two other headaches on the agenda. Our free-lance elder statesman presented a detailed and carefully worked-out blueprint for global recovery. In 3,000 of the hottest words put on paper in our time, he told us what to do about inflation, prices, wages and other sore spots in the world's anatomy.

The only paper which panned his prescription was The Wall Street Journal—which should give you an idea of how good a doctor Baruch is!

I asked my barber the other day what he thought about our park bench philosopher's program. "If the Democrats had the sense that God gave geese," he said, "they would adopt Mr. Baruch's plan as their party platform for '48."

• — • — •

But to get back to my notion of having the old doctor board at the White House. Had you been sharing your orange juice with him the last couple of months, chances are the Baruch Plan would now be known as the Truman Plan. And instead of that $40 jabberwocky, you would have presented Congress and the World with a program which would have made you look like one heck of a guy. And it's my hunch this country isn't going to settle for less than one heck of a guy next November.

Let me give you another instance of how valuable the old doctor would be around the Executive Mansion. Recently a lot of people jumped on you because you wanted to build a balcony on the White House. Well, if Mr. Baruch had been your star boarder, you would have had an easy out. "We need this balcony so that our old friend can sit in the sun and think for us." That one line would have been enough. It's even possible that some of the millions of people who believe in the doctor would have supplied the nails and wood and insisted on building the balcony themselves.

• — • — •

Am I suggesting you dispossess the bright little boys you've got around the White House helping you? Not at all. I've seen their pictures and they look like nice fellows. As a matter of fact, they might come in handy after Mr. Baruch moves in. The old doctor is very fond of chocolate sodas, and on a hot day, Clark Clifford and the other kids could be used to run out to the drugstore and get one for him.

Come to think of it, Mr. President, it might get you a lot of votes if you ran out to the drugstore once in a while yourself.

Sincerely,
BILLY ROSE

WHY
Wallace Vote Might Swing The Election

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON—Henry Wallace could be the deciding factor in this year's presidential race even if he gets fewer votes than third party candidate William Lemke of North Dakota got in 1936.

It would depend, of course, on whether the contest between the Republican nominee and President Truman, the presumed Democratic nominee, is very close.

Lemke received 882,479 votes in 1936, but President Roosevelt's lead over Republican candidate Alfred M. Landon was so huge that the third party (Union party) vote had no bearing on the outcome.

A few hundred thousand votes for Wallace in a couple of states with large electorial votes could decide the winner of a tight Republican-Democratic race, although there will be no way of estimating exactly the number of votes Wallace "takes away" from the Democratic (or the Republican) candidate.

Presidential election victories have hinged on the vote in one state. In 1916 Woodrow Wilson nosed out Charles Evans Hughes by a margin of 23 electoral votes. If Hughes had carried California, traditionally a Republican state in those years, he would have won the presidency.

California's 25 electoral votes went to President Roosevelt in the last four elections. Wallace might pick up enough customarily Democratic votes to put the state in the Republican column. Of course, the Republicans might win California by so large a margin the Wallace vote would not make any difference.

The 47 electoral votes of New York state are a big prize in most presidential contests. Grover Cleveland won the presidency in 1884 by carrying New York with a majority of slightly more than 1,000 votes in a total state vote of over 1,000,000.

In 1944 President Roosevelt topped Thomas Dewey in New York state by 316,014 votes.

Suppose Wallace gets 250,000, or even 150,000 New York votes next November and the Republican nominee leads President Truman by 100,000 in the state. It then would be said that the Wallace candidacy enabled the Republicans to win the state's 47 electoral votes. And that could be enough to capture the presidency.

In 1912 Theodore Roosevelt's battle with his former political pal, President Taft, split the G.O.P wide open and enabled Democratic nominee Woodrow Wilson to win the presidency. The combined Roosevelt and Taft vote was 7,609,942, more than four million of these going to Roosevelt.

Wilson's popular vote was 6,286,214, but he got 435 electoral votes.

27,102 Leases To Increase Rent Are Filed In Maryland

A total of 27,102 voluntary leases increasing rents up to 15 per cent were filed with the several Rent Offices in Maryland during the six and one-half months from July 1, 1947, through January 15, 1948, Area the Federal Office of Rent Control Rent Director Walter R. Heath of announced today.

The Housing and Rent Act of 1947, which became effective July 1, 1947, stipulated that voluntary leases must be executed by December 31, 15 days after execution of the lease 1947, and extend through December 31, 1948. Landlords were allowed within which to file a copy at the Area Rent Office.

Mr. Heath said that the 27,102 figure represents about 8.73 per cent of the registered housing units in the Maryland Defense-Rental Areas, including houses and apartments. A weekly peak of about 2500 leases was reached during the week of August 15, 1947.

The Baltimore, Silver Spring, Hagerstown, Cumberland and Frederick Offices are part of Region II of the Office of Rent Control, which includes the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. A total of 585,190 voluntary leases were filed in the region as a whole, this representing about 11.5 per cent of the registered housing units. A weekly peak of about 36,500 was reached early in August.

Housing accommodations covered by voluntary leases became decontrolled on January 1. Also, rental on such housing units cannot be adjusted upward or downward by the Office of Rent Control.

27,102 Leases To Increase Rent Are Filed In Maryland

A total of 27,102 voluntary leases increasing rents up to 15 per cent were filed with the several Rent Offices in Maryland during the six and one-half months from July 1, 1947, through January 15, 1948, Area the Federal Office of Rent Control Rent Director Walter R. Heath of announced today.

The Housing and Rent Act of 1947, which became effective July 1, 1947, stipulated that voluntary leases must be executed by December 31, 15 days after execution of the lease 1947, and extend through December 31, 1948. Landlords were allowed within which to file a copy at the Area Rent Office.

Mr. Heath said that the 27,102 figure represents about 8.73 per cent of the registered housing units in the Maryland Defense-Rental Areas, including houses and apartments. A weekly peak of about 2500 leases was reached during the week of August 15, 1947.

The Baltimore, Silver Spring, Hagerstown, Cumberland and Frederick Offices are part of Region II of the Office of Rent Control, which includes the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. A total of 585,190 voluntary leases were filed in the region as a whole, this representing about 11.5 per cent of the registered housing units. A weekly peak of about 36,500 was reached early in August.

Housing accommodations covered by voluntary leases became decontrolled on January 1. Also, rental on such housing units cannot be adjusted upward or downward by the Office of Rent Control.

B. And O. Railroad Will Name New Tunnel For Employe For 52 Years

One of the largest tunnels built on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in many years — a 1600-foot bore near Berryburg, W. Va., — after its completion next fall will be named for Delbert Lough, of Grafton, W. Va., a B&O car inspector who is entering upon his 52nd year of service with the railroad.

It has been a tradition on the B&O to name major tunnels after chief engineers of the road who have been in charge of the construction. However, when he saw the tunnel being built, Mr. Lough wrote to the vice president in charge of operations for the B&O, C. W. Van Horn, and asked that the new tunnel be named after him, in recognition of his long service on the B&O. A. C. Clarke, present chief engineer for the B&O system, gladly waived the naming privilege in favor of the veteran employee, and the company told Mr. Lough his request would be granted.

In his request to Mr. Van Horn, Mr. Lough wrote:

"As one of the oldest employees on the Monongah Division, I am asking you to grant me an honor if possible. I have been working at this railroad game since 1897. I have always tried to be a loyal employee; raised six children, five girls and one boy. They are all married and are all doing fine and were raised and got college education on B&O money. My only boy is a conductor on the Monongah Division. Now I see where you are building a tunnel between Berryburg and Elk Valley. I was raised on the Berryburg side of the hill and my wife on the Elk side and it sure would be an honor to me to name the new tunnel after me. Now, if you can grant that honor, I and my family will appreciate it."

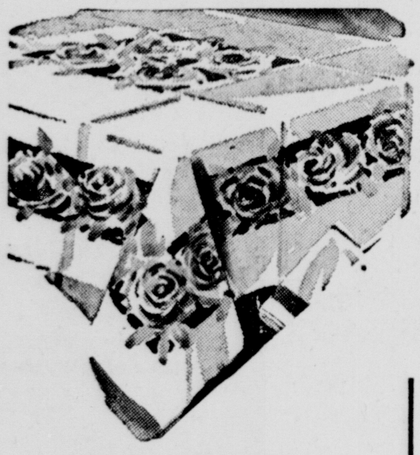

The tunnel cuts through the 1700-foot-high divide between the watersheds of the Tygart River and Elk Creek in Barbour County. It forms part of a $3,000,000 project for extending the B&O into the Elk Creek area.

Mr. Lough first went to work for the Grafton and Belington Railroad, later absorbed by the B&O, at the age of 15, in order to provide support for his widowed mother and his sisters. His first job was as a section hand, helping to change the track of this line from narrow to standard gauge. He continued working as a section hand until 1903, when he went to work as a brakeman on the Wheeling Division of the B&O. Returning to the section gang in 1905, he worked his way up to section foreman by 1907. In 1906, he had married Miss Nancy Hudkins, his childhood sweetheart. Since 1913, he has been a member of the crew of a relief train, and now he has the rating of a car inspector.

Mr. Lough claims that he has "worked out three crews on the relief train and is still going strong." He has an unusual motto: "You learn more after you've worked 30 years than you do before."

B. And O. Railroad Will Name New Tunnel For Employe For 52 Years

One of the largest tunnels built on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in many years — a 1600-foot bore near Berryburg, W. Va., — after its completion next fall will be named for Delbert Lough, of Grafton, W. Va., a B&O car inspector who is entering upon his 52nd year of service with the railroad.

It has been a tradition on the B&O to name major tunnels after chief engineers of the road who have been in charge of the construction. However, when he saw the tunnel being built, Mr. Lough wrote to the vice president in charge of operations for the B&O, C. W. Van Horn, and asked that the new tunnel be named after him, in recognition of his long service on the B&O. A. C. Clarke, present chief engineer for the B&O system, gladly waived the naming privilege in favor of the veteran employee, and the company told Mr. Lough his request would be granted.

In his request to Mr. Van Horn, Mr. Lough wrote:

"As one of the oldest employees on the Monongah Division, I am asking you to grant me an honor if possible. I have been working at this railroad game since 1897. I have always tried to be a loyal employee; raised six children, five girls and one boy. They are all married and are all doing fine and were raised and got college education on B&O money. My only boy is a conductor on the Monongah Division. Now I see where you are building a tunnel between Berryburg and Elk Valley. I was raised on the Berryburg side of the hill and my wife on the Elk side and it sure would be an honor to me to name the new tunnel after me. Now, if you can grant that honor, I and my family will appreciate it."

The tunnel cuts through the 1700-foot-high divide between the watersheds of the Tygart River and Elk Creek in Barbour County. It forms part of a $3,000,000 project for extending the B&O into the Elk Creek area.

Mr. Lough first went to work for the Grafton and Belington Railroad, later absorbed by the B&O, at the age of 15, in order to provide support for his widowed mother and his sisters. His first job was as a section hand, helping to change the track of this line from narrow to standard gauge. He continued working as a section hand until 1903, when he went to work as a brakeman on the Wheeling Division of the B&O. Returning to the section gang in 1905, he worked his way up to section foreman by 1907. In 1906, he had married Miss Nancy Hudkins, his childhood sweetheart. Since 1913, he has been a member of the crew of a relief train, and now he has the rating of a car inspector.

Mr. Lough claims that he has "worked out three crews on the relief train and is still going strong." He has an unusual motto: "You learn more after you've worked 30 years than you do before."

Local Marine Unit Praised By Colonel

Cumberland's Company D, Fifth Marine Corps Reserve unit, drew high praise from Col. Luther A. Brown, district director, Monday night as he completed his first inspection of the local unit, which is one of few reserve units in the nation to reach full strength.

Accompanied by Maj. Remsen J. Cole, district public information officer, Col. Brown informed the local unit that he made his inspection here because Company D was the first Marine Reserve Infantry unit in the country to reach full strength.

As the inspection was completed Capt. John T. Fey, unit commander drew the colonel's praise and then heard the men told by the colonel:

"You have made a commendable start in the speed with which the unit was activated and in the rapid manner in which you assimilated the demeanor that characterizes Marines."

The local unit is now one of seven in the country that has reached full strength and is under the command of Capt. Fey and receives instructions from Lt. Edward Walker.

The facilities for training are not the best as yet, Col. Brown told the men, but he promises better training and athletic facilities once the new armory is completed.

Social Security Act Reports Due Shortly

Quarterly payroll tax returns by employers subject to the Social Security Act must be mailed before midnight January 31, according to a bulletin released yesterday by the local office of the agency.

Reports are due on all employes, weather part or full time, and must account for October, November and December. The Social Security Act applies to all employers who hire one or more persons either part or full time.

According to the office, employers should be cautious in reporting the names, account numbers and wage earning of each worker, field representatives declared.

Bids Accepted

President Roy B. White, of The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company has announced that the Company had accepted a bid for 99-.723% of par, made by Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, for $4,000,000 Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Equipment Trust Certificates, Series X, bearing a dividend rate of 2½% per annum and payable in ten equal annual installments.

5-Yr. Victim of Gassy Stomach

"For 5 years I suffered from gas swelling and bloat," says a well-known citizen: "My meals just laid in my stomach and turned to gas. Had dizzy attacks from this condition. I tried many medicines, but they never had any effect on me, but finally I found INNER-AID. It cleared out all my gas. Now I can eat without misery afterward. This is the only medicine that ever helped me."

INNER-AID is the new formula of 12 juices from Nature's Plants. It has relieved many people who had never been really helped before by any medicine. Taken shortly before meals it mixes with your food, thus eliminating the poisons that foster stomach trouble. It will cleanse the bowels, clear gas from stomach, enliven liver and remove old bile from the system. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID. Sold by all drug stores.—Advertisement.

County Urging Work On Dam Completion

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Allegany County Commissioners, said yesterday a letter has been sent to Rep. J. Glenn Beall urging his continued help in having the Savage River Dam project completed as soon as possible.

The letter states: "The members of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners are, along with practically all the citizens of this county, extremely anxious to see the Savage River Dam completed, and soon.

"Its completion would benefit in many ways not only Allegany county but also Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Montgomery counties, accomplishing as it would, a more constant flow of the Potomac River throughout the year and providing at least some measure of flood control.

In addition to many other advantages, too numerous to mention, it seems to us to be almost a tragic thing for our federal government to sponsor the erection of the dam, then spend millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money in bringing it to within about 65 per cent of completion and then abandoning the project, making the expenditures already made of no value to anyone."

FIGHT INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Ultimate goal of the nationwide research program sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and supported by the annual March of Dimes each January 15-30, is the discovery of a vaccine to prevent infantile paralysis.

Vaccine research conducted at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, is only one of 78 projects being carried on at leading institutions to find a cure or preventive for polio, the method by which it is spread during epidemics and means to prevent its crippling after-effects.

Only two more days and the 1948 drive will be over. Join the March of Dimes today!

'Poor Man's Dog'
Hunter Produces All-Purpose Breed

By TOM MADDOX

SALEM, Ill., Jan. 27—The "Aqua Terra" is championed by Glenna Strong as the latest in sporting dogs. Never heard of an Aqua Terra? Well, Strong predicts you will in the future.

It was 13 years ago when Strong, a Salem shoe builder, began thinking about developing a dog that would hunt all game. He thought that many, like himself, could ill afford to keep bird dogs, retrievers, hounds and rabbit dogs all year just for the brief seasons for each type of game for which each dog was bred. He wanted a "poor man's dog."

Strong started with a Chesapeake Bay retriever, an English setter and a black and tan hound. He crossed and recrossed these strains, later introducing a pointer in the experiment. Strong says now he has just about what he was looking for—the all-purpose Aqua Terra (water land) dog.

The Aqua Terra is 23-24 inches at the shoulder, weighs about 50 pounds, is mostly black with white or brown markings, has webbed feet, a short outer and under coat and a black mouth.

Strong recorded carefully the breeding and points out that the uniformity of the offspring attests that the dog will breed true. Says Strong:

"They're intelligent beyond comparison. And there never has been a shy nor vicious specimen in the lot.

"They point quail, pheasant, rabbits and squirrel. They tree coons and opossum at night, will go into the ground for anything that burrows and retrieve readily from land or water."

He tells of one favorite bitch that pointed a rabbit, treed a coon and retrieved a duck from water, all within an hour's time.

Strong claims they will range out in the field as far as the average gun dog, and that they are true, loyal companions and trusty watchdogs.

Strong has refused sale offers from throughout the United States and Canada. However, he has given some of his dogs to persons of his own choice with a stipulation that the dogs be given an opportunity to prove their worth as hunting dogs. Performances of all dogs are recorded and some are returned to him for breeding.

Perhaps in another year, Strong said he may be ready to start registering the breed with a national stud organization. He is still trying to obtain more white in their coats so they may be more easily followed afield.

An "Aqua Terra" (land-water dog) retrieves a duck from water. The dog also will point and tree game—making him a real all-purpose dog.

Wildcats' Late Rally Decides Battle, 41-23

DAVIS, W. Va., Jan. 27—Coach Weider Pell's Davis High School Wildcats clawed Parsons High School's Panthers tonight and took a 2-0 lead in the race for the Tucker County basketball championship. The score was 41-23.

Race Dates Reset At Havre De Grace
Maryland Miler Opens 11-Day Meeting July 6

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27—(AP)—The State Racing Commission today reset dates for the operation of Havre de Grace track and authorized an 11-day meeting there starting July 6.

It will be the first time one of Maryland's major tracks has operated in July. The change was made to avoid a conflict in May with New Jersey's Garden State Park.

Dean, Lattimer And Moler Star For Sentinels
Hawks Suffer First Setback Of Season

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

For the second consecutive year a Ridgeley High quintet has been knocked from the undefeated ranks by the Fort Hill Sentinel. The Hilltoppers turned the trick last night by a 36 to 28 count before over 1,000 spectators at the Fort Hill gymnasium to snap an eight-game unblemished Blackhawk streak.

It was diminutive Mil Dean, big Charlie Lattimer and Gary Moler who led the Scarlet and White to their 13th triumph in 15 games and their tenth straight home win. Dean was all over the court, like a little sweat bee, pestering the Hawks to no end and messing up several plays by stealing the ball. Lattimer was a bulwark under the basket, outgrabbing the Hawks at both ends of the court on rebounds and his driving play in under the baskets accounted for 15 points, six in the critical last period. Moler's beautiful set shots from near mid-court were a deciding factor on more than one occasion in keeping Fort Hill ahead during the first three quarters of play.

For the Hawks, who had one of their worst nights of the season in connecting with the basket, big Joe Moss was outstanding. Coach Jesse Riggleman's gigantic pivot man generaled Ridgeley on both defense and offense throughout the evening.

Hawks Take 4-0 Lead

Bill Brehany's foul conversion with 5:45 to go and his basket 15 seconds later followed by Paul Lindsay's free throw shoved Ridgeley off to a 4-0 lead. Fort Hill roared back as Moler sandwiched two shots from near mid-court around Charlie Lattimer's free throw to go ahead at 5-4 with 2:45 left. Paul Lindsay's rebound basket with 45 seconds to go gave Ridgeley its last lead at 6-5, then Lattimer drove in under the hoop to lay-up two points and added a foul conversion on the play to send Fort Hill ahead, 8-6, at the quarter.

"Buddy" Cage slipped in two baskets in the first four minutes of the second period and Fort Hill jumped to a 12-6 edge. Moss' tip-in was followed by Lattimer's basket and foul conversion and Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's crew led 15-8. Moss' one-hander and Moler's set shot from way out ended the half with the Scarlet and White holding a 17-10 lead.

After Moler opened the second half with another long set shot, Lindsay countered with a lay-up and Wilson sank two free throws to close the gap to 19-14. Mil Dean connected on a jump and set shot and Fort Hill soared again at 23-14. Ridgeley fought back again as Clyde "Fats" Wilson converted at the foul line and Brehany and Moss followed with twin-pointers to cut the Sentinel bulge to 23-19. Lattimer drove in under to score and Fort Hill led 25-19 as the final stanza got underway.

Wilson's set shot from the right corner and Moss's tip-in cut Fort Hill to 25-23 with still 6:30 to go in the game but the Sentinels recovered on Lattimer's lay-up and Dean's two foul conversions to lead 29-23 and that was all for Ridgeley. Moss's foul toss after the automatic time out left Fort Hill ahead at 33-27 and Manges iced the contest with his only basket seconds later. Each team added a foul shot for the final count of 36-28.

Game Cleanly Played

Despite the importance of the contest, the game was cleanly played with only 14 personals being called on the two clubs. The play of both teams was equal, the only difference lying in the fact that Fort Hill made 15 of 57 shots while Ridgeley connected on 10 of 59. Lattimer led Fort Hill in scoring with 15 points while Moss topped Ridgeley with ten. Lineups:

Ridgeley	G	F-G	PF	Pts.
Wilson, f	1	3-4	0	5
Lindsay, f	2	1-2	1	5
Day, f	0	1-1	1

'Poor Man's Dog'
Hunter Produces All-Purpose Breed

By TOM MADDOX

SALEM, Ill., Jan. 27—The "Aqua Terra" is championed by Glenna Strong as the latest in sporting dogs. Never heard of an Aqua Terra? Well, Strong predicts you will in the future.

It was 13 years ago when Strong, a Salem shoe builder, began thinking about developing a dog that would hunt all game. He thought that many, like himself, could ill afford to keep bird dogs, retrievers, hounds and rabbit dogs all year just for the brief seasons for each type of game for which each dog was bred. He wanted a "poor man's dog."

Strong started with a Chesapeake Bay retriever, an English setter and a black and tan hound. He crossed and recrossed these strains, later introducing a pointer in the experiment. Strong says now he has just about what he was looking for—the all-purpose Aqua Terra (water land) dog.

The Aqua Terra is 23-24 inches at the shoulder, weighs about 50 pounds, is mostly black with white or brown markings, has webbed feet, a short outer and under coat and a black mouth.

Strong recorded carefully the breeding and points out that the uniformity of the offspring attests that the dog will breed true. Says Strong:

"They're intelligent beyond comparison. And there never has been a shy nor vicious specimen in the lot.

"They point quail, pheasant, rabbits and squirrel. They tree coons and opossum at night, will go into the ground for anything that burrows and retrieve readily from land or water."

He tells of one favorite bitch that pointed a rabbit, treed a coon and retrieved a duck from water, all within an hour's time.

Strong claims they will range out in the field as far as the average gun dog, and that they are true, loyal companions and trusty watchdogs.

Strong has refused sale offers from throughout the United States and Canada. However, he has given some of his dogs to persons of his own choice with a stipulation that the dogs be given an opportunity to prove their worth as hunting dogs. Performances of all dogs are recorded and some are returned to him for breeding.

Perhaps in another year, Strong said he may be ready to start registering the breed with a national stud organization. He is still trying to obtain more white in their coats so they may be more easily followed afield.

An "Aqua Terra" (land-water dog) retrieves a duck from water. The dog also will point and tree game—making him a real all-purpose dog.

Dean, Lattimer And Moler Star For Sentinels
Hawks Suffer First Setback Of Season

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

For the second consecutive year a Ridgeley High quintet has been knocked from the undefeated ranks by the Fort Hill Sentinel. The Hilltoppers turned the trick last night by a 36 to 28 count before over 1,000 spectators at the Fort Hill gymnasium to snap an eight-game unblemished Blackhawk streak.

It was diminutive Mil Dean, big Charlie Lattimer and Gary Moler who led the Scarlet and White to their 13th triumph in 15 games and their tenth straight home win. Dean was all over the court, like a little sweat bee, pestering the Hawks to no end and messing up several plays by stealing the ball. Lattimer was a bulwark under the basket, outgrabbing the Hawks at both ends of the court on rebounds and his driving play in under the baskets accounted for 15 points, six in the critical last period. Moler's beautiful set shots from near mid-court were a deciding factor on more than one occasion in keeping Fort Hill ahead during the first three quarters of play.

For the Hawks, who had one of their worst nights of the season in connecting with the basket, big Joe Moss was outstanding. Coach Jesse Riggleman's gigantic pivot man generaled Ridgeley on both defense and offense throughout the evening.

Hawks Take 4-0 Lead

Bill Brehany's foul conversion with 5:45 to go and his basket 15 seconds later followed by Paul Lindsay's free throw shoved Ridgeley off to a 4-0 lead. Fort Hill roared back as Moler sandwiched two shots from near mid-court around Charlie Lattimer's free throw to go ahead at 5-4 with 2:45 left. Paul Lindsay's rebound basket with 45 seconds to go gave Ridgeley its last lead at 6-5, then Lattimer drove in under the hoop to lay-up two points and added a foul conversion on the play to send Fort Hill ahead, 8-6, at the quarter.

"Buddy" Cage slipped in two baskets in the first four minutes of the second period and Fort Hill jumped to a 12-6 edge. Moss' tip-in was followed by Lattimer's basket and foul conversion and Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh's crew led 15-8. Moss' one-hander and Moler's set shot from way out ended the half with the Scarlet and White holding a 17-10 lead.

After Moler opened the second half with another long set shot, Lindsay countered with a lay-up and Wilson sank two free throws to close the gap to 19-14. Mil Dean connected on a jump and set shot and Fort Hill soared again at 23-14. Ridgeley fought back again as Clyde "Fats" Wilson converted at the foul line and Brehany and Moss followed with twin-pointers to cut the Sentinel bulge to 23-19. Lattimer drove in under to score and Fort Hill led 25-19 as the final stanza got underway.

Wilson's set shot from the right corner and Moss's tip-in cut Fort Hill to 25-23 with still 6:30 to go in the game but the Sentinels recovered on Lattimer's lay-up and Dean's two foul conversions to lead 29-23 and that was all for Ridgeley. Moss's foul toss after the automatic time out left Fort Hill ahead at 33-27 and Manges iced the contest with his only basket seconds later. Each team added a foul shot for the final count of 36-28.

Game Cleanly Played

Despite the importance of the contest, the game was cleanly played with only 14 personals being called on the two clubs. The play of both teams was equal, the only difference lying in the fact that Fort Hill made 15 of 57 shots while Ridgeley connected on 10 of 59. Lattimer led Fort Hill in scoring with 15 points while Moss topped Ridgeley with ten. Lineups:

Hottest Jockey Scramble

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 26—One of the hottest jockey scrambles in all racing hristory is now under way at Santa Anita, threatening to reach what you might call a hectic stage this Saturday as the first $100,000 test comes along.

This test is the Maturity, a scrap among four-year-olds just leaving the three-year-old stage. It will be headed by On Trust.

As it so happens, the jockeys involved include four of the world's best, with only the able Ted Atkinson missing. They are Eddie Arcaro, Ralph Neves, Johnny Longden and Jack Westrope.

It was all different a year ago. At this same stage Johnny Longden was running off with the track honors with Ralph Neves, another "iceman" in pursuit. Eddie Arcaro was doing so badly that he came near leaving. He had a cold and his racing luck had run thin. Norman Church finally persuaded Eddie to hang on, although he did little better during the meet.

But this is a new year. After 20 days of racing, Arcaro was out in front with 22 wins. Neves was crowding him closely with 20 victories. Johnny Longdon, after a slow start, had moved up to 15 victories and a large flock of place and show results. Jack Westrope was only a step back of Longden.

Johnny Adams, in fifth place, wound up recently in a hospital with a bad concussion and a broken arm, after a bad spill—out for the rest of the season here. Adams was close up when his mount stumbled and fell. This jockey has added to the general interest.

In 1947, about all one had to do was reach for the combination of jockey Longdon and trainer Molter to be sure of two or three wins each afternoon.

Longden set a new record in 1947 with better than 300 victories. He now holds the U. S. record with over 3,000 winning mounts through a long career. This is quite enough to leave Longden better than well fixed financially.

The Return of Arcaro

It is worth while to see Eddie Arcaro back in his old form. Eddie, one of the master artists, is riding as if he got a big kick out of his work again. He is hustling his mounts all the way. As a result he was in the money in 40 of his first 88 starts.

Ted Atkinson has always been the best hustler I've seen at any track, but Arcaro today is right up with him in this respect.

Arcaro has a smoothness and a style in riding which few others have been able to show.

The most daring rider in the group is Ralph Neves. Neves is the successor to George Woolf, the Iceman: Neves is an iceman on his own. No opening is too small for him to drive at. He has a great pair of hands and is afraid of nothing.

Westrope is having one of his best years and has gone especially well on some of the longer prices. It is difficult to blame Arcaro and Longden for not taking too many chances. Both have been at it for a long time and both are well fixed. Neither is going out of his way to get badly hurt, but both can still ride.

They all have more than enough cash to shoot at here with so many $50,000 and $100,000 stakes on ahead. This is usually where Arcaro shines, but out here he has the keenest competition in the world. There are still over $450,000 left in six of the larger remaining stakes, a juicy target for any marksman.

For all of that, the horse still has a lot to say about the final result. On Trust is still the horse to beat in two of the $100,000 ventures, and Johnny Longden is riding him. Arcaro hasn't quite the class under him that Longden and Neves have in the major stakes, but Eddie still has good horses to ride. Neves is another tough bird when it comes to big stake money.

On Trust will be favored to win the $100,000 Maturity run on Saturday and also the $100,000 Handicap at this spot next month.

The $100,000 Derby is still wide open. Brabancon, Cornish Knight, Double Day and Triskelion are among those who have a chance—especially Triskelion who has been looking better week by week.

When this Maturity runs into a $300,000 race in 1951, there will be as much action here as any track can handle. Even as it is the $100,000 collection is nothing to sneer at.

(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

NOT RESPONSIBLE

But if he calls 504, he can insure against that ever happening again by joining the Club. It pays to belong and it costs less than 3c per day if it is ever Bail or Jail again for a traffic violation. We will be there with the Bail".

They all have more than enough cash to shoot at here with so many $50,000 and $100,000 stakes on ahead. This is usually where Arcaro shines, but out here he has the keenest competition in the world. There are still over $450,000 left in six of the larger remaining stakes, a juicy target for any marksman.

For all of that, the horse still has a lot to say about the final result. On Trust is still the horse to beat in two of the $100,000 ventures, and Johnny Longden is riding him. Arcaro hasn't quite the class under him that Longden and Neves have in the major stakes, but Eddie still has good horses to ride. Neves is another tough bird when it comes to big stake money.

On Trust will be favored to win the $100,000 Maturity run on Saturday and also the $100,000 Handicap at this spot next month.

The $100,000 Derby is still wide open. Brabancon, Cornish Knight, Double Day and Triskelion are among those who have a chance—especially Triskelion who has been looking better week by week.

When this Maturity runs into a $300,000 race in 1951, there will be as much action here as any track can handle. Even as it is the $100,000 collection is nothing to sneer at.

Mosser Is Re-elected Fire Chief At Thomas For 25th Consecutive Year

Department Names New Officers

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—The Thomas Volunteer Fire Department re-elected Glendie E. Mosser as chief recently for the 25th consecutive year.

Chief Mosser first came to Thomas in 1908 and became fire chief in 1923, when the fire department owned a Model T Ford, a 150-gallon pump and a booster tank. The present fire department, organized in 1917, has two new Seagreave trucks, with modern fire fighting equipment. They serve approximately 4,000 residents in Thomas, Pierce, Benbush, Coketon, Douglas, and Kempton as well as other small communities in that area.

The department reported its second consecutive year without a major fire. The following officers were elected:

Delton H. Kight, president for the fifth consecutive year; John R. Yeager, vice president; Junior Schoonover, assistant fire chief; Ray M. Jones, captain; Harley Kight, lieutenant; Bert Pase, secretary; Orlando Ferruso, assistant secretary; and Roy Holmick, treasurer.

On the board of trustees is W. G. Helmick, the only other fire department member now on the staff who was in the department when Chief Mosser first took his office. Cris Mosser and Albert Knotts are the other two trustees.

Chief Mosser sponsored the organization of the North Central Firemen's Association more than 10 years ago and served as the secretary. The late M. H. Brightbill, then fire chief of Elkins, was the first president, succeeded by Chief Mosser, who served two consecutive terms. He has been twice president of the State Firemen's Association, serving in 1936 and again in 1942. Besides his duties as a merchant and fire chief he served as mayor of Thomas from 1938 until 1943.

Joan Thayer Is Wed

A wedding which united two prominent families of Tucker County occurred January 21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Thayer, Thomas, when their youngest daughter, Joan, became the bride of Charles H. Coffman, Jr., son of Mr. Charles H. Coffman, Sr., Davis.

Rev. R. W. Morrow, Jr., pastor of First Methodist Church, officiated at the single-ring service before an improvised arch of ferns, white snapdragons and pompoms lighted on either side with tall candelabras bearing cathedral candles.

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with long fitted sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The bodice featured a lace yoke extending to the neckline and buttoned down the back with tiny satin covered buttons. The full skirt of her gown ended in a long court train. Her finger-tip length veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of satin flowers. She carried a bouquet of white ascension lilies from which fell a cascade of satin streamers tied with white rosebuds.

Mrs. A. N. Haslett, Fairmont, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridegroom's father was best man.

A reception was held at the Thayer home for the wedding party and immediate families with Mrs. James Arnold, Mrs. Gerald Parks, and Miss Edna Louise Coffman, sisters of the bridegroom, presiding at the serving table.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas High School in the class of 1942 and attended Potomac State School, Keyser. For two years she served as assistant home service secretary for the American Red Cross in Tucker County and for the past year has been a secretary at the Duncan Telephone Company office in Thomas.

Mr. Coffman, a graduate of Davis High School and of Mountain State Business College, Parkersburg, served four years with the Army Air Corps. He is now employed as a bookkeeper for the Coffman-Fisher Company in Davis. The couple will reside in Thomas.

Mosser Is Re-elected Fire Chief At Thomas For 25th Consecutive Year

Department Names New Officers

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, W. Va.—The Thomas Volunteer Fire Department re-elected Glendie E. Mosser as chief recently for the 25th consecutive year.

Chief Mosser first came to Thomas in 1908 and became fire chief in 1923, when the fire department owned a Model T Ford, a 150-gallon pump and a booster tank. The present fire department, organized in 1917, has two new Seagreave trucks, with modern fire fighting equipment. They serve approximately 4,000 residents in Thomas, Pierce, Benbush, Coketon, Douglas, and Kempton as well as other small communities in that area.

The department reported its second consecutive year without a major fire. The following officers were elected:

Delton H. Kight, president for the fifth consecutive year; John R. Yeager, vice president; Junior Schoonover, assistant fire chief; Ray M. Jones, captain; Harley Kight, lieutenant; Bert Pase, secretary; Orlando Ferruso, assistant secretary; and Roy Holmick, treasurer.

On the board of trustees is W. G. Helmick, the only other fire department member now on the staff who was in the department when Chief Mosser first took his office. Cris Mosser and Albert Knotts are the other two trustees.

Chief Mosser sponsored the organization of the North Central Firemen's Association more than 10 years ago and served as the secretary. The late M. H. Brightbill, then fire chief of Elkins, was the first president, succeeded by Chief Mosser, who served two consecutive terms. He has been twice president of the State Firemen's Association, serving in 1936 and again in 1942. Besides his duties as a merchant and fire chief he served as mayor of Thomas from 1938 until 1943.

Joan Thayer Is Wed

A wedding which united two prominent families of Tucker County occurred January 21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Thayer, Thomas, when their youngest daughter, Joan, became the bride of Charles H. Coffman, Jr., son of Mr. Charles H. Coffman, Sr., Davis.

Rev. R. W. Morrow, Jr., pastor of First Methodist Church, officiated at the single-ring service before an improvised arch of ferns, white snapdragons and pompoms lighted on either side with tall candelabras bearing cathedral candles.

The bride wore a gown of white slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with long fitted sleeves ending in points at the wrists. The bodice featured a lace yoke extending to the neckline and buttoned down the back with tiny satin covered buttons. The full skirt of her gown ended in a long court train. Her finger-tip length veil of bridal illusion fell from a coronet of satin flowers. She carried a bouquet of white ascension lilies from which fell a cascade of satin streamers tied with white rosebuds.

Mrs. A. N. Haslett, Fairmont, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridegroom's father was best man.

A reception was held at the Thayer home for the wedding party and immediate families with Mrs. James Arnold, Mrs. Gerald Parks, and Miss Edna Louise Coffman, sisters of the bridegroom, presiding at the serving table.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas High School in the class of 1942 and attended Potomac State School, Keyser. For two years she served as assistant home service secretary for the American Red Cross in Tucker County and for the past year has been a secretary at the Duncan Telephone Company office in Thomas.

Mr. Coffman, a graduate of Davis High School and of Mountain State Business College, Parkersburg, served four years with the Army Air Corps. He is now employed as a bookkeeper for the Coffman-Fisher Company in Davis. The couple will reside in Thomas.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Overprotective Parents Put Unreasonable Restrictions On Their Children

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A day or two ago, we were discussing parents who take too little interest in their children's social life and so leave the way open for the possibility of disastrous things occurring.

There's another side to that picture, however. That is the parent who errs in reverse, and is so overcautious and over-protective that he puts altogether unreasonable restrictions on his children's activities.

Take these letters, for instance, typical of many which fill my mail every day.

From one 15-year-old girl:

"Nearly all the girls around where I live have dates, and they are the same age as I am. My mother and father are very old-fashioned. They will not let me go out on any dates, and I know my father does not like me to go to a party where there are boys. Many boys have asked me to go out, but I always have to refuse, and now I am afraid even to talk to a boy or get to know him, for fear I will have to refuse if he asked me for a date."

From another of the same age: "My mother thinks I should come straight home from school and doesn't want me to go anywhere, even with my girl friends. She thinks if I don't come home until 5 o'clock, or later, that I am going around with boys. In other words, my mom and my dad do not trust me. I am not the kind of girl who likes to neck with boys and be in their company too much. But I do like to go to school dances and ball games and mix with the crowd. Other girls my age go out and enjoy themselves, but I have to stay home. I thought once that if this continued I would run away. How can I talk things over with my parents if they are stubborn?"

Still another 15-year-old with a problem: "My problem is not about love, but it is about my parents, who are very strict. The other night I was talking to some fellow they didn't like, and when I came to the house they beat me. This always happens when I talk to fellows. Lots of my friends have parties and invite me, but I am never allowed to go to any of them. Many times I try to talk to my mother, but she just ignores me. I had a little faith in her once, but now I have no one to confide in any more. I am an only child, and anyone who says that an only child gets anything she wants should have his head examined."

Now there is of course, much to be said on the side of the parent who doesn't believe it wise for girls to go out too much at night while they are still in school. But there is a great deal of difference between a program based on common sense, and one based on too narrow a viewpoint. To go out with young people of their own age, and to join in the good times that belong to school days, is a part of normal growing-up, and a way of preparing a child for the wider relationships of adult life.

Some parents, when they hear of an episode like the one that has just been under discussion in this column, become frightened and clamp down on their children's activities more strictly than ever. Unfortunately, however, it is often just such a parental attitude that drives young people into taking things into their own hands and mismanaging them.

The parent who is intelligent enough to find a happy compromise between being to strict and being to indulgent is the one who will start her children most safely off on the road of life.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Overprotective Parents Put Unreasonable Restrictions On Their Children

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A day or two ago, we were discussing parents who take too little interest in their children's social life and so leave the way open for the possibility of disastrous things occurring.

There's another side to that picture, however. That is the parent who errs in reverse, and is so overcautious and over-protective that he puts altogether unreasonable restrictions on his children's activities.

Take these letters, for instance, typical of many which fill my mail every day.

From one 15-year-old girl:

"Nearly all the girls around where I live have dates, and they are the same age as I am. My mother and father are very old-fashioned. They will not let me go out on any dates, and I know my father does not like me to go to a party where there are boys. Many boys have asked me to go out, but I always have to refuse, and now I am afraid even to talk to a boy or get to know him, for fear I will have to refuse if he asked me for a date."

From another of the same age: "My mother thinks I should come straight home from school and doesn't want me to go anywhere, even with my girl friends. She thinks if I don't come home until 5 o'clock, or later, that I am going around with boys. In other words, my mom and my dad do not trust me. I am not the kind of girl who likes to neck with boys and be in their company too much. But I do like to go to school dances and ball games and mix with the crowd. Other girls my age go out and enjoy themselves, but I have to stay home. I thought once that if this continued I would run away. How can I talk things over with my parents if they are stubborn?"

Still another 15-year-old with a problem: "My problem is not about love, but it is about my parents, who are very strict. The other night I was talking to some fellow they didn't like, and when I came to the house they beat me. This always happens when I talk to fellows. Lots of my friends have parties and invite me, but I am never allowed to go to any of them. Many times I try to talk to my mother, but she just ignores me. I had a little faith in her once, but now I have no one to confide in any more. I am an only child, and anyone who says that an only child gets anything she wants should have his head examined."

Now there is of course, much to be said on the side of the parent who doesn't believe it wise for girls to go out too much at night while they are still in school. But there is a great deal of difference between a program based on common sense, and one based on too narrow a viewpoint. To go out with young people of their own age, and to join in the good times that belong to school days, is a part of normal growing-up, and a way of preparing a child for the wider relationships of adult life.

Some parents, when they hear of an episode like the one that has just been under discussion in this column, become frightened and clamp down on their children's activities more strictly than ever. Unfortunately, however, it is often just such a parental attitude that drives young people into taking things into their own hands and mismanaging them.

The parent who is intelligent enough to find a happy compromise between being to strict and being to indulgent is the one who will start her children most safely off on the road of life.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Comedy Team To Be Dropped From CBS; Durante Well

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—Sweeney and March, first named Bob and Hal, are billed as ending their two-year-long CBS series as a network (without sponsor) production with Wednesday night's broadcast at 9:30. The comedy show originally was introduced as a summer replacement, but has stuck into its third winter before coming under the ax.

For the last couple weeks or so announcements have been poured out of Hollywood by NBC and the cooperating sponsor that Jimmy Durante would be well enough after operation to resume his 10:30 broadcast. Again there is available a similar comment. But whether there will be another postponement only Durante's condition will determine as broadcast time nears. However, a statement from the sponsor says emphatically "Durante has fully recovered."

Esther Williams and Red Ingle are on the Bing Crosby records for relay into an ABC microphone at 10.

Ernest Chappell, actor-announcer, will be on hand via MBS at 8:30 for another Quiet Please mystery with an eerie touch. It's titled "The Green Light," behind which it is alleged there lies a terrible secret. Wyllis Cooper, specialist in this type of script, writes and directs.

Announced for 1:30 p. m. on MBS is a special, Democracy essay contest winners, with presentations from the National Association of Broadcasters, which conducted the contest as a part of "National Radio Week" last fall.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Last Secret Thought

This is the great age of confession. We are required now to tell everything. We tell the quiz master how we proposed to our wives. We tell the Inquiring Reporter whether we have ever kissed any one who was not our wife. We tell Dr. Gallup how we are going to vote and Mr. Hooper what we propose to listen to on the radio. Our psychiatrist delves into our sex dreams and Dr. Kinsey into our actual performances along those lines.

Candor is the hallmark of our time, as was reticence in the day of Queen Victoria. A man who withholds any of his inmost secrets is considered slightly suspicious, certainly neurotoc and and possibly dangerous. Spain had her Inquisition; we have our suffering under a Reign of Creeping Inquisitiveness, less horrifying than the former but more intrusive. Like the rest of you, my mind has been thoroughly explored right down to the last crev-ice. Or what they thought was thelast crevice. But they missed one small, disreputable thought I keep tucked under my frontal lobe. It isn't much of a thought but they didn't find it. Hooper missed it by a mile. Kinsey was warm but he didn't reach quite far enough. Gallup hasn't been in that corner of the attic lately.

John Crosby

Late at night when They've all gone away, by the light of a fluttering candle, I take it out and fondle it, this forlorn, slightly disreputable thought. Sooner or later, They'll get it. They have methods, you know. Scientific methods. If you lie to Them the first time, They catch you at it the second time. You can fool all of the inquisitors some of the time and some of the inquisitors all of the time but you can't fool all the inquisitors all of the time. There are too many of them. If Kinsey doesn't get you, Gallup will and if he misses, the psychiatrist will be in there with his long scientific fingers, beckoning.

That's the way They do it now. They beckon in their silky way. In the old days They used torture but now They are very gentle and scientific and much more efficient. What worries me particularly is what is going to happen to this last, sickly thought when They get it. Poor thing, it'll be thrown into a sort of statistical Auschwitz with a lot of strangers which resemble it but aren't quite the same. It'll be indexed, cross-filed, and tabulated. One more for Jack Benny. One more for Eisenhower. A vote against the New Look. Another sexual reactionary or possibly a sexual liberal.

The trouble is that this thought doesn't fit into any exact category. It isn't all the way for or against the New Look or the Soviet Union. It's a little gray thought with a number of jagged, unpredictable edges which will have to be filed off before it'll fit into any card catalogue. If They try to machine tool this thought into a statistic, it'll die.

• — • — •

All the foregoing rather agonized reflections were promoted by a fairly new radio program called "Child's World" which you'll find on ABC at 7 p. m. Sundays right opposite Jack Benny, who isn't a child at all but a case of arrested development. "Child's World" is a sincere, reasonably expert attempt to probe the mind of a child right in front of your eyes. It's a pretty good program too—I'd planned to review it here but I got sidetracked—but it is also a rather alarming one. The mind of a child is the last citadel of the secret, delicious heretic thought and if They get in there, there won't be any mystery left anywhere.

Long Given Suspended Sentence Of Three Years

Charles L. Long, Jr., 28, Hagerstown, found guilty of carnal knowledge of a 13-year-old Hagerstown girl when tried in Circuit Court here Monday after the case was removed from Washington County, was given a suspended sentence of three years in the Maryland House of Correction.

In returning its verdict, the jury included a recommendation for mercy of the Court, and in passing the sentence this was taken into consideration by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Long was paroled for three years on condition of his good behavior, and was permitted to return to Hagerstown. He was defended in the case by T. Aubrey Kemp and Martin Bostetter, Hagerstown Attorneys, while Martin L. Ingram, state's attorney of Washington County, and Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney of Allegany County, prosecuted the case.

The girl, Elsie Jane Stoner, Hagerstown, testified that Long, a next-door neighbor, attacked her in her home the night of July 15 when he went there to borrow some comic books.

CARD OF THANKS

We hereby extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindnesses and expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement. We also wish to thank Rev. Philip Cory, pastor Piedmont Presbyterian Church. We are grateful for his services. We also thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

Willis B. McCombs and family, Luke, Md.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear father, George Anderson, who passed away two years ago today, January 28th, 1946.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight of speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
We have only your memory, dear father,
To remember our whole life through;
But the sweetness will linger forever.
As we treasure the image of you.

His loving children.

CARD OF THANKS

We hereby extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindnesses and expressions of sympathy during our recent bereavement. We also wish to thank Rev. Philip Cory, pastor Piedmont Presbyterian Church. We are grateful for his services. We also thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Willis B. McCombs and family, Luke, Md.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving memory of our dear father, George Anderson, who passed away two years ago today, January 28th, 1946.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight of speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was here
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
We have only your memory, dear father,
To remember our whole life through;
But the sweetness will linger forever,
As we treasure the image of you.
His loving children.

Stocks Post Modest Recoveries For First Time In 9 Sessions

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Stocks generally sat up and nibbled at recovery today with the overall market average, for the first time in nine straight sessions, posting a modest advance.

Further short covering and other buying of rails and industrials by professionals was based mainly on the idea the list was oversold and due for a good technical comeback. Declines were plentiful at the close. Transfers of 830,000 shares compared with 650,000 Monday and were the best since last Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .2 of a point at 62.66, first advance since January 16. The utility index touched a 1947-48 bottom. The market still was far from broad. Of 987 issues registering, 471 rose and 275 fell.

A pleasing dividend lifted Clinchfield Coal in the curb. Forward leaners were Kaiser Frazer, United Shoe Machinery, Glenmore Distilleries and Babcock and Wilcox. Backward were Bunker Hill, Aluminum of America, N. J. Zinc and Pepperell. Turnover here was 190,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

The bond market hovered in a moderately narrow range but a late forward sprint in a selected group of rails tipped the averages higher by a slight margin.

Quick sellout of a new issue of $60,000,000 New York Telephone Company 3⅛ per cent refunding bonds, offered by Morgan Stanley and Company at 101.43 for a yield of 3.05 per cent was a stabilizing influence. The group won the issue on a bid of 100.85.

Devaluation of the French Franc had little affect on foreign dollar bonds. Norway 4s and 4¼s were higher while Panama 3¼s and Canada 4s were lower.

Sales totaled $4,260,000 compared with $3,650,000 on Monday.

Committee Named To Study School Building Program

By MYRTLE PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—A representative county committee was selected at a meeting here last night, sponsored by the Board of Education, to confer with the board regarding proposed school building improvements in the county estimated to total $225,000.

Ralph Welton, Petersburg, was named chairman of the group. He will be assisted by T. E. Schaffer, Mt. Storm; Carl Wimer, Maysville; D. W. Mouse, Pansy, and B. E. Schaffer, Bayard.

Plans will be considered for a county vote on the proposed method of financing any improvements found necessary. An extra levy to run for three years, increasing county taxes by about 22 per cent, has been suggested.

Projects Listed

At a meeting last Saturday of 41 business representatives from various sections of the county, the group voted unanimously in favor of proposed school building improvments.

Methods cited for financing the improvements were a 34-year bond levy issue, setting aside part of the money now being used for current expenses for bonding purposes; or an extra levy to run for three years, increasing county taxes by about 22 per cent.

V. E. Cassady, president of the Board of Education, listed various improvements which have been suggested. They are:

1. Bayard Grade School — construct a furnace room; build a new flue; install a new furnace; paint the exterior of the building.

2. Bayard High School — provide an additional classroom; modernize heating system; provide toilet and dressing room facilities and more adequate showers; refloor three rooms and hallway; repair outside main wall and repair front sidewalk.

3. Construct grade schools at Dorcas, Foreman and Maysville.

4. Mt. Storm School — construct additional classroom, school lunch room and provide a more adequate water supply.

5. Petersburg Grade School—construct an additional wing to the present building to house classrooms, a storage room, school lunch kitchen, first aid room and janitor's room.

6. Petersburg High School—build a stage at one end of the gymnasium; construct a building for a school lunch kitchen and dining room.

7. Town Hill colored school—construct a two-room building with provision for a kitchen and school lunch room.

8. Williamsport colored school — well and playground repair.

Judge Niles said that upon his appointment by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., it was deemed best to have police officers in the various cities and counties handle the coordinating job in the respective areas.

It was pointed out that Sheriff Muir has an office functioning 24 hours a day and the necessary deputies and cars for any emergency duties in connection with the position.

Corriganville Area Group Asks County To Build Bridge

County Treasurer Submits Report

Residents in an area across Wills Creek from Corriganville, appealed to Allegany County Commissioners yesterday, by petition, for the construction of a bridge across the creek from the main highway. The petition was presented by Mrs. R. L. Shaffer, and Mrs. Edith V. Shaffer.

The two women told board members there are five families including 11 school children living across the creek and their only exit is a ford in in the stream and a narrow foot bridge.

Residents desire a bridge which will carry motor vehicles and provide safer means of crossing the creek, it was explained.

Business Retarded

The Shaffers have a farm in the area and want to expand their stock raising activities but lack of a bridge over which to haul feed, cattle and material, is holding them back. The span would also be beneficial to several men cutting mine props, pulp wood and timber in the area. A limestone quarry is also located across the creek, it is claimed, and when the stream is high, activities cease because it is not possible to use the ford.

Charles N. Wilkinson explained there are several areas in the county where bridges are needed and are highly desirable. However, a span at this point would probably cost more than $25,000, he stated. He said the cost is too high to have the work done immediately, but the matter will be referred to the acting county engineer and a survey will be made to determine if any relief for the residents is possible.

Treasurer's Report

The quarterly report of the Allegany county treasurer ending December 31, 1947 shows that there is a total of $52,541.29 in county taxes outstanding for the period from 1945 to 1947.

The bulk of outstanding taxes are for 1947 with $42,403.04 listed as being due to the office of William A. Strother, tax collector for District No. 1. Taxes of $3,093.14 for 1947 are due to Herbert E. Loar, tax collector for one of the county districts; Thomas H. Taylor, $7,007.46 in taxes for 1947 and James Park, taxes of $15.75 for 1945 and $19.90 for 1946.

The report was accepted by the County Board.

Coleman Asserts Members Voted For Six-Hour Day

Cesnick Claims He Runs Independently

William Boyd Coleman, who is opposing Playford Aldridge for the post of president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, reported last night that proposals made by him in the election campaign had been authorized by the union. The assertion was denied by Aldridge.

Coleman's statement said:

"It is time to state facts that my opponents have currently forgotten.

"At a general membership meeting in September, 1947, the members of Local 1874 voted on the following—a demand for a six hour day and a 30 hour week, this was passed; the demand for a substantial wage increase, passed; the demand for a week's vacation, passed.

"The membership of Local 1874 expressed the above demands and I and the candidates who are associated with me still pledge to fight for every bit of this program. We know that the members of our great union will not back down."

Mr. Aldridge declared that on September 17, the date referred to by Mr. Coleman, the local authorized its president to ask the convening of the rayon conference to map strategy to be followed in seeking contracts in the industry. No specific demands were mentioned, he added.

A new development came to light last night when Stephen Cesnick, who is opposing James Martin for the post of recording secretary, said he did not want to run on either slate but had intended to remain independent.

He said his name was entered on the Coleman slate without authorization.

Slates, he added, are one of the best ways to ruin a union. If elected, I will co-operate with either slate and will be one of the first to sign the non-Communist affidavits.

Group To Begin Textile Ballot Count Tomorrow

Representatives of the Honest Ballot Association, New York, will begin tomorrow the counting of ballots in the hotly contested election of officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, which ends today,

George J. Abrams, executive secretary of the association and chief investigator for the Committee on Labor Elections, said yesterday that a staff of 11 came here from New York to oversee the textile union vote. Ballot boxes at the local headquarters on North Mechanic Street and at the Celanese plant are under surveillance of the staff, Abrams said.

The association has been operating continuously since 1912 when the Tammany Hall crowd was corrupting New York politics.

Until 1937, the association was concerned with public elections only. That year, the year Thomas E. Dewey was appointed special prosecutor in New York and began his racket-breaking campaign, the association supervised its first union votes, that of the teamsters.

Since that time, Abrams said, the association has participated in elections by most all of the major unions. He numbered among them Local 802, American Federation of Musicians (New York), the largest musicians' local; the National Maritime Union, Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, teamsters, restaurants, plumbers, shippers, and United Electrical unions. The association has also been called to supervise collective bargaining balloting, Abrams said.

May Watch Counting

The trained personnel takes over the election only under the rules and regulations of the union or by vote of the membership.

Candidates, Abrams said, are notified as to the method of counting. Numbers instead of names are used. In the event it is desired, the association will allow representatives—preferably those with offices at stake—of the union to "set in" during the count.

"We have found," Abrams said, "that there is an equalization in counting ballots."

"In any count of ballots," Abrams said, "there is some error. The count is not 100 per cent correct but I'd say it is 99.9 per cent."

That recount, Abrams stated, was the only one conducted to date.

While the Honest Ballot Association has no counterpart, Abrams said he would be glad to see similar organizations formed in larger cities where corruption at the polls is often revealed.

The election by the TWUA here will continue through today and ballots will be counted by the association Thursday. The winning candidate must receive a majority vote. In the event a majority is not received, a run off would probably be held next week, Abrams said. The association staff would remain here to supervise the second election.

Union spokesmen said yesterday 8,700 members are eligible to vote and recalled that 4,000 cast ballots in the 1947 election. An even larger turn out is expected this year, they said.

Payne Declares

been signed but he only evades the issue. Mr. Coleman and Mr. Barley still have the blanks to sign.

"His statement merely confirms the charges. They are not denied.

All Are Opposed

"Our whole ticket is opposed to the Taft-Hartley Act and we will work for its repeal. But first of all we must clean our own house so as to be in a better position to fight the act," he continued.

"Whenever I make contract demands they will not be made on a personal basis but according to the will of the membership," he concluded.

Aldridge said that John G. Thomas, business manager, has signed and that all those running on his slate are prepared to sign if elected.

Stocks Post Modest Recoveries For First Time In 9 Sessions

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(AP)—Stocks generally sat up and nibbled at recovery today with the overall market average, for the first time in nine straight sessions, posting a modest advance.

Further short covering and other buying of rails and industrials by professionals was based mainly on the idea the list was oversold and due for a good technical comeback. Declines were plentiful at the close. Transfers of 830,000 shares compared with 650,000 Monday and were the best since last Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .2 of a point at 62.66, first advance since January 16. The utility index touched a 1947-48 bottom. The market still was far from broad. Of 987 issues registering, 471 rose and 275 fell.

A pleasing dividend lifted Clinchfield Coal in the curb. Forward leaners were Kaiser Frazer, United Shoe Machinery, Glenmore Distilleries and Babcock and Wilcox. Backward were Bunker Hill, Aluminum of America, N. J. Zinc and Pepperell. Turnover here was 190,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

The bond market hovered in a moderately narrow range but a late forward sprint in a selected group of rails tipped the averages higher by a slight margin.

Quick sellout of a new issue of $60,000,000 New York Telephone Company 3⅛ per cent refunding bonds, offered by Morgan Stanley and Company at 101.43 for a yield of 3.05 per cent was a stabilizing influence. The group won the issue on a bid of 100.85.

Devaluation of the French Franc had little affect on foreign dollar bonds. Norway 4s and 4½s were higher while Panama 3⅛s and Canada 4s were lower.

Sales totaled $4,260,000 compared with $3,650,000 on Monday.

Committee Named To Study School Building Program

By MYRTLE PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va.—A representative county committee was selected at a meeting here last night, sponsored by the Board of Education, to confer with the board regarding proposed school building improvements in the county estimated to total $225,000.

Ralph Welton, Petersburg, was named chairman of the group. He will be assisted by T. E. Schaffer, Mt. Storm; Carl Wimer, Maysville; D. W. Mouse, Pansy, and B. E. Schaffer, Bayard.

Plans will be considered for a county vote on the proposed method of financing any improvements found necessary. An extra levy to run for three years, increasing county taxes by about 22 per cent, has been suggested.

Projects Listed

At a meeting last Saturday of 41 business representatives from various sections of the county, the group voted unanimously in favor of proposed school building improvments.

Methods cited for financing the improvements were a 34-year bond levy issue, setting aside part of the money now being used for current expenses for bonding purposes; or an extra levy to run for three years, increasing county taxes by about 22 per cent.

Corriganville Area Group Asks County To Build Bridge

County Treasurer Submits Report

Residents in an area across Wills Creek from Corriganville, appealed to Allegany County Commissioners yesterday, by petition, for the construction of a bridge across the creek from the main highway. The petition was presented by Mrs. R. L. Shaffer, and Mrs. Edith V. Shaffer.

The two women told board members there are five families including 11 school children living across the creek and their only exit is a ford in in the stream and a narrow foot bridge.

Residents desire a bridge which will carry motor vehicles and provide safer means of crossing the creek, it was explained.

Business Retarded

The Shaffers have a farm in the area and want to expand their stock raising activities but lack of a bridge over which to haul feed, cattle and material, is holding them back. The span would also be beneficial to several men cutting mine props, pulp wood and timber in the area. A limestone quarry is also located across the creek, it is claimed, and when the stream is high, activities cease because it is not possible to use the ford.

Charles N. Wilkinson explained there are several areas in the county where bridges are needed and are highly desirable. However, a span at this point would probably cost more than $25,000, he stated. He said the cost is too high to have the work done immediately, but the matter will be referred to the acting county engineer and a survey will be made to determine if any relief for the residents is possible.

Treasurer's Report

The quarterly report of the Allegany county treasurer ending December 31, 1947 shows that there is a total of $52,541.29 in county taxes outstanding for the period from 1945 to 1947.

The bulk of outstanding taxes are for 1947 with $42,403.04 listed as being due to the office of William A. Strother, tax collector for District No. 1. Taxes of $3,093.14 for 1947 are due to Herbert E. Loar, tax collector for one of the county districts; Thomas H. Taylor, $7,007.46 in taxes for 1947 and James Park, taxes of $15.75 for 1945 and $19.90 for 1946.

The report was accepted by the County Board.

Coleman Asserts Members Voted For Six-Hour Day

Cesnick Claims He Runs Independently

William Boyd Coleman, who is opposing Playford Aldridge for the post of president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, reported last night that proposals made by him in the election campaign had been authorized by the union. The assertion was denied by Aldridge.

Coleman's statement said:

"It is time to state facts that my opponents have currently forgotten.

"At a general membership meeting in September, 1947, the members of Local 1874 voted on the following—a demand for a six hour day and a 30 hour week, this was passed; the demand for a substantial wage increase, passed; the demand for a week's vacation, passed.

"The membership of Local 1874 expressed the above demands and I and the candidates who are associated with me still pledge to fight for every bit of this program. We know that the members of our great union will not back down."

Mr. Aldridge declared that on September 17, the date referred to by Mr. Coleman, the local authorized its president to ask the convening of the rayon conference to map strategy to be followed in seeking contracts in the industry. No specific demands were mentioned, he added.

A new development came to light last night when Stephen Cesnick, who is opposing James Martin for the post of recording secretary, said he did not want to run on either slate but had intended to remain independent.

He said his name was entered on the Coleman slate without authorization.

Slates, he added, are one of the best ways to ruin a union. If elected, I will co-operate with either slate and will be one of the first to sign the non-Communist affidavits.

Group To Begin Textile Ballot Count Tomorrow

Representatives of the Honest Ballot Association, New York, will begin tomorrow the counting of ballots in the hotly contested election of officers of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, which ends today.

George J. Abrams, executive secretary of the association and chief investigator for the Committee on Labor Elections, said yesterday that a staff of 11 came here from New York to oversee the textile union vote. Ballot boxes at the local head quarters on North Mechanic Street and at the Celanese plant are under surveillance of the staff, Abrams said.

The association has been operating continuously since 1912 when the Tammany Hall crowd was corrupting New York politics.

Until 1937, the association was concerned with public elections only. That year, the year Thomas E. Dewey was appointed special prosecutor in New York and began his racket-breaking campaign, the association supervised its first union votes, that of the teamsters.

Since that time, Abrams said, the association has participated in elections by most all of the major unions. He numbered among them Local 802, American Federation of Musicians (New York), the largest musicians' local; the National Maritime Union, Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, teamsters, restaurants, plumbers, shippers, and United Electrical unions. The association has also been called to supervise collective bargaining balloting, Abrams said.

May Watch Counting

The trained personnel takes over the election only under the rules and regulations of the union or by vote of the membership.

Candidates, Abrams said, are notified as to the method of counting. Numbers instead of names are used. In the event it is desired, the association will allow representatives—preferably those with offices at stake—of the union to "set in" during the count.

"We have found," Abrams said, "that there is an equalization in counting ballots."

"In any count of ballots," Abrams said, "there is some error. The count is not 100 per cent correct but I'd say it is 99.9 per cent."

That recount, Abrams stated, was the only one conducted to date.

While the Honest Ballot Association has no counterpart, Abrams said he would be glad to see similar organizations formed in larger cities where corruption at the polls is often revealed.

The election by the TWUA here will continue through today and ballots will be counted by the association Thursday. The winning candidate must receive a majority vote. In the event a majority is not received, a run off would probably be held next week, Abrams said. The association staff would remain here to supervise the second election.

Union spokesmen said yesterday 8,700 members are eligible to vote and recalled that 4,000 cast ballots in the 1947 election. An even larger turn out is expected this year, they said.

been signed but he only evades the issue. Mr. Coleman and Mr. Barley still have the blanks to sign.

"His statement merely confirms the charges. They are not denied.

All Are Opposed

"Our whole ticket is opposed to the Taft-Hartley Act and we will work for its repeal. But first of all we must clean our own house so as to be in a better position to fight the act," he continued.

"Whenever I make contract demands they will not be made on a personal basis but according to the will of the membership," he concluded.

Aldridge said that John G. Thomas, business manager, has signed and that all those running on his slate are prepared to sign if elected.

County Red Cross Campaign Quota To Be $27,580

Drive Is Scheduled First Week In March

Allegany County's quota in the 1948 annual Red Cross fund campaign will be $27,580, Gorman E. Getty, campaign chairman, announced yesterday at a meeting of the steering committee of the county Red Cross chapter.

The quota was formally accepted by the steering committee, composed of chairmen of previous Red Cross drives, and by the county branches.

Pointing out that the budget of Allegany County Red Cross chapter is expected to amount to $20,000 during the current year, Getty said every effort will be made to oversubscribe the quota.

He explained that next year's Red Cross expenses are expected to be heavier than at present in view of the increasing work load of cases involving veterans and those still in military service.

Getty emphasized that the chapter is working on a minimum budget because voluntary service is provided by county workers.

He said the campaign will be held during the first week in March. Committee chairmen and their quotas, and the various goals to be assigned to county branches, will be announced later.

Representatives of the steering committee attending the meeting at the Postoffice Building were Chief Judge William A. Huster, chairman; Joseph Naughton, Mrs. George Henderson and Mrs. Harry Beneman, chapter chairman.

Branch chairmen present were Miss Coletta McNamee, Mt. Savage; Mrs. Ferman Moreland, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Mrs. J. C. Cobey, Frostburg; Miss Eleanor Sloan, Lonaconing; and Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Eckhart. Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the chapter, also attended.

Ice Skating Party At Gephart To Aid March Of Dimes

Exhibition Planned At Affair Tonight

A public ice skating party for the benefit of the March of Dimes fund will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Gephart Skating Rink, Frederick Street, under the sponsorship of the Gephart Playground Association, according to E. M. Kirk, president of the association.

W. Edward Eichner, chairman of arrangements, sadi last night the association realizes the worthiness of the March of Dimes campaign, and "we believe that a skating party for children and adults may help raise funds to help the crippled children who can't skate."

A program has been arranged, Eichner said, including exhibition skating by Fred Beck, well known local skating champion; Gale Townsend, Frostburg, another expert on the ice; and Miss Rose Cotino, York, Pa., high school teacher, now teaching shorthand at Allegany High School. Miss Cotino is described as a speed skater and an expert.

The party will begin on the gaily flood-lighted skating rink, with a grand march led by Miss Anne Tenant, principal of the school and Leo Wilson, a member of the association. As the skaters pass the March of Dimes box, each will drop his or her contribution, and a collection will be taken among the spectators, Eichner said. Hot refreshments will be served by members of the association at a convenient stand, and all money realized at the affair will go to the March of Dimes campaign.

Eichner said invitations have been extended to Mayor Thomas S. Post, this city, and Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, who will be introduced by Somerville Nicholson, master of ceremonies.

Eichner said the rink is open to children and adults alike, and the exhibition will be of interest to all, whether they skate or just plan to watch the festivities.

City's Disaster Plan Of Red Cross Is Being Revised

Committee To Meet Tonight At City Hall

The disaster plan of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, is being revised by George Henderson, chairman of the chapter's disaster committee, and a meeting will be held in the City Hall auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss the new plan.

Judge Henderson has sent letters to chairman and vice-chairman of various sub-committees and other interested persons, advising them of the meeting. The plan is to be discussed tonight, and after any desired changes or revisions are deemed necessary, will be prepared in printed form for distribution.

Another meeting is planned for the various chapter branches, Judge Henderson said, and it is not necessary that any of the branches send representatives to the meeting tonight, except Westernport and Frostburg. However, any branch representatives who wish to attend, may do so, the chairman said.

The general plan will give full power to various chapter branches to set up their own disaster program to fit their special community conditions it was explained.

Judge Henderson said arrangements have been made with Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, for the establishment of a new flood warning signal and system. This will be explained in detail tonight and when approved will be made public so people will know when and if a flood is eminent. It is also planned to discuss special plans to meet the flood hazard and for this reason chairmen from Ridgeley and Westernport branches should be present.

The disaster chairman also stated that sub-committee chairmen should bring their vice-chairmen to the meeting, along with such members of their committee who wish to attend.

Colder Weather Predicted Today

Another dip in temperature was in store for today along with another prediction of light snow, and the thermometer last night was descending gradually toward the zero mark in the Tri-State area.

In Cumberland, where the mercury reached a maximum of 29 degrees yesterday, it had dropped to 15 degrees at 10 p. m., according to the official thermometer in Constitution Park.

The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here reported it was 12 degrees at his office at 11 p. m.

He likewise reported marks of three above zero at Thomas, W. Va., and two above at Deal, Pa., at that hour. State Police said it was 10 at Grantsville at 11 p. m.

Meanwhile, a five-inch snow predicted yesterday failed to materialize, but the Weather Bureau now forecasts up to three inches of snow in some parts of the state.

Light snow was falling and blowing in Garrett County, according to State Police, and light snow flurries were reported at Thomas and Deal.

State Police reported all main roads clear, but said some side roads in Garrett County are blocked and chains are needed for driving on others.

Allegany County roads were described as clear, but chains were advised on little-used side roads.

Man And Woman To Be Questioned In Check Case

Chicagoan Denies Woman Involved

Arrested Monday, Elmer Ray Taylor, Chicago, and Isabel E. Henn, Frostburg, will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney this morning for questioning in connection with three allegedly bad checks Taylor is said to have passed in the city, police said last night.

Detective Lt. Edwin Lilya said Taylor presented checks for a total of $84.50 at three different establishments Monday and had them cashed. All the checks were drawn on the First National Bank of Scottdale, Pa.

At Reinhart's Furniture Store in South Cumberland, Taylor presented a check for $40 in payment for a lamp costing $4.50, police said, adding that another check, for $45, was cashed by Nelson W. Russler and a third check, for $4.50, was cashed by Chaney's Cigar Store.

Officers said Taylor told them a trucking firm for which he worked owed him for 11 weeks' expenses and he cashed the checks to get the money.

He explained that through a legacy he and his sister have an account in a bank, and that his sister and another party operate the trucking business, using some of his money in the firm, according to police.

Lt. Lilya said Taylor denies that the Henn woman who was with him when he was arrested on Front Street, is involved.

Yesterday afternoon, Lake E. Fortner, Micaville, N. C., was arrested at the Western Union office here for Sheriff S. C. Anglin, Burnsville, N. C., who wired local police he holds two warrants for Fortner's arrest on a forgery charge.

Fortner told local police yesterday that he will waive extradition to Burnsville.

Cumberland To Be Tied In With New Power Plant To Be Built In Virginia

Plans for building a six and one-half million dollar steam-electric power plant on the Shenandoah River approximately one mile from Riverton, Va., were outlined yesterday by R. Paul Smith, president of the Northern Virginia Power Company at a Front Royal, Va., luncheon meeting attended by civic officials and business leaders of the northern Virginia area.

The new power plant at Riverton, Va., is expected to be in full operation by December 1948. It will become the 17th one in the Potomac Edison System.

Company officials describe the planned Riverton plant as having a generating capability of 38,000 kilowatts. They say that it is so designed that its generating capacity can readily be increased later to four times the original capacity if such expansion should become necessary.

It was also revealed that an additional $1,580,000 will be spent by PE on 67 miles of new high voltage transmission line and substation projects companion to the new power plant project. These new lines, which will carry electricity at 132,000 volts, will run from the new plant to Cumberland, and from the plant to Double Gate, Va. In each instance they will tie the Riverton plant in with the system's 16 other power plants and its inter-connections with other utilities companies in the west and north.

Mark McCauley Will Be Taken To Death House At Moundsville Today

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va.—Mark McCauley, 36-year-old, one-time Davis strip miner, condemned to hang for the fatal shooting of a West Virginia State Police sergeant, was to be transferred to the death house at West Virginia State Penitentiary today.

Still hopeful for executive clemency McCauley retains his normal demeanor, which is a contrast to his speechless and unusual behavior that prompted Gov. Clarence W. Meadows to postpone the execution last month.

McCauley is scheduled to go to the gallows at 9 p. m. Friday for the murder of Sgt. Joseph Horne, who with Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter was shot and killed while trying to take McCauley to jail on a charge of stealing a truck.

Warden Orel J. Skeen said McCauley requested and received a small radio for his cell and spends a great deal of time listening to the variety of programs.

The prisoner also spends considerable time daily writing letters to relatives, the warden added, and also devotes time to reading the Bible. He has had several talks with the Rev. E. M. Flanigan, the prison's Protestant chaplain.

McCauley's father, the Rev. R. A. McCauley, has been to see the prisoney once or twice before Christmas, but prison officials said he has received no recent visitors.

Authorities said McCauley has never discussed his guilt or innocence, but remains hopeful that he will be spared the extreme penalty. Gov. Meadows has not indicated what, if any action, he will take in the case, although McCauley has been under the observation of a psychiatrist for sometime.

County Board To Aid Veterans In Housing Survey

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday pledged their cooperation and assistance to local county veteran organizations and the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, in a plan to conduct a survey of 9,000 veterans of this county, to determine veterans' housing needs.

James Lazzati, Baltimore, executive secretary of the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, and Thomas B. Finan, this city, a member of the commission, appeared before the board and outlined the plan decided upon by veteran leaders at a meeting Monday night.

Lazzati entails the mailing of a questionnaire to all members of all veteran organizations in this county, with a request to have the information completed and returned, so that a reasonably accurate picture of the county's housing needs might be obtained. The questionnaire is being prepared by a committee appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Finan and Lazzati explained that the veterans plan to finance the cost of preparing the questionnaire and addressing the envelopes and asked the commissioners to defray the cost of the postage.

The Board agreed that the 9,000 letters will be stamped at the Court House and mailed from there.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said the information which can be obtained from such a survey will be valuable to the county as well as the Housing Commission.

William H. Lemmert, veteran and member of the Board, also approved the idea, saying such information as may be obtained from the survey should help the Commission evolve a plan which will aid in easing the housing shortage.

Commissioner James Holmes said there is a housing shortage in the county and definite information is the first step in finding a solution.

Lazzati also appeared before the Mayor and City Council here and met with representatives of county veteran organizations this week, on his visit to Cumberland. He returned yesterday afternoon to Baltimore.

Coal Truck Hits Rear Of Bus In Crash At LaVale

Boy Is Injured When Hit By Car

A loaded coal truck and a Cumberland and Westernport bus were damaged when the former crashed against the rear of the carrier on Route 40 about 50 yards east of the State Police barracks in LaVale yesterday at 3:30 p. m., State Police reported last night.

Trooper Harry Bosley, who investigated, said the bus, driven by John Harrison Lewis, Frostburg, was slowing to stop on a run to Cumberland, and that the truck, operated by William Henry Thomas, Moscow, crashed against the rear of the vehicle.

Coal spilled over the top of the truck cab to the highway. Damage to the truck, much of it to the cab, was estimated at $200 and damage to the bus was placed at about $100.

None of the eight to 10 passengers on the bus was injured, according to Trooper Bosley, and neither was either of two occupants of the truck.

Thomas was charged with reckless driving.

Only one-way traffic was possible until the damaged vehicles and coal were cleared away.

Less than an hour later, a seven-year-old boy, Donald Wilson, son of T. D. Wilson, Lonaconing, was slightly injured when hit by an automobile near his home. He was treated for bruises by a physician.

Trooper Bosley, who also investigated this accident, said the boy, playing on a snow bank, darted to the highway from behind a parked truck.

The front bumper of the automobile police said was driven by James Brennan Mills, Route 1, Frostburg, hit the youngster, despite Mills' effort to avoid striking him.

Mills, the officer said, headed across Route 36 toward a fence to avoid hitting the youngster, and his car was almost completely off the read when the accident occurred. No charges were filed against him and Trooper Bosley termed the accident "unavoidable."

Released On Bond

State Police filed a charge of reckless driving against Harry William Hershiser, rear of 507 Dilley Street, after his automobile overturned on Valley Road at 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

An achievement certificate and gold medal accompany the award, given to DeWitt for his beekeeping project entered in the miscellaneous classification. Winners were announced at the annual Farm Bureau Week meeting held in Baltimore.

Entrants were rated on the basis of a score card, with emphasis placed on labor, income and a project story.

Holden Arranges Meeting Today On Dairy Dispute

James A. Holden, Washington, federal conciliator, will meet this afternoon with officials of Local 924, Dairy Workers Union, AFL, and managers of five Cumberland area dairies in an eleventh-hour effort to avoid a strike threatened by the union tomorrow.

Jack F. Moore, union president, said the union has called a membership meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Moose Home and that members will either receive the terms of the settlement or get instructions on the procedure to be followed in case of a strike.

In case of a work stoppage, the union said, arrangements will be made to take care of hospitals and emergency cases.

$10,000 Bond Set For Two Men In Market Holdup

Snyder Admits He Poinied Out Victim

Charged with being accessories before the fact in the armed assault and attempted holdup of Roscoe McElfish at the A. and P. Super Market, Wineow Street, January 12, Ronald Snyder, 22, and Joseph Wesley Mills, 32, both of Newark, N. J., were ordered held under $10,000 bond each for action of the April grand jury by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday afternoon.

Both men, returned here Monday from Newark where they had been in custody, waived preliminary hearings and stood by their statements made in the office of the State's Attorney earlier yesterday.

Snyder, a native of Cumberland, who was described by County Investigator Terrance J. Boyle as the "blueprint man" in the holdup, and Mills admitted they were aware of plans to rob McElfish at the market.

Pointed Out McElfish

Snyder admitted that he pointed out McElfish to the principals in the attempted robbery and Mills said he drove one of the automobiles from Newark to Cumberland.

In setting bond and pointing out the seriousness of the crime Magistrate Bruce told Snyder and Mills that the man to whom McElfish was pointed out was armed and McElfish "could have been killed. That would have been murder.

"You came here to Cumberland," said Magistrate Bruce. "It's a little shocking that you would point out a man the ultimate result of which could have been the death of him."

Snyder told authorities that he worked as a short order cook in a Newark eating place and knew Joseph and Gabriel Cunha, Joseph Minella, Daniel D'Wulit and Eddie Pavlisko, all now under arrest, along with Ellen "Honey" Sona.

Pavlisko is held by Newark authorities and the others are being held in the county jail here, Joseph Cunha in default of $3,000 bond and the others in default of $2,000 bond each.

Authorities quoted Snyder as telling them that some of the group "hung out" at the establishment where he worked and frequently asked him where they could "get some easy money."

Visited Grandmother

Snyder said he came to Cumberland on Christmas Eve to visit his grandmother, stayed until New Year's Eve, and in the course of his visit had occasion to visit the super market and noticed McElfish.

When he returned to Newark and again was questioned about getting "easy money," Snyder told the group about the super market in Cumberland, officers said, adding that Snyder told them he did not believe they would travel as far as this city.

However, his story continued, they decided to come to Cumberland, and persuaded him to come along so he could point out McElfish to them, and he did so.

He said he, Pavlisko and Mills returned to Newark in the latter's car after the robbery attempt failed.

Payne Declares Coleman Issues Are Demagogish

Rayon Head Deplores Election Statement

Declaring contract improvements proposed Sunday by William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, as "demagogish", Herbert W. Payne, New York, rayon director for the TWUA said yesterday it was "a mistake to inject this kind of proposal into a local election".

He estimated that Coleman's proposals would amount to a wage increase of 53 to 55 per cent at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America and are not obtainable at this time.

The six hour day and a 25 cents an hour increase are worthy goals, he added, but "I don't believe the workers can expect to secure either thing at this time."

Coleman's letter said the local union wanted the Rayon Advisory Council convened so that contract demands for various companies may be considered. The communication then declared that Local 1874 members are interested in a six-day week, a 25-cent an hour increase and longer vacations.

Playford Aldridge, who is opposing Coleman for president in the current election, maintains that the union has not discussed or fixed any demands and that the membership only authorized the request for a council meeting.

Payne said the usual procedure is for the council to meet and hear suggestions from all groups and after a decision is reached to make a public announcement of the program adopted.

"It sounds somewhat demagoguish to make such proposals," said Payne. "I have heard of no responsible labor leader in the past year propose a 30-hour week. It is a worthy long-time objective but does not fit into the current picture. There has been no decision whatsoever on a demand for a 25-cent an hour increase."

Will Meet Soon

Payne said the rayon council will meet late in February or early March.

Answering a charge by Aldridge that Joseph Barley, recording secretary, as well as he, have not signed anti-Communist affidavits as required under the Taft-Hartley Act, Coleman said that neither Philip Murray, CIO President, nor John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, have signed.

Aldridge asserted today that neither Lewis nor Murray were ordered by their local or national unions to sign.

"After all," said Aldridge, "an officer is merely an instrument which carries out the will of the membership. Mr. Coleman does not explain why the affidavits have not

County Red Cross Campaign Quota To Be $27,580

Drive Is Scheduled First Week In March

Allegany County's quota in the 1948 annual Red Cross fund campaign will be $27,580, Gorman E. Getty, campaign chairman, announced yesterday at a meeting of the steering committee of the county Red Cross chapter.

The quota was formally accepted by the steering committee, composed of chairmen of previous Red Cross drives, and by the county branches.

Pointing out that the budget of Allegany County Red Cross chapter is expected to amount to $20,000 during the current year, Getty said every effort will be made to oversubscribe the quota.

He explained that next year's Red Cross expenses are expected to be heavier than at present in view of the increasing work load of cases involving veterans and those still in military service.

Getty emphasized that the chapter is working on a minimum budget because voluntary service is provided by county workers.

He said the campaign will be held during the first week in March. Committee chairmen and their quotas, and the various goals to be assigned to county branches, will be announced later.

Representatives of the steering committee attending the meeting at the Postoffice Building were Chief Judge William A. Huster, chairman; Joseph Naughton, Mrs. George Henderson and Mrs. Harry Beneman, chapter chairman.

Branch chairmen present were Miss Coletta McNamee, Mt. Savage; Mrs. Perman Moreland, Ridgeley, W. Va.; Mrs. J. C. Cobey, Frostburg; Miss Eleanor Sloan, Lonaconing; and Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Eckhart. Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary of the chapter, also attended.

Ice Skating Party At Gephart To Aid March Of Dimes

Exhibition Planned At Affair Tonight

A public ice skating party for the benefit of the March of Dimes fund will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Gephart Skating Rink, Frederick Street, under the sponsorship of the Gephart Playground Association, according to E. M. Kirk, president of the association.

W. Edward Eichner, chairman of arrangements, said last night the association realizes the worthiness of the March of Dimes campaign, and "we believe that a skating party for children and adults may help raise funds to help the crippled children who can't skate."

A program has been arranged, Eichner said, including exhibition skating by Fred Beck, well known local skating champion; Gale Townsend, Frostburg, another expert on the ice; and Miss Rose Cotino, York, Pa., high school teacher, now teaching shorthand at Allegany High School. Miss Cotino is described as a speed skater and an expert.

The party will begin on the gaily flood-lighted skating rink, with a grand march led by Miss Anne Tenant, principal of the school and Leo Wilson, a member of the association. As the skaters pass the March of Dimes box, each will drop his or her contribution, and a collection will be taken among the spectators, Eichner said. Hot refreshments will be served by members of the association at a convenient stand, and all money realized at the affair will go to the March of Dimes campaign.

Eichner said invitations have been extended to Mayor Thomas S. Post, this city, and Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, who will be introduced by Somerville Nicholson, master of ceremonies.

Eichner said the rink is open to children and adults alike, and the exhibition will be of interest to all, whether they skate or just plan to watch the festivities.

City's Disaster Plan Of Red Cross Is Being Revised

Committee To Meet Tonight At City Hall

The disaster plan of Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, is being revised by George Henderson, chairman of the chapter's disaster committee, and a meeting will be held in the City Hall auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock to discuss the new plan.

Judge Henderson has sent letters to chairman and vice-chairman of various sub-committees and other interested persons, advising them of the meeting. The plan is to be discussed tonight, and after any desired changes or revisions are deemed necessary, will be prepared in printed form for distribution.

Another meeting is planned for the various chapter branches, Judge Henderson said, and it is not necessary that any of the branches send representatives to the meeting tonight, except Westernport and Frostburg. However, any branch representatives who wish to attend, may do so, the chairman said.

The general plan will give full power to various chapter branches to set up their own disaster program to fit their special community conditions it was explained.

Judge Henderson said arrangements have been made with Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, for the establishment of a new flood warning signal and system. This will be explained in detail tonight and when approved will be made public so people will know when and if a flood is eminent. It is also planned to discuss special plans to meet the flood hazard and for this reason chairmen from Ridgeley and Westernport branches should be present.

The disaster chairman also stated that sub-committee chairmen should bring their vice-chairmen to the meeting, along with such members of their committee who wish to attend.

Colder Weather Predicted Today

Another dip in temperature was in store for today along with another prediction of light snow, and the thermometer last night was descending gradually toward the zero mark in the Tri-State area.

In Cumberland, where the mercury reached a maximum of 29 degrees yesterday, it had dropped to 15 degrees at 10 p. m., according to the official thermometer in Constitution Park.

The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here reported it was 12 degrees at his office at 11 p. m.

He likewise reported marks of three above zero at Thomas, W. Va., and two above at Deal, Pa., at that hour. State Police said it was 10 at Grantsville at 11 p. m.

Meanwhile, a five-inch snow predicted yesterday failed to materialize, but the Weather Bureau now forecasts up to three inches of snow in some parts of the state.

Light snow was falling and blowing in Garrett County, according to State Police, and light snow flurries were reported at Thomas and Deal.

State Police reported all main roads clear, but said some side roads in Garrett County are blocked and chains are needed for driving on others.

Allegany County roads were described as clear, but chains were advised on little-used side roads.

Man And Woman To Be Questioned In Check Case

Chicagoan Denies Woman Involved

Arrested Monday, Elmer Ray Taylor, Chicago, and Isabel E. Henn, Frostburg, will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney this morning for questioning in connection with three allegedly bad checks Taylor is said to have passed in the city, police said last night.

Detective Lt. Edwin Lilya said Taylor presented checks for a total of $84.50 at three different establishments Monday and had them cashed. All the checks were drawn on the First National Bank of Scottdale, Pa.

At Reinhart's Furniture Store in South Cumberland, Taylor presented a check for $40 in payment for a lamp costing $4.50, police said, adding that another check, for $45, was cashed by Nelson W. Russler and a third check, for $4.50, was cashed by Chaney's Cigar Store.

Officers said Taylor told them a trucking firm for which he worked owed him for 11 weeks' expenses and he cashed the checks to get the money.

He explained that through a legacy he and his sister have an account in a bank, and that his sister and another party operate the trucking business, using some of his money in the firm, according to police.

Lt. Lilya said Taylor denies that the Henn woman who was with him when he was arrested on Front Street, is involved.

Yesterday afternoon, Lake E. Fortner, Micaville, N. C., was arrested at the Western Union office here for Sheriff S. C. Anglin, Burnsville, N. C., who wired local police he holds two warrants for Fortner's arrest on a forgery charge.

Fortner told local police yesterday that he will waive extradition to Burnsville.

Cumberland To Be Tied In With New Power Plant To Be Built In Virginia

Plans for building a six and one-half million dollar steam-electric power plant on the Shenandoah River approximately one mile from Riverton, Va., were outlined yesterday by R. Paul Smith, president of the Northern Virginia Power Company at a Front Royal, Va., luncheon meeting attended by civic officials and business leaders of the northern Virginia area.

The new power plant at Riverton, Va., is expected to be in full operation by December 1948. It will become the 17th one in the Potomac Edison System.

Company officials describe the planned Riverton plant as having a generating capability of 38,000 kilowatts. They say that it is so designed that its generating capacity can readily be increased later to four times the original capacity if such expansion should become necessary.

It was also revealed that an additional $1,580,000 will be spent by PE on 67 miles of new high voltage transmission line and substation projects companion to the new power plant project. These new lines, which will carry electricity at 132,000 volts, will run from the new plant to Cumberland, and from the plant to Double Gate, Va. In each instance they will tie the Riverton plant in with the system's 16 other power plants and its inter-connections with other utilities companies in the west and north.

Mark McCauley Will Be Taken To Death House At Moundsville Today

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va.—Mark McCauley, 36-year-old, one-time Davis strip miner, condemned to hang for the fatal shooting of a West Virginia State Police sergeant, was to be transferred to the death house at West Virginia State Penitentiary today.

Still hopeful for executive clemency McCauley retains his normal demeanor, which is a contrast to his speechless and unusual behavior that prompted Gov. Clarence W. Meadows to postpone the execution last month.

McCauley is scheduled to go to the gallows at 9 p. m. Friday for the murder of Sgt. Joseph Horne, who with Tucker County Sheriff O. Gay Hovatter was shot and killed while trying to take McCauley to jail on a charge of stealing a truck.

Warden Orel J. Skeen said McCauley requested and received a small radio for his cell and spends a great deal of time listening to the variety of programs.

The prisoner also spends considerable time daily writing letters to relatives, the warden added, and also devotes time to reading the Bible. He has had several talks with the Rev. E. M. Flanigan, the prison's Protestant chaplain.

McCauley's father, the Rev. R. A. McCauley, has been to see the prisoney once or twice before Christmas, but prison officials said he has received no recent visitors.

Authorities said McCauley has never discussed his guilt or innocence, but remains hopeful that he will be spared the extreme penalty. Gov. Meadows has not indicated what, if any action, he will take in the case, although McCauley has been under the observation of a psychiatrist for sometime.

County Board To Aid Veterans In Housing Survey

Allegany County Commissioners yesterday pledged their cooperation and assistance to local county veteran organizations and the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, in a plan to conduct a survey of 9,000 veterans of this county, to determine veterans' housing needs.

James Lazzati, Baltimore, executive secretary of the Maryland Veterans Housing Commission, and Thomas B. Finan, this city, a member of the commission, appeared before the board and outlined the plan decided upon by veteran leaders at a meeting Monday night.

Lazzati entails the mailing of a questionnaire to all members of all veteran organizations in this county, with a request to have the information completed and returned, so that a reasonably accurate picture of the county's housing needs might be obtained. The questionnaire is being prepared by a committee appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Finan and Lazzati explained that the veterans plan to finance the cost of preparing the questionnaire and addressing the envelopes and asked the commissioners to defray the cost of the postage.

The Board agreed that the 9,000 letters will be stamped at the Court House and mailed from there.

Charles N. Wilkinson, president of the Board, said the information which can be obtained from such a survey will be valuable to the county as well as the Housing Commission.

William H. Lemmert, veteran and member of the Board, also approved the idea, saying such information as may be obtained from the survey should help the Commission evolve a plan which will aid in easing the housing shortage.

Commissioner James Holmes said there is a housing shortage in the county and definite information is the first step in finding a solution.

Lazzati also appeared before the Mayor and City Council here and met with representatives of county veteran organizations this week, on his visit to Cumberland. He returned yesterday afternoon to Baltimore.

Coal Truck Hits Rear Of Bus In Crash At LaVale

Boy Is Injured When Hit By Car

A loaded coal truck and a Cumberland and Westernport bus were damaged when the former crashed against the rear of the carrier on Route 40 about 50 yards east of the State Police barracks in LaVale yesterday at 3:30 p. m., State Police reported last night.

Trooper Harry Bosley, who investigated, said the bus, driven by John Harrison Lewis, Frostburg, was slowing to stop on a run to Cumberland, and that the truck, operated by William Henry Thomas, Moscow, crashed against the rear of the vehicle.

Coal spilled over the top of the truck cab to the highway. Damage to the truck, much of it to the cab, was estimated at $200 and damage to the bus was placed at about $100.

None of the eight to 10 passengers on the bus was injured, according to Trooper Bosley, and neither was either of two occupants of the truck.

Thomas was charged with reckless driving.

Boy Is Struck

Only one-way traffic was possible until the damaged vehicles and coal were cleared away.

Less than an hour later, a seven-year-old boy, Donald Wilson, son of T. D. Wilson, Lonaconing, was slightly injured when hit by an automobile near his home. He was treated for bruises by a physician.

Trooper Bosley, who also investigated this accident, said the boy, playing on a snow bank, darted to the highway from behind a parked truck.

The front bumper of the automobile police said was driven by James Brennan Mills, Route 1, Frostburg, hit the youngster, despite Mills' effort to avoid striking him.

Mills, the officer said, headed across Route 36 toward a fence to avoid hitting the youngster, and his car was almost completely off the read when the accident occurred. No charges were filed against him and Trooper Bosley termed the accident "unavoidable."

Released On Bond

State Police filed a charge of reckless driving against Harry William Hershiser, rear of 507 Dilley Street, after his automobile overturned on Valley Road at 12:40 a. m. yesterday.

Trooper William McElfish who, with Trooper G. M. Rotruck investigated, said Hershiser's car ran up a bank and upset on its right side. The officer added that he and Rotruck pulled Hershiser from the machine after the accident.

He was released from the city jail yesterday on bond of $16.45 pending a hearing Friday in Trial Magistrates Court.

Lee DeWitt Wins Project Contest Of Farm Bureau

Certificate, Medal Accompany Award

First place award in the Maryland Farm Bureau project contest has been received by Lee DeWitt, an Allegany High School senior and Future Farmers of America member, according to James H. House, vocational agriculture instructor.

An achievement certificate and gold medal accompany the award, given to DeWitt for his beekeeping project entered in the miscellaneous classification. Winners were announced at the annual Farm Bureau Week meeting held in Baltimore.

Entrants were rated on the basis of a score card, with emphasis placed on labor, income and a project story.

DeWitt lives at Bowling Green where most of his honey is sold locally. He has some bees at Bowling Green, but the majority are moved from place to place seasonally for pollination and honey-making. He carries about 150 colonies of bees for his project, harvesting 5,700 pounds of honey in addition to orchard pollination.

All vocational agriculture students in Allegany County high schools are required to carry a home project supplementary to their school instructions, such as diversified farming, beef cattle, dairy cattle, poultry, swine, cereal crops, truck crops, tobacco and miscellaneous.

Students must keep an adequate record book of their project showing parent agreements, partnership arrangement, an inventory, record of expenses, record of self labor, man labor and horse labor, along with the cost of the land and buildings used at prevailing rental rates, tractor and truck expenses and a record of cash and non-cash receipts.

Students also must write a story of their project in the form of an early history of their problems, solutions and plans for the future.

Holden Arranges Meeting Today On Dairy Dispute

James A. Holden, Washington, federal conciliator, will meet this afternoon with officials of Local 924, Dairy Workers Union, AFL, and managers of five Cumberland area dairies in an eleventh-hour effort to avoid a strike threatened by the union tomorrow.

The meeting, the union said, has been called by Mr. Holden for 3:30 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel. Holden announced a week ago that the contract talks would resume today after a 12-hour conference with the parties.

Union officials said the union has definitely set the strike deadline for Wednesday night and that the 100 odd workers employed by the firms will not report for work Thursday unless a contract is agreed upon.

Jack F. Moore, union president, said the union has called a membership meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Moose Home and that members will either receive the terms of the settlement or get instructions on the procedure to be followed in case of a strike.

In case of a work stoppage, the union said, arrangements will be made to take care of hospitals and emergency cases.

$10,000 Bond Set For Two Men In Market Holdup

Snyder Admits He Pointed Out Victim

Charged with being accessories before the fact in the armed assault and attempted holdup of Roscoe McElfish at the A. and P. Super Market, Wineow Street, January 12, Ronald Snyder, 22, and Joseph Wesley Mills, 32, both of Newark, N. J., were ordered held under $10,000 bond each for action of the April grand jury by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday afternoon.

Both men, returned here Monday from Newark where they had been in custody, waived preliminary hearings and stood by their statements made in the office of the State's Attorney earlier yesterday.

Snyder, a native of Cumberland, who was described by County Investigator Terrance J. Boyle as the "blueprint man" in the holdup, and Mills admitted they were aware of plans to rob McElfish at the market.

Pointed Out McElfish

Snyder admitted that he pointed out McElfish to the principals in the attempted robbery and Mills said he drove one of the automobiles from Newark to Cumberland.

In setting bond and pointing out the seriousness of the crime Magistrate Bruce told Snyder and Mills that the man to whom McElfish was pointed out was armed and McElfish "could have been killed. That would have been murder.

"You came here to Cumberland," said Magistrate Bruce. "It's a little shocking that you would point out a man the ultimate result of which could have been the death of him."

Snyder told authorities that he worked as a short order cook in a Newark eating place and knew Joseph and Gabriel Cunha, Joseph Minella, Daniel D'Wulit and Eddie Pavlisko, all now under arrest, along with Ellen "Honey" Sona.

Pavlisko is held by Newark authorities and the others are being held in the county jail here, Joseph Cunha in default of $3,000 bond and the others in default of $2,000 bond each.

Authorities quoted Snyder as telling them that some of the group "hung out" at the establishment where he worked and frequently asked him where they could "get some easy money."

Visited Grandmother

Snyder said he came to Cumberland on Christmas Eve to visit his grandmother, stayed until New Year's Eve, and in the course of his visit had occasion to visit the super market and noticed McElfish.

When he returned to Newark and again was questioned about getting "easy money," Snyder told the group about the super market in Cumberland, officers said, adding that Snyder told them he did not believe they would travel as far as this city.

However, his story continued, they decided to come to Cumberland, and persuaded him to come along so he could point out McElfish to them, and he did so.

He said he, Pavlisko and Mills returned to Newark in the latter's car after the robbery attempt failed.

Payne Declares Coleman Issues Are Demagogish

Rayon Head Deplores Election Statement

Declaring contract improvements proposed Sunday by William Boyd Coleman, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, as "demagogish", Herbert W. Payne, New York, rayon director for the TWUA said yesterday it was "a mistake to inject this kind of proposal into a local election".

He estimated that Coleman's proposals would amount to a wage increase of 53 to 55 per cent at the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America and are not obtainable at this time.

The six hour day and a 25 cents an hour increase are worthy goals, he added, but "I don't believe the workers can expect to secure either thing at this time."

Coleman's letter said the local union wanted the Rayon Advisory Council convened so that contract demands for various companies may be considered. The communication then declared that Local 1874 members are interested in a six-day week, a 25-cent an hour increase and longer vacations.

Playford Aldridge, who is opposing Coleman for president in the current election, maintains that the union has not discussed or fixed any demands and that the membership only authorized the request for a council meeting.
